Sec. 4207. (1) Each customer or collecting bank who obtains payment or acceptance of an item and each prior customer and collecting bank warrants to the payor bank or other payor who in good faith pays or accepts the item that

(a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title; and

(b) he has no knowledge that the signature of the maker or drawer is unauthorized, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith

(i) to a maker with respect to the maker's own signature; or

(ii) to a drawer with respect to the drawer's own signature, whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or

(iii) to an acceptor of an item if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance or obtained the acceptance without knowledge that the drawer's signature was unauthorized; and

(c) the item has not been materially altered, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith

- (i) to the maker of a note; or
- (ii) to the drawer of a draft whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or
- (iii) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made prior to the acceptance if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance, even though the acceptance provided "payable as originally drawn" or equivalent terms; or
- (iv) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made after the acceptance.

(2) Each customer and collecting bank who transfers an item and receives a settlement or other consideration for it warrants to his transferee and to any subsequent collecting bank who takes the item in good faith that

- (a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title and the transfer is otherwise rightful; and
- (b) all signatures are genuine or authorized; and
- (c) the item has not been materially altered; and
- (d) no defense of any party is good against him; and
- (e) he has no knowledge of any insolvency proceeding instituted with respect to the maker or acceptor or the drawer of an unaccepted item.

In addition each customer and collecting bank so transferring an item and receiving a settlement or other consideration engages that upon dishonor and any necessary notice of dishonor and protest he will take up the item.

(3) The warranties and the engagement to honor set forth in the 2 preceding subsections arise notwithstanding the absence of indorsement or words of guaranty or warranty in the transfer or presentment and a collecting bank remains liable for their breach despite remittance to its transferor. Damages for breach of such warranties or engagement to honor shall not exceed the consideration received by the customer or collecting bank responsible plus finance charges and expenses related to the item, if any.

(4) Unless a claim for breach of warranty under this section is made within a reasonable time after the person claiming learns of the breach, the person liable is discharged to the extent of any loss caused by the delay in making claim.

440.4208 Security interest of collecting bank in items, accompanying documents or proceeds.

Sec. 4208. (1) A bank has a security interest in an item and any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either

- (a) in case of an item deposited in an account to the extent to which credit given for the item has been withdrawn or applied;
- (b) in case of an item for which it has given credit available for withdrawal as of right, to the extent of the credit given whether or not the credit is drawn upon and whether or not there is a right of charge-back; or
- (c) if it makes an advance on or against the item.

(2) When credit which has been given for several items received at one time or pursuant to a single agreement is withdrawn or applied in part the security interest remains upon all the items, any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either. For the purpose of this section, credits first given are first withdrawn.

(3) Receipt by a collecting bank of a final settlement for an item is a realization on its security interest in the item, accompanying documents and proceeds. To the extent and so long as the bank does not receive final settlement for the item or give up possession of the item or accompanying documents for purposes other than collection, the security interest continues and is subject to the provisions of article 9 except that

(a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable (subsection (1)(b) of section 9203); and

(b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and

(c) the security interest has priority over conflicting perfected security interests in the item, accompanying documents or proceeds.

440.4209 Bank with security interest as holder in due course.

Sec. 4209. For purposes of determining its status as a holder in due course, the bank has given value to the extent that it has a security interest in an item provided that the bank otherwise complies with the requirements of section 3302 on what constitutes a holder in due course.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 259, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4210 Presentment by notice of item not payable by, through, or at a bank; liability of secondary parties.

Sec. 4210. (1) Unless otherwise instructed, a collecting bank may present an item not payable by, through or at a bank by sending to the party to accept or pay a written notice that the bank holds the item for acceptance or payment. The notice must be sent in time to be received on or before the day when presentment is due and the bank must meet any requirement of the party to accept or pay under section 3505 by the close of the bank's next banking day after it knows of the requirement.

(2) Where presentment is made by notice and neither honor nor request for compliance with a requirement under section 3505 is received by the close of business on the day after maturity or in the case of demand items by the close of business on the third banking day after notice was sent, the presenting bank may treat the item as dishonored and charge any secondary party by sending him notice of the facts.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 259, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4211 Remittance; media; provisional and final settlement.

Sec. 4211. (1) A collecting bank may take in settlement of an item

(a) a check of the remitting bank or of another bank on any bank except the remitting bank; or

(b) a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of a remitting bank which is a member of or clears through a member of the same clearing house or group as the collecting bank; or

(c) appropriate authority to charge an account of the remitting bank or of another bank with the collecting bank; or

(d) if the item is drawn upon or payable by a person other than a bank, a cashier's check, certified check or other bank check or obligation.

(2) If before its midnight deadline the collecting bank properly dishonors a remittance check or authorization to charge on itself or presents or forwards for collection a remittance instrument of or on another bank which is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by it, the collecting bank is not liable to prior parties in the event of the dishonor of such check, instrument or authorization.

(3) A settlement for an item by means of a remittance instrument or authorization to charge is or becomes a final settlement as to both the person making and the person receiving the settlement

(a) if the remittance instrument or authorization to charge is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by the person receiving the settlement and in either case the person receiving the settlement acts seasonably before its midnight

deadline in presenting, forwarding for collection or paying the instrument or authorization,—at the time the remittance instrument or authorization is finally paid by the payor by which it is payable;

(b) if the person receiving the settlement has authorized remittance by a non-bank check or obligation or by a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of or a check upon the payor or other remitting bank which is not of a kind approved by subsection (1)(b),—at the time of the receipt of such remittance check or obligation; or

(c) if in a case not covered by sub-paragraphs (a) or (b) the person receiving the settlement fails to seasonably present, forward for collection, pay or return a remittance instrument or authorization to it to charge before its midnight deadline,—at such midnight deadline.

440.4212 Right to charge-back or refund.

Sec. 4212. (1) If a collecting bank has made provisional settlement with its customer for an item and itself fails by reason of dishonor, suspension of payments by a bank or otherwise to receive a settlement for the item which is or becomes final, the bank may revoke the settlement given by it, charge back the amount of any credit given for the item to its customer's account or obtain refund from its customer whether or not it is able to return the items if by its midnight deadline or within a longer reasonable time after it learns the facts it returns the item or sends notification of the facts. These rights to revoke, charge-back and obtain refund terminate if and when a settlement for the item received by the bank is or becomes final (subsection (3) of section 4211 and subsections (2) and (3) of section 4213).

(2) Within the time and manner prescribed by this section and section 4301, an intermediary or payor bank, as the case may be, may return an unpaid item directly to the depositary bank and may send for collection a draft on the depositary bank and obtain reimbursement. In such case, if the depositary bank has received provisional settlement for the item, it must reimburse the bank drawing the draft and any provisional credits for the item between banks shall become and remain final.

(3) A depositary bank which is also the payor may charge-back the amount of an item to its customer's account or obtain refund in accordance with the section governing return of an item received by a payor bank for credit on its books (section 4301).

(4) The right to charge-back is not affected by

(a) prior use of the credit given for the item; or
(b) failure by any bank to exercise ordinary care with respect to the item but any bank so failing remains liable.

(5) A failure to charge-back or claim refund does not affect other rights of the bank against the customer or any other party.

(6) If credit is given in dollars as the equivalent of the value of an item payable in a foreign currency the dollar amount of any charge-back or refund shall be calculated on the basis of the buying sight rate for the foreign currency prevailing on the day when the person entitled to the charge-back or refund learns that it will not receive payment in ordinary course.

440.4213 Final payment of items by payor bank; final credit; availability of credit for withdrawal.

Sec. 4213. (1) An item is finally paid by a payor bank when the bank has done any of the following, whichever happens first:

- (a) paid the item in cash; or
- (b) settled for the item without reserving a right to revoke the settlement and without having such right under statute, clearing house rule or agreement; or
- (c) completed the process of posting the item to the indicated account of the drawer, maker or other person to be charged therewith; or
- (d) made a provisional settlement for the item and failed to revoke the settlement in the time and manner permitted by statute, clearing house rule or agreement.

Upon a final payment under subparagraphs (b), (c) or (d) the payor bank shall be accountable for the amount of the item.

(2) If provisional settlement for an item between the presenting and payor banks is made through a clearing house or by debits or credits in an account between them, then to the extent that provisional debits or credits for the item are entered in accounts between the presenting and payor banks or between the presenting and successive prior collecting banks seriatim, they become final upon final payment of the item by the payor bank.

(3) If a collecting bank receives a settlement for an item which is or becomes final (subsection (3) of section 4211, subsection (2) of section 4213) the bank is accountable to its customer for the amount of the item and any provisional credit given for the item in an account with its customer becomes final.

(4) Subject to any right of the bank to apply the credit to an obligation of the customer, credit given by a bank for an item in an account with its customer becomes available for withdrawal as of right:

(a) in any case where the bank has received a provisional settlement for the item,—when such settlement becomes final and the bank has had a reasonable time to learn that the settlement is final;

(b) in any case where the bank is both a depository bank and a payor bank and the item is finally paid,—at the opening of the bank's second banking day following receipt of the item.

(5) A deposit of money in a bank is final when made but, subject to any right of the bank to apply the deposit to an obligation of the customer, the deposit becomes available for withdrawal as of right at the opening of the bank's next banking day following receipt of the deposit.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 261, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4214 Insolvency and preference.

Sec. 4214. (1) Any item in or coming into the possession of a payor or collecting bank which suspends payment and which item is not finally paid shall be returned by the receiver, trustee or agent in charge of the closed bank to the presenting bank or the closed bank's customer.

(2) If a payor bank finally pays an item and suspends payments without making a settlement for the item with its customer or the presenting bank which settlement is or becomes final, the owner of the item has a preferred claim against the payor bank.

(3) If a payor bank gives or a collecting bank gives or receives a provisional settlement for an item and thereafter suspends payments, the suspension does not prevent or interfere with the settlement becoming final if such finality occurs automatically upon the lapse of certain time or the happening of certain events (subsection (3) of section 4211, subsections (1)(d), (2) and (3) of section 4213).

(4) If a collecting bank receives from subsequent parties settlement for an item which settlement is or becomes final and suspends payments without making a settlement for the item with its customer which is or becomes final, the owner of the item has a preferred claim against such collecting bank.

PART 3

COLLECTION OF ITEMS: PAYOR BANKS

440.4301 Demand items; recovery of payment; time of dishonor; return of items.

Sec. 4301. (1) Where an authorized settlement for a demand item (other than a documentary draft) received by a payor bank otherwise than for immediate payment over the counter has been made before midnight of the banking day of receipt the payor bank may revoke the settlement and recover any payment if before it has made final payment (subsection (1) of section 4213) and before its midnight deadline it

(a) returns the item; or

(b) sends written notice of dishonor or nonpayment if the item is held for protest or is otherwise unavailable for return.

(2) If a demand item is received by a payor bank for credit on its books it may return such item or send notice of dishonor and may revoke any credit given or recover the amount thereof withdrawn by its customer, if it acts within the time limit and in the manner specified in the preceding subsection.

(3) Unless previous notice of dishonor has been sent an item is dishonored at the time when for purposes of dishonor it is returned or notice sent in accordance with this section.

(4) An item is returned:

(a) as to an item received through a clearing house, when it is delivered to the presenting or last collecting bank or to the clearing house or is sent or delivered in accordance with its rules; or

(b) in all other cases, when it is sent or delivered to the bank's customer or transferor or pursuant to his instructions.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 262, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4302 Payor bank; responsibility for late return of item.

Sec. 4302. In the absence of a valid defense such as breach of a presentment warranty (subsection (1) of section 4207), settlement effected or the like, if an item is presented on and received by a payor bank the bank is accountable for the amount of

(a) a demand item other than a documentary draft whether properly payable or not if the bank, in any case where it is not also the depository bank, retains the item beyond midnight of the banking day of receipt without settling for it or, regardless of whether it is also the depository bank, does not pay or return the item or send notice of dishonor until after its midnight deadline; or

(b) any other properly payable item unless within the time allowed for acceptance or payment of that item the bank either accepts or pays the item or returns it and accompanying documents.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 262, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4303 Payor bank; items subject to notice, stop-order, legal process, setoff; order in which items may be handled.

Sec. 4303. (1) Any knowledge, notice or stop-order received by, legal process served upon or setoff exercised by a payor bank, whether or not effective under other rules of law to terminate, suspend or modify the bank's right or duty to pay an item or to charge its customer's account for the item, comes too late to so terminate, suspend or modify such right or duty if the knowledge, notice, stop-order or legal process is received or served and a reasonable time for the bank to act thereon expires or the setoff is exercised after the bank has done any of the following:

- (a) accepted or certified the item;
 - (b) paid the item in cash;
 - (c) settled for the item without reserving a right to revoke the settlement and without having such right under statute, clearing house rule or agreement;
 - (d) completed the process of posting the item to the indicated account of the drawer, maker or other person to be charged therewith or otherwise has evidenced by examination of such indicated account and by action its decision to pay the item; or
 - (e) become accountable for the amount of the item under subsection (1) (d) of section 4213 and section 4302 dealing with the payor bank's responsibility for late return of items.
- (2) Subject to the provisions of subsection (1) items may be accepted, paid, certified or charged to the indicated account of its customer in any order convenient to the bank.

PART 4

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PAYOR BANK AND ITS CUSTOMER

440.4401 Payor bank; charge against customer's account.

Sec. 4401. (1) As against its customer, a bank may charge against his account any item which is otherwise properly payable from that account even though the charge creates an overdraft.

(2) A bank which in good faith makes payment to a holder may charge the indicated account of its customer according to

- (a) the original tenor of his altered item; or
- (b) the tenor of his completed item, even though the bank knows the item has been completed unless the bank has notice that the completion was improper.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 263, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4402 Payor bank; wrongful dishonor; liability to customer.

Sec. 4402. A payor bank is liable to its customer for damages proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor of an item. When the dishonor occurs through mistake liability is limited to actual damages proved. If so proximately caused and proved damages may include damages for an arrest or prosecution of the customer or other consequential damages. Whether any consequential damages are proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor is a question of fact to be determined in each case.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 263, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4403 Customer's right to stop payment; burden of proof of loss.

Sec. 4403. (1) A customer may by order to his bank stop payment of any item payable for his account but the order must be received at such time and in such manner as to afford the bank a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to any action by the bank with respect to the item described in section 4303.

(2) An oral order is binding upon the bank only for 14 calendar days unless confirmed in writing within that period. A written order is effective for only 6 months unless renewed in writing.

(3) The burden of establishing the fact and amount of loss resulting from the payment of an item contrary to a binding stop payment order is on the customer.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 263, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4404 Payment of checks more than 6 months old.

Sec. 4404. A bank is under no obligation to a customer having a checking account to pay a check, other than a certified check, which is presented more than 6 months after its date, but it may charge its customer's account for a payment made thereafter in good faith.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 263, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4405 Death or incompetence of customer.

Sec. 4405. (1) A payor or collecting bank's authority to accept, pay or collect an item or to account for proceeds of its collection if otherwise effective is not rendered ineffective by incompetence of a customer of either bank existing at the time the item is issued or its collection is undertaken if the bank does not know of an adjudication of incompetence. Neither death nor incompetence of a customer revokes such authority to accept, pay, collect or account until the bank knows of the fact of death or of an adjudication of incompetence and has reasonable opportunity to act on it.

(2) Even with knowledge a bank may for 10 days after the date of death pay or certify checks drawn on or prior to that date unless ordered to stop payment by a person claiming an interest in the account.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 263, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4406 Customer's duty to discover and report unauthorized signature or alteration.

Sec. 4406. (1) When a bank sends to its customer a statement of account accompanied by items paid in good faith in support of the debit entries or holds the statement and items pursuant to a request or instructions of its customer or otherwise in a reasonable manner makes the statement and items available to the customer, the customer must exercise reasonable care and promptness to examine the statement and items to discover his unauthorized signature or any alteration on an item and must notify the bank promptly after discovery thereof.

(2) If the bank establishes that the customer failed with respect to an item to comply with the duties imposed on the customer by subsection (1) the customer is precluded from asserting against the bank

(a) his unauthorized signature or any alteration on the item if the bank also establishes that it suffered a loss by reason of such failure; and

(b) an unauthorized signature or alteration by the same wrongdoer on any other item paid in good faith by the bank after the first item and statement was available to the customer for a reasonable period not exceeding 14 calendar days and before the bank receives notification from the customer of any such unauthorized signature or alteration.

(3) The preclusion under subsection (2) does not apply if the customer establishes lack of ordinary care on the part of the bank in paying the item(s).

(4) Without regard to care or lack of care of either the customer or the bank a customer who does not within 1 year from the time the statement and items are made available to the customer (subsection (1)) discover and report his unauthorized signature of any alteration on the face or back of the item or does not within 3 years from that time discover and report any unauthorized indorsement is precluded from asserting against the bank such unauthorized signature or indorsement or such alteration.

(5) If under this section a payor bank has a valid defense against a claim of a customer upon or resulting from payment of an item and waives or fails upon request to assert the defense the bank may not assert against any collecting bank or other prior party presenting or transferring the item a claim based upon the unauthorized signature or alteration giving rise to the customer's claim.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 264, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4407 Improper payment; subrogation of payor bank.

Sec. 4407. If a payor bank has paid an item over the stop payment order of the drawer or maker or otherwise under circumstances giving a basis for objection by the drawer or maker, to prevent unjust enrichment and only to the extent necessary to prevent loss to the bank by reason of its payment of the item, the payor bank shall be subrogated to the rights

- (a) of any holder in due course on the item against the drawer or maker; and
- (b) of the payee or any other holder of the item against the drawer or maker either on the item or under the transaction out of which the item arose; and
- (c) of the drawer or maker against the payee or any other holder of the item with respect to the transaction out of which the item arose.

PART 5

COLLECTION OF DOCUMENTARY DRAFTS

440.4501 Documentary draft; presentment, notice of dishonor.

Sec. 4501. A bank which takes a documentary draft for collection must present or send the draft and accompanying documents for presentment and upon learning that the draft has not been paid or accepted in due course must seasonably notify its customer of such fact even though it may have discounted or bought the draft or extended credit available for withdrawal as of right.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 264, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4502 Documentary draft; presentment on arrival of goods, refusal for non-arrival; notice to transferor.

Sec. 4502. When a draft or the relevant instructions require presentment "on arrival", "when goods arrive" or the like, the collecting bank need not present until in its judgment a reasonable time for arrival of the goods has expired. Refusal to pay or accept because the goods have not arrived is not dishonor; the bank must notify its transferor of such refusal but need not present the draft again until it is instructed to do so or learns of the arrival of the goods.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 265, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4503 Documentary draft; responsibility of presenting bank for documents and goods; report of reasons for dishonor; referees; expenses.

Sec. 4503. Unless otherwise instructed and except as provided in article 5 a bank presenting a documentary draft

- (a) must deliver the documents to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than 3 days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment; and
- (b) upon dishonor, either in the case of presentment for acceptance or presentment for payment, may seek and follow instructions from any referee in case of need designated in the draft or if the presenting bank does not choose to utilize his services it must use diligence and good faith to ascertain the reason for dishonor, must notify its transferor of the dishonor and of the results of its effort to ascertain the reasons therefor and must request instructions.

But the presenting bank is under no obligation with respect to goods represented by the documents except to follow any reasonable instructions seasonably received; it has a right to reimbursement for any expense incurred in following instructions and to prepayment of or indemnity for such expenses.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 265, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.4504 Documentary draft; presenting bank's right to deal with goods; lien for expenses.

Sec. 4504. (1) A presenting bank which, following the dishonor of a documentary draft, has seasonably requested instructions but does not receive them within a reasonable time may store, sell, or otherwise deal with the goods in any reasonable manner.

(2) For its reasonable expenses incurred by action under subsection (1) the presenting bank has a lien upon the goods or their proceeds, which may be foreclosed in the same manner as an unpaid seller's lien.

Sec. 5104. (1) Except as otherwise required in subsection (1) (c) of section 5102 on scope, no particular form of phrasing is required for a credit. A credit must be in writing and signed by the issuer and a confirmation must be in writing and signed by the confirming bank. A modification of the terms of a credit or confirmation must be signed by the issuer or confirming bank.

(2) A telegram may be a sufficient signed writing if it identifies its sender by an authorized authentication. The authentication may be in code and the authorized naming of the issuer in an advice of credit is a sufficient signing.

440.5105 Consideration.

Sec. 5105. No consideration is necessary to establish a credit or to enlarge or otherwise modify its terms.

440.5106 Credit; establishment, time, effect, revocation.

Sec. 5106. (1) Unless otherwise agreed a credit is established

- (a) as regards the customer as soon as a letter of credit is sent to him or the letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance is sent to the beneficiary; and
- (b) as regards the beneficiary when he receives a letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed once an irrevocable credit is established as regards the customer it can be modified or revoked only with the consent of the customer and once it is established as regards the beneficiary it can be modified or revoked only with his consent.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed after a revocable credit is established it may be modified or revoked by the issuer without notice to or consent from the customer or beneficiary.

(4) Notwithstanding any modification or revocation of a revocable credit any person authorized to honor or negotiate under the terms of the original credit is entitled to reimbursement for or honor of any draft or demand for payment duly honored or negotiated before receipt of notice of the modification or revocation and the issuer in turn is entitled to reimbursement from its customer.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 267, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5107 Advice of credit; confirmation; error in statement of terms; transmission risks.

Sec. 5107. (1) Unless otherwise specified an advising bank by advising a credit issued by another bank does not assume any obligation to honor drafts drawn or demands for payment made under the credit but it does assume obligation for the accuracy of its own statement.

(2) A confirming bank by confirming a credit becomes directly obligated on the credit to the extent of its confirmation as though it were its issuer and acquires the rights of an issuer.

(3) Even though an advising bank incorrectly advises the terms of a credit it has been authorized to advise the credit is established as against the issuer to the extent of its original terms.

(4) Unless otherwise specified the customer bears as against the issuer all risks of transmission and reasonable translation or interpretation of any message relating to a credit.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 267, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5108 Notation of credit; exhaustion of credit.

Sec. 5108. (1) A credit which specifies that any person purchasing or paying drafts drawn or demands for payment made under it must note the amount of the draft or demand on the letter or advice of credit is a "notation of credit".

(2) Under a notation credit

(a) a person paying the beneficiary or purchasing a draft or demand for payment from him acquires a right to honor only if the appropriate notation is made and by transferring or forwarding for honor the documents under the credit such a person warrants to the issuer that the notation has been made; and

(b) unless the credit or a signed statement that an appropriate notation has been made accompanies the draft or demand for payment the issuer may delay honor until evidence of notation has been procured which is satisfactory to it but its obligation and that of its customer continue for a reasonable time not exceeding 30 days to obtain such evidence.

(3) If the credit is not a notation credit

(a) the issuer may honor complying drafts or demands for payment presented to it in the order in which they are presented and is discharged pro tanto by honor of any such draft or demand;

(b) as between competing good faith purchasers of complying drafts or demands the person first purchasing has priority over a subsequent purchaser even though the later purchased draft or demand has been first honored.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 267, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5109 Issuer's obligation to customer.

Sec. 5109. (1) An issuer's obligation to its customer includes good faith and observance of any general banking usage but unless otherwise agreed does not include liability or responsibility

(a) for performance of the underlying contract for sale or other transaction between the customer and the beneficiary; or

(b) for any act or omission of any person other than itself or its own branch or for loss or destruction of a draft, demand or document in transit or in the possession of others; or

(c) based on knowledge or lack of knowledge of any usage of any particular trade.

(2) An issuer must examine documents with care so as to ascertain that on their face they appear to comply with the terms of the credit but unless otherwise agreed assumes no liability or responsibility for the genuineness, falsification or effect of any document which appears on such examination to be regular on its face.

(3) A non-bank issuer is not bound by any banking usage of which it has no knowledge.

440.5110 Availability of credit in portions; presenter's reservation of claim.

Sec. 5110. (1) Unless otherwise specified a credit may be used in portions in the discretion of the beneficiary.

(2) Unless otherwise specified a person by presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment under a credit relinquishes upon its honor all claims to the documents and a person by transferring such draft or demand or causing such presentment authorizes such relinquishment. An explicit reservation of claim makes the draft or demand noncomplying.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 268, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5111 Warranties on transfer or presentment.

Sec. 5111. (1) Unless otherwise agreed the beneficiary by transferring or presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment warrants to all interested parties that the necessary conditions of the credit have been complied with. This is in addition to any warrants arising under articles 3, 4, 7 and 8.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed a negotiating, advising, confirming, collecting or issuing bank presenting or transferring a draft or demand for payment under a credit warrants only the matters warranted by a collecting bank under article 4 and any such bank transferring a document warrants only the matters warranted by an intermediary under articles 7 and 8.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 268, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5112 Time allowed for honor or rejection; withholding honor or rejection by consent; presenter.

Sec. 5112. (1) A bank to which a documentary draft or demand for payment is presented under a credit may without dishonor of the draft, demand or credit

(a) defer honor until the close of the third banking day following receipt of the documents; and

(b) further defer honor if the presenter has expressly or impliedly consented thereto. Failure to honor within the time here specified constitutes dishonor of the draft or demand and of the credit except as otherwise provided in subsection (4) of section 5114 on conditional payment.

(2) Upon dishonor the bank may unless otherwise instructed fulfill its duty to return the draft or demand and the documents by holding them at the disposal of the presenter and sending him an advice to that effect.

(3) "Presenter" means any person presenting a draft or demand for payment for honor under a credit even though that person is a confirming bank or other correspondent which is acting under an issuer's authorization.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 288, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5113 Indemnity to induce honor, negotiation or reimbursement.

Sec. 5113. (1) A bank seeking to obtain (whether for itself or another) honor, negotiation or reimbursement under a credit may give an indemnity to induce such honor, negotiation or reimbursement.

(2) An indemnity agreement inducing honor, negotiation or reimbursement

(a) unless otherwise explicitly agreed applies to defects in the documents but not in the goods; and

(b) unless a longer time is explicitly agreed expires at the end of 10 business days following receipt of the documents by the ultimate customer unless notice of objection is sent before such expiration date. The ultimate customer may send notice of objection to the person from whom he received the documents and any bank receiving such notice is under a duty to send notice to its transferor before its midnight deadline.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 268, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5114 Issuer's duty and privilege to honor; reimbursement; rejection of documents.

Sec. 5114. (1) An issuer must honor a draft or demand for payment which complies with the terms of the relevant credit regardless of whether the goods or documents conform to the underlying contract for sale or other contract between the customer and the beneficiary. The issuer is not excused from honor of such a draft or demand by reason of an additional general term that all documents must be satisfactory to the issuer, but an issuer may require that specified documents must be satisfactory to it.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed when documents appear on their face to comply with the terms of a credit but a required document does not in fact conform to the warranties made on negotiation or transfer of a document of title (section 7507) or of a security (section 8306) or is forged or fraudulent or there is fraud in the transaction

(a) the issuer must honor the draft or demand for payment if honor is demanded by a negotiating bank or other holder of the draft or demand which has taken the draft or demand under the credit and under circumstances which would make it a holder in due course (section 3302) and in an appropriate case would make it a person to whom a document of title has been duly negotiated (section 7502) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (section 8302); and

(b) in all other cases as against its customer, an issuer acting in good faith may honor the draft or demand for payment despite notification from the customer of fraud, forgery or other defect not apparent on the face of the documents but a court of appropriate jurisdiction may enjoin such honor.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed an issuer which has duly honored a draft or demand for payment is entitled to immediate reimbursement of any payment made under the credit and to be put in effectively available funds not later than the day before maturity of any acceptance made under the credit.

(4) When a credit provides for payment by the issuer on receipt of notice that the required documents are in the possession of a correspondent or other agent of the issuer

(a) any payment made on receipt of such notice is conditional; and

(b) the issuer may reject documents which do not comply with the credit if it does so within 3 banking days following its receipt of the documents; and

(c) in the event of such rejection, the issuer is entitled by charge back or otherwise to return of the payment made.

(5) In the case covered by subsection (4) failure to reject documents within the time specified in sub-paragraph (b) constitutes acceptance of the documents and makes the payment final in favor of the beneficiary.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 269, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5115 Wrongful dishonor; damages.

Sec. 5115. (1) When an issuer wrongfully dishonors a draft or demand for payment presented under a credit the person entitled to honor has with respect to any documents the rights of a person in the position of a seller (section 2707) and may recover from the issuer the face amount of the draft or demand together with incidental damages under section 2710 on seller's incidental damages and interest but less any amount realized by resale or other use or disposition of the subject matter of the transaction. In the event no resale or other utilization is made the documents, goods or other subject matter involved in the transaction must be turned over to the issuer on payment of judgment.

(2) When an issuer wrongfully cancels or otherwise repudiates a credit before presentment of a draft or demand for payment drawn under it the beneficiary has the rights of a seller after anticipatory repudiation by the buyer under section 2610 if he learns of the repudiation in time reasonably to avoid procurement of the required documents. Otherwise the beneficiary has an immediate right of action for wrongful dishonor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 269, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5116 Transfer or assignment of right to draw under a credit.

Sec. 5116. (1) The right to draw under a credit can be transferred or assigned only when the credit is expressly designated as transferable or assignable.

(2) Even though the credit specifically states that it is nontransferable or nonassignable the beneficiary may before performance of the conditions of the credit assign his right to proceeds. Such an assignment is an assignment of a contract right under article 9 on secured transactions and is governed by that article except that

(a) the assignment is ineffective until the letter of credit or advice of credit is delivered to the assignee which delivery constitutes perfection of the security interest under article 9; and

(b) the issuer may honor drafts or demands for payment drawn under the credit until it receives a notification of the assignment signed by the beneficiary which reasonably identifies the credit involved in the assignment and contains a request to pay the assignee; and

(c) after what reasonably appears to be such a notification has been received the issuer may without dishonor refuse to accept or pay even to a person otherwise entitled to honor until the letter of credit or advice of credit is exhibited to the issuer.

(3) Except where the beneficiary has effectively assigned his right to draw or his right to proceeds, nothing in this section limits his right to transfer or negotiate drafts or demands drawn under the credit.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 270, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.5117 Insolvency of issuer or bank holding funds for documentary credit.

Sec. 5117. (1) Where an issuer or an advising or confirming bank or a bank which has for a customer procured issuance of a credit by another bank becomes insolvent before final payment under the credit and the credit is one to which this article is made applicable by paragraphs (a) or (b) of section 5102 (1) on scope, the receipt or allocation of funds or collateral to secure or meet obligations under the credit shall have the following results:

(a) to the extent of any funds or collateral turned over after or before the insolvency as indemnity against or specifically for the purpose of payment of drafts or demands for payment drawn under the designated credit, the drafts or demands are entitled to payment in preference over depositors or other general creditors of the issuer or bank; and

(b) on expiration of the credit or surrender of the beneficiary's rights under it unused any person who has given such funds or collateral is similarly entitled to return thereof; and

(c) a charge to a general or current account with a bank if specifically consented to for the purpose of indemnity against or payment of drafts or demands for payment drawn under the designated credit falls under the same rules as if the funds had been drawn out in cash and then turned over with specific instructions.

(2) After honor or reimbursement under this section the customer or other person for whose account the insolvent bank has acted is entitled to receive the documents involved.

Sec. 6101. This article shall be known and may be cited as uniform commercial code—bulk transfers.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 271, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.6102 Bulk transfer; definition.

Sec. 6102. (1) A "bulk transfer" is any transfer in bulk and not in the ordinary course of the transferor's business of a major part of the materials, supplies, merchandise or other inventory (section 9109) of an enterprise subject to this article.

Enterprise making bulk transfers.

(2) A transfer of a substantial part of the equipment (section 9109) of such an enterprise is a bulk transfer if it is made in connection with a bulk transfer of inventory, but not otherwise.

Enterprise subject to article.

(3) The enterprises subject to this article are all those whose principal business is the sale of merchandise from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell.

Bulk transfers of goods within state.

(4) Except as limited by the following section all bulk transfers of goods located within this state are subject to this article.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 271, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.6103 Transfers excepted from article; public notice.

Sec. 6103. The following transfers are not subject to this article:

- (8) Transfers of property which is exempt from execution.

Public notice under subsection (6) or subsection (7) may be given by publishing once a week for 2 consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation where the transferor had its principal place of business in this state an advertisement including the names and addresses of the transferor and transferee and the effective date of the transfer.

440.6104 List of creditors; schedule of property.

Sec. 6104. (1) Except as provided with respect to auction sales (section 6108), a bulk transfer subject to this article is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless:

- (a) The transferee requires the transferor to furnish a list of his existing creditors prepared as stated in this section; and
- (b) The parties prepare a schedule of the property transferred sufficient to identify it; and
- (c) The transferee preserves the list and schedule for 6 months next following the transfer and permits inspection of either or both and copying therefrom at all reasonable hours by any creditor of the transferor, or files the list and schedule in the office of the secretary of state.

(2) The list of creditors must be signed and sworn to or affirmed by the transferor or his agent. It must contain the names and business addresses of all creditors of the transferor, with the amounts when known, and also the names of all persons who are known to the transferor to assert claims against him even though such claims are disputed. If the transferor is the obligor of an outstanding issue of bonds, debentures or the like as to which there is an indenture trustee, the list of creditors need include only the name and address of the indenture trustee and the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the issue.

(3) Responsibility for the completeness and accuracy of the list of creditors rests on the transferor, and the transfer is not rendered ineffective by errors or omissions therein unless the transferee is shown to have had knowledge.

440.6105 Notice to creditors.

Sec. 6105. In addition to the requirements of the preceding section, any bulk transfer subject to this article except one made by auction sale (section 6108) is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless at least 10 days before he takes possession of the goods or pays for them, whichever happens first, the transferee gives notice of the transfer in the manner and to the persons hereafter provided (section 6107).

HISTORY: New 1992, p. 272, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1994.

440.6106 Bulk transfers; governmental tax unit as creditor.

Sec. 6106. The county, school district and township, city or village and any other taxing unit having the right to assess and collect a personal property tax against any property which is the subject of a bulk transfer coming within the purview of this article shall be deemed a creditor, whether or not the amount of the personal property tax has been fixed or determined. The treasurer whose duty it is to collect any such tax shall be notified by the transferee as required in section 6107.

HISTORY: Add. 1993, p. 346, Act 223, Eff. Sep. 6.

440.6107 Notice to creditors; contents, delivery.

Sec. 6107. (1) The notice to creditors (section 6105) shall state:

- (a) that a bulk transfer is about to be made; and
- (b) the names and business addresses of the transferor and transferee, and all other business names and addresses used by the transferor within 3 years last past so far as known to the transferee; and
- (c) whether or not all the debts of the transferor are to be paid in full as they fall due as a result of the transaction, and if so, the address to which creditors should send their bills.

(2) If the debts of the transferor are not to be paid in full as they fall due or if the transferee is in doubt on that point then the notice shall state further:

- (a) the location and general description of the property to be transferred and the estimated total of the transferor's debts;
- (b) the address where the schedule of property and list of creditors (section 6104) may be inspected;
- (c) whether the transfer is to pay existing debts and if so the amount of such debts and to whom owing; and
- (d) whether the transfer is for new consideration and if so the amount of such consideration and the time and place of payment.

(3) The notice in any case shall be delivered personally or sent by registered or certified mail to all the persons shown on the list of creditors furnished by the transferor (section 6104) and to all other persons who are known to the transferee to hold or assert claims against the transferor.

HISTORY: New 1992, p. 272, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1994;—Am. 1994, p. 369, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

440.6108 Bulk transfer by sale at auction; auctioneer, duties, liability.

Sec. 6108. (1) A bulk transfer is subject to this article even though it is by sale at auction, but only in the manner and with the result stated in this section.

(2) The transferor shall furnish a list of his creditors and assist in the preparation of a schedule of the property to be sold, both prepared as before stated (section 6104).

(3) The person or persons other than the transferor who direct, control or are responsible for the auction are collectively called the "auctioneer". The auctioneer shall:

- (a) receive and retain the list of creditors and prepare and retain the schedule of property for the period stated in this article (section 6104); and
- (b) give notice of the auction personally or by registered or certified mail at least 10 days before it occurs to all persons shown on the list of creditors and to all other persons who are known to him to hold or assert claims against the transferor.

(4) Failure of the auctioneer to perform any of these duties does not affect the validity of the sale or the title of the purchasers, but if the auctioneer knows that the auction constitutes a bulk transfer such failure renders the auctioneer liable to the creditors of the transferor as a class for the sums owing to them from the transferor up to but not exceeding the net proceeds of the auction. If the auctioneer consists of several persons their liability is joint and several.

440.6109 Creditors protected.

Sec. 6109. The creditors of the transferor mentioned in this article are those holding claims based on transactions or events occurring before the bulk transfer, but creditors who become such after notice to creditors is given (sections 6105 and 6107) are not entitled to notice.

- (2) a purchaser for value in good faith and without such notice takes free of such defect.

If the transfer has been concealed, actions may be brought or levies made within 6 months after its discovery.

- (f) a description of the goods or of the packages containing them;
- (g) the signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent;
- (h) if the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and
- (i) a statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien or security interest (section 7209). If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

(3) A warehouseman may insert in his receipt any other terms which are not contrary to the provisions of this act and do not impair his obligation of delivery (section 7403) or his duty of care (section 7204). Any contrary provisions shall be ineffective.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 274, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7203 Liability for nonreceipt or misdescription.

Sec. 7203. A party to or purchaser for value in good faith of a document of title other than a bill of lading relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods may recover from the issuer damages caused by the non-receipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document conspicuously indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents, condition and quality unknown", "said to contain" or the like, if such indication be true, or the party or purchaser otherwise has notice.

440.7204 Duty of care; contractual limitation of warehouseman's liability.

Sec. 7204. (1) A warehouseman is liable for damages for loss of or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances but unless otherwise agreed he is not liable for damages which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

(2) Damages may be limited by a term in the warehouse receipt or storage agreement limiting the amount of liability in case of loss or damage, and setting forth a specific liability per article or item, or value per unit of weight, beyond which the warehouseman shall not be liable; provided, however, that such liability may on written request of the bailor at the time of signing such storage agreement or within a reasonable time after receipt of the warehouse receipt be increased on part or all of the goods thereunder, in which event increased rates may be charged based on such increased valuation, but that no such increase shall be permitted contrary to a lawful limitation of liability contained in the warehouseman's tariff, if any. No such limitation is effective with respect to the warehouseman's liability for conversion to his own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the bailment may be included in the warehouse receipt or tariff.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 275, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7205 Fungible goods; buyer's title.

Sec. 7205. A buyer in the ordinary course of business of fungible goods sold and delivered by a warehouseman who is also in the business of buying and selling such goods takes free of any claim under a warehouse receipt even though it has been duly negotiated.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 275, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7206 Termination of storage at warehouseman's option; removal or sale.

Sec. 7206. (1) A warehouseman may on notifying the person on whose account the goods are held and any other person known to claim an interest in the goods require payment of any charges and removal of the goods from the warehouse at the termination of the period of storage fixed by the document, or, if no period is fixed, within a stated period not less than 30 days after the notification. If the goods are not removed before the date specified in the notification, the warehouseman may sell them in accordance with the provisions of the section on enforcement of a warehouseman's lien (section 7210).

(2) If a warehouseman in good faith believes that the goods are about to deteriorate or decline in value to less than the amount of his lien within the time prescribed in subsection (1) for notification, advertisement and sale, the warehouseman may specify in the notification any reasonable shorter time for removal of the goods and in case the goods are not removed, may sell them at public sale held not less than 1 week after a single advertisement or posting.

(3) If as a result of a quality or condition of the goods of which the warehouseman had no notice at the time of deposit the goods are a hazard to other property or to the warehouse or to persons, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertisement on reasonable notification to all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell the goods he may dispose of them in any lawful manner and shall incur no liability by reason of such disposition.

(4) The warehouseman must deliver the goods to any person entitled to them under this article upon due demand made at any time prior to sale or other disposition under this section.

(5) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale or disposition under this section but must hold the balance for delivery on the demand of any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 276, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7207 Separation of goods; fungible goods.

Sec. 7207. (1) Unless the warehouse receipt otherwise provides, a warehouseman must keep separate the goods covered by each receipt so as to permit at all times identification and delivery of those goods except that different lots of fungible goods may be commingled.

Fungible goods, commingling, overissued receipts.

(2) Fungible goods so commingled are owned in common by the persons entitled thereto and the warehouseman is severally liable to each owner for that owner's share. Where because of overissue a mass of fungible goods is insufficient to meet all the receipts which the warehouseman has issued against it, the persons entitled include all holders to whom overissued receipts have been duly negotiated.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 276, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7208 Alteration of warehouse receipts.

Sec. 7208. Where a blank in a negotiable warehouse receipt has been filled in without authority, a purchaser for value and without notice of the want of authority may treat the insertion as authorized. Any other unauthorized alteration leaves any receipt enforceable against the issuer according to its original tenor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 276, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7209 Lien of warehouseman; security interest; loss of lien.

Sec. 7209. (1) A warehouseman has a lien against the bailor on the goods covered by a warehouse receipt or on the proceeds thereof in his possession for charges for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges), insurance, labor, or charges present or future in relation to the goods, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. If the person on whose account the goods are held is liable for like charges or expenses in relation to other goods whenever deposited and it is stated in the receipt that a lien is claimed for charges and expenses in relation to other goods, the warehouseman also has a lien against him for such charges and expenses whether or not the other goods have been delivered by the warehouseman. But against a person to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt is duly negotiated a warehouseman's lien is limited to charges in an amount or at a rate specified on the receipt or if no charges are so specified then to a reasonable charge for storage of the goods covered by the receipt subsequent to the date of the receipt.

(2) The warehouseman may also reserve a security interest against the bailor for a maximum amount specified on the receipt for charges other than those specified in subsection (1), such as for money advanced and interest. Such a security interest is governed by the article on secured transactions (article 9).

(3) A warehouseman's lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) or a security interest under subsection (2) is also effective against any person who so entrusted the bailor with possession of the goods that a pledge of them by him to a good faith purchaser for value would have been valid but is not effective against a person as to whom the document confers no right in the goods covered by it under section 7503.

(4) A warehouseman loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 276, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7210 Lien of warehouseman; enforcement procedure, liability for non-compliance.

Sec. 7210. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2), a warehouseman's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the warehouseman is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the warehouseman either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor, or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale, or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold, he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to insure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) A warehouseman's lien on goods other than goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business may be enforced only as follows:

- (a) All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified.
- (b) The notification must be delivered in person or sent by registered or certified letter to the last known address of any person to be notified.
- (c) The notification must include an itemized statement of the claim, a description of the goods subject to the lien, a demand for payment within a specified time not less than 10 days after receipt of the notification, and a conspicuous statement that unless the claim is paid within that time the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.
- (d) The sale must conform to the terms of the notification.
- (e) The sale must be held at the nearest suitable place to that where the goods are held or stored.
- (f) After the expiration of the time given in the notification, an advertisement of the sale must be published once a week for 2 weeks consecutively in a newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held. The advertisement must include a description of the goods, the name of the person on whose account they are being held, and the time and place of the sale. The sale must take place at least 15 days after the first publication. If there is no newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held, the advertisement must be posted at least 10 days before the sale in not less than 6 conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale.

(3) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the warehouseman subject to the terms of the receipt and this article.

(4) The warehouseman may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.

(5) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a warehouseman's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite non-compliance by the warehouseman with the requirements of this section.

(6) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(7) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(8) Where a lien is on goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business the lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or (2).

(9) The warehouseman is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 277, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 370, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

PART 3

BILLS OF LADING: SPECIAL PROVISIONS

440.7301 Negotiable bill of lading; issuer's liability for misdating, nonreceipt, misdescription.

Sec. 7301. (1) A consignee of a non-negotiable bill who has given value in good faith or a holder to whom a negotiable bill has been duly negotiated relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods, or upon the date therein shown, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the nonreceipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown", "said to contain", "shipper's weight, load and count" or the like, if such indication be true.

Goods loaded by common carrier issuer.

(2) When goods are loaded by an issuer who is a common carrier, the issuer must count the packages of goods if package freight and ascertain the kind and quantity if bulk freight. In such cases "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words indicating that the description was made by the shipper are ineffective except as to freight concealed by packages.

Bulk freight.

(3) When bulk freight is loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer adequate facilities for weighing such freight, an issuer who is a common carrier must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the written request of the shipper to do so. In such cases "shipper's weight" or other words of like purport are ineffective.

Shipper's weight, load and count.

(4) The issuer may by inserting in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words of like purport indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if such statement be true the issuer shall not be liable for damages caused by the improper loading. But their omission does not imply liability for such damages.

Shipper's guarantee to issuer, indemnity; issuer's liability.

(5) The shipper shall be deemed to have guaranteed to the issuer the accuracy at the time of shipment of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition and weight, as furnished by him; and the shipper shall indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in such particulars. The right of the issuer to such indemnity shall in no way limit his responsibility and liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 278, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7302 Through bills of lading and similar documents; variance as to overseas undertaking.

Sec. 7302. (1) The issuer of a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons acting as its agents or by connecting carriers is liable to anyone entitled to recover on the document for any breach by such other persons or by a connecting carrier of its obligation under the document but to the extent that the bill covers an undertaking to be performed overseas or in territory not contiguous to the continental United States or an undertaking including matters other than transportation this liability may be varied by agreement of the parties.

Obligations of persons other than issuer.

(2) Where goods covered by a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons other than the issuer are received by any such person, he is subject with respect to his own performance while the goods are in his possession to the obligation of the issuer. His obligation is discharged by delivery of the goods to another such person pursuant to the document, and does not include liability for breach by any other such persons or by the issuer.

Obligations of persons to issuer.

(3) The issuer of such through bill of lading or other document shall be entitled to recover from the connecting carrier or such other person in possession of the goods when the breach of the obligation under the document occurred, the amount it may be required to pay to anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor, as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment, or transcript thereof, and the amount of any expense reasonably incurred by it in defending any action brought by anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 279, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7303 Diversion; reconsignment; change of instructions.

Sec. 7303. (1) Unless the bill of lading otherwise provides, the carrier may deliver the goods to a person or destination other than that stated in the bill or may otherwise dispose of the goods on instructions from

- (a) the holder of a negotiable bill; or
- (b) the consignor on a non-negotiable bill notwithstanding contrary instructions from the consignee; or
- (c) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill in the absence of contrary instructions from the consignor, if the goods have arrived at the billed destination or if the consignee is in possession of the bill; or
- (d) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill if he is entitled as against the consignor to dispose of them.

(2) Unless such instructions are noted on a negotiable bill of lading, a person to whom the bill is duly negotiated can hold the bailee according to the original terms.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 279, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7304 Bills of lading in a set.

Sec. 7304. (1) Except where customary in overseas transportation, a bill of lading must not be issued in a set of parts. The issuer is liable for damages caused by violation of this subsection.

(2) Where a bill of lading is lawfully drawn in a set of parts, each of which is numbered and expressed to be valid only if the goods have not been delivered against any other part, the whole of the parts constitutes 1 bill.

(3) Where a bill of lading is lawfully issued in a set of parts and different parts are negotiated to different persons, the title of the holder to whom the first due negotiation is made prevails as to both the document and the goods even though any later holder may have received the goods from the carrier in good faith and discharged the carrier's obligation by surrender of his part.

(4) Any person who negotiates or transfers a single part of a bill of lading drawn in a set is liable to holders of that part as if it were the whole set.

(5) The bailee is obliged to deliver in accordance with Part 4 of this article against the first presented part of a bill of lading lawfully drawn in a set. Such delivery discharges the bailee's obligation on the whole bill.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 279, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7305 Destination and substitute bills.

Sec. 7305. (1) Instead of issuing a bill of lading to the consignor at the place of shipment a carrier may at the request of the consignor procure the bill to be issued at destination or at any other place designated in the request.

(2) Upon request of anyone entitled as against the carrier to control the goods while in transit and on surrender of any outstanding bill of lading or other receipt covering such goods, the issuer may procure a substitute bill to be issued at any place designated in the request.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 280, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7306 Altered bills of lading.

Sec. 7306. An unauthorized alteration or filling in of a blank in a bill of lading leaves the bill enforceable according to its original tenor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 280, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7307 Lien of carrier.

Sec. 7307. (1) A carrier has a lien on the goods covered by a bill of lading for charges subsequent to the date of its receipt of the goods for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges) and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. But against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading a carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs, or if no charges are stated then to a reasonable charge.

(2) A lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) on goods which the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to such charges and expenses. Any other lien under subsection (1) is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked such authority.

(3) A carrier loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 280, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7308 Lien of carrier; enforcement, procedure; liability for noncompliance.

Sec. 7308. (1) A carrier's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the carrier is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the carrier either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the carrier subject to the terms of the bill and this article.

(3) The carrier may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.

(4) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a carrier's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by the carrier with the requirements of this section.

(5) The carrier may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(6) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(7) A carrier's lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or the procedure set forth in subsection (2) of section 7210.

(8) The carrier is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 290, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7309 Carrier's duty of care; contractual provisions as to liability.

Sec. 7309. (1) A carrier who issues a bill of lading whether negotiable or non-negotiable must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods which a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances. This subsection does not repeal or change any law or rule of law which imposes liability upon a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence.

(2) Damages may be limited by a provision that the carrier's liability shall not exceed a value stated in the document if the carrier's rates are dependent upon value and the consignor by the carrier's tariff is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value or a value as lawfully provided in the tariff, or where no tariff is filed he is otherwise advised of such opportunity; but no such limitation is effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the shipment may be included in a bill of lading or tariff.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 281, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

PART 4

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING: GENERAL OBLIGATIONS

440.7401 Irregularities in issue of document of title or conduct of issuer.

Sec. 7401. The obligations imposed by this article on an issuer apply to a document of title regardless of the fact that

(a) the document may not comply with the requirements of this article or of any other law or regulation regarding its issue, form or content; or

(b) the issuer may have violated laws regulating the conduct of his business; or

(c) the goods covered by the document were owned by the bailee at the time the document was issued; or

(d) the person issuing the document does not come within the definition of warehouseman if it purports to be a warehouse receipt.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 281, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7402 Duplicate document of title; overissue.

Sec. 7402. Neither a duplicate nor any other document of title purporting to cover goods already represented by an outstanding document of the same issuer confers any right in the goods, except as provided in the case of bills in a set, overissue of documents for fungible goods and substitutes for lost, stolen or destroyed documents. But the issuer is liable for damages caused by his overissue or failure to identify a duplicate document as such by conspicuous notation on its face.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 281, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7403 Delivery by warehouseman or carrier; excuses.

Sec. 7403. (1) The bailee must deliver the goods to a person entitled under the document who complies with subsections (2) and (3), unless and to the extent that the bailee establishes any of the following:

- (a) Delivery of the goods to a person whose receipt was rightful as against the claimant;
- (b) Damages to or delay, loss or destruction of the goods for which the bailee is not liable;
- (c) Previous sale or other disposition of the goods in lawful enforcement of a lien or on warehouseman's lawful termination of storage;
- (d) The exercise by a seller of his right to stop delivery pursuant to the provisions of the article on sales (section 2705);
- (e) A diversion, reconsignment or other disposition pursuant to the provisions of this article (section 7303) or tariff regulating such right;
- (f) Release, satisfaction or any other fact affording a personal defense against the claimant;
- (g) Any other lawful excuse.

Satisfaction of bailee's lien.

(2) A person claiming goods covered by a document of title must satisfy the bailee's lien where the bailee so requests or where the bailee is prohibited by law from delivering the goods until the charges are paid.

Cancellation or notation of partial delivery.

(3) Unless the person claiming is one against whom the document confers no right under section 7503 (1), he must surrender for cancellation or notation of partial deliveries any outstanding negotiable document covering the goods, and the bailee must cancel the document or conspicuously note the partial delivery thereon or be liable to any person to whom the document is duly negotiated.

Person entitled under the document, definition.

(4) "Person entitled under the document" means holder in the case of a negotiable document, or the person to whom delivery is to be made by the terms of or pursuant to written instructions under a non-negotiable document.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 282, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7404 Bailee's delivery in good faith pursuant to document of title.

Sec. 7404. A bailee who in good faith including observance of reasonable commercial standards has received goods and delivered or otherwise disposed of them according to the terms of the document of title or pursuant to this article is not liable therefor. This rule applies even though the person from whom he received the goods had no authority to procure the document or to dispose of the goods and even though the person to whom he delivered the goods had no authority to receive them.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 282, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

PART 5

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING:
NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER440.7501 Negotiation; indorsement; delivery; transfer; notice of arrival.

Sec. 7501. (1) A negotiable document of title running to the order of a named person is negotiated by his indorsement and delivery. After his indorsement in blank or to bearer any person can negotiate it by delivery alone.

(2) (a) A negotiable document of title is also negotiated by delivery alone when by its original terms it runs to bearer;

(b) When a document running to the order of a named person is delivered to him the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated.

(3) Negotiation of a negotiable document of title after it has been indorsed to a specified person requires indorsement by the special indorsee as well as delivery.

(4) A negotiable document of title is "duly negotiated" when it is negotiated in the manner stated in this section to a holder who purchases it in good faith without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing or involves receiving the document in settlement or payment of a money obligation.

(5) Indorsement of a non-negotiable document neither makes it negotiable nor adds to the transferee's rights.

(6) The naming in a negotiable bill of a person to be notified of the arrival of the goods does not limit the negotiability of the bill nor constitute notice to a purchaser thereof of any interest of such person in the goods.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 282, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7502 Negotiation; rights acquired.

Sec. 7502. (1) Subject to the following section and to the provisions of section 7205 on fungible goods, a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby:

(a) Title to the document;

(b) Title to the goods;

(c) All rights accruing under the law of agency or estoppel, including rights to goods delivered to the bailee after the document was issued; and

(d) The direct obligation of the issuer to hold or deliver the goods according to the terms of the document free of any defense or claim by him except those arising under the terms of the document or under this article. In the case of a delivery order the bailee's obligation accrues only upon acceptance and the obligation acquired by the holder is that the issuer and any indorser will procure the acceptance of the bailee.

(2) Subject to the following section, title and rights so acquired are not defeated by any stoppage of the goods represented by the document or by surrender of such goods by the bailee, and are not impaired even though the negotiation or any prior negotiation constituted a breach of duty or even though any person has been deprived of possession of the document by misrepresentation, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, loss, theft or conversion, or even though a previous sale or other transfer of the goods or document has been made to a third person.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 283, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7503 Documents of title to goods; defeat in certain cases.

Sec. 7503. (1) A document of title confers no right in goods against a person who before issuance of the document had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in them and who neither

(a) delivered or entrusted them or any document of title covering them to the bailor or his nominee with actual or apparent authority to ship, store or sell or with power to obtain delivery under this article (section 7403) or with power of disposition under this act (sections 2403 and 9307) or other statute or rule of law; nor

(b) acquiesced in the procurement by the bailor or his nominee of any document of title.

(2) Title to goods based upon an unaccepted delivery order is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt or bill of lading covering the goods has been duly negotiated. Such a title may be defeated under the next section to the same extent as the rights of the issuer or a transferee from the issuer.

(3) Title to goods based upon a bill of lading issued to a freight forwarder is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a bill issued by the freight forwarder is duly negotiated; but delivery by the carrier in accordance with part 4 of this article pursuant to its own bill of lading discharges the carrier's obligation to deliver.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 283, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7504 Documents of title; transfer by delivery in absence of due negotiation, effect.

Sec. 7504. (1) A transferee of a document, whether negotiable or non-negotiable, to whom the document has been delivered but not duly negotiated, acquires the title and rights which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey.

Nonnegotiable document, defeat of transfer.

(2) In the case of a non-negotiable document, until but not after the bailee receives notification of the transfer, the rights of the transferee may be defeated

(a) by those creditors of the transferor who could treat the sale as void under section 2402; or

(b) by a buyer from the transferor in ordinary course of business if the bailee has delivered the goods to the buyer or received notification of his rights; or

(c) as against the bailee by good faith dealings of the bailee with the transferor.

Consignor's diversion or change of shipping instructions.

(3) A diversion or other change of shipping instructions by the consignor in a non-negotiable bill of lading which causes the bailee not to deliver to the consignee defeats the consignee's title to the goods if they have been delivered to a buyer in ordinary course of business and in any event defeats the consignee's rights against the bailee.

Seller's stoppage of delivery.

(4) Delivery pursuant to a non-negotiable document may be stopped by a seller under section 2705, and subject to the requirement of due notification there provided. A bailee honoring the seller's instructions is entitled to be indemnified by the seller against any resulting loss or expense.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 284, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7505 Documents of title; liability of indorser.

Sec. 7505. The indorsement of a document of title issued by a bailee does not make the indorser liable for any default by the bailee or by previous indorsers.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 284, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7506 Documents of title; delivery without indorsement; right to compel indorsement.

Sec. 7506. The transferee of a negotiable document of title has a specifically enforceable right to have his transferor supply any necessary indorsement but the transfer becomes a negotiation only as of the time the indorsement is supplied.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 284, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7507 Documents of title; warranties on negotiation or transfer for value.

Sec. 7507. Where a person negotiates or transfers a document of title for value otherwise than as a mere intermediary under the next following section, then unless otherwise agreed he warrants to his immediate purchaser only in addition to any warranty made in selling the goods

- (a) that the document is genuine; and
- (b) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair its validity or worth; and
- (c) that his negotiation or transfer is rightful and fully effective with respect to the title to the document and the goods it represents.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 284, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7508 Documents of title; warranties of collecting bank.

Sec. 7508. A collecting bank or other intermediary known to be entrusted with documents on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against delivery of documents warrants by such delivery of the documents only its own good faith and authority. This rule applies even though the intermediary has purchased or made advances against the claim or draft to be collected.

PART 6

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING:
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

440.7601 Lost, stolen or destroyed documents of title; delivery of goods, indemnity.

Sec. 7601. (1) If a document has been lost, stolen or destroyed, a court may order delivery of the goods or issuance of a substitute document and the bailee may without liability to any person comply with such order. If the document was negotiable the claimant must post security approved by the court to indemnify any person who may suffer loss as a result of nonsurrender of the document. If the document was not negotiable, such security may be required at the discretion of the court. The court may also in its discretion order payment of the bailee's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

(2) A bailee who without court order delivers goods to a person claiming under a missing negotiable document is liable to any person injured thereby, and if the delivery is not in good faith becomes liable for conversion. Delivery in good faith is not conversion if made in accordance with a filed classification or tariff or, where no classification or tariff is filed, if the claimant posts security with the bailee in an amount at least double the value of the goods at the time of posting to indemnify any person injured by the delivery who files a notice of claim within 1 year after the delivery.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 285, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7602 Judicial process; surrender of document of title; innocent purchaser for value.

Sec. 7602. Except where the document was originally issued upon delivery of the goods by a person who had no power to dispose of them, no lien attaches by virtue of any judicial process to goods in the possession of a bailee for which a negotiable document of title is outstanding unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined, and the bailee shall not be compelled to deliver the goods pursuant to process until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. One who purchases the document for value without notice of the process or injunction takes free of the lien imposed by judicial process.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 285, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.7603 Conflicting claims; interpleader.

Sec. 7603. If more than one person claims title or possession of the goods, the bailee is excused from delivery until he has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claims or to bring an action to compel all claimants to interplead and may compel such interpleader, either in defending an action for nondelivery of the goods, or by original action, whichever is appropriate.

440.8104 Effect of overissue.

Sec. 8104. (1) The provisions of this article which validate a security or compel its issue or reissue do not apply to the extent that validation, issue or reissue would result in overissue; but

(a) if an identical security which does not constitute an overissue is reasonably available for purchase, the person entitled to issue or validation may compel the issuer to purchase and deliver such a security to him against surrender of the security, if any, which he holds; or

(b) if a security is not so available for purchase, the person entitling to issue or validation may recover from the issuer the price he or the last purchaser for value paid for it with interest from the date of his demand.

(c) when signatures are admitted or established production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense or a defect going to the validity of the security; and

(d) after it is shown that a defense or defect exists the plaintiff has the burden of establishing that he or some person under whom he claims is a person against whom the defense or defect is ineffective (section 8202).

PART 2

ISSUE—ISSUER

440.8201 Issuer; definition.

Sec. 8201. (1) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security “issuer” includes a person who

(a) places or authorizes the placing of his name on a security (otherwise than as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like) to evidence that it represents a share, participation or other interest in his property or in an enterprise or to evidence his duty to perform an obligation evidenced by the security; or

(b) directly or indirectly creates fractional interests in his rights or property which fractional interests are evidenced by securities; or

(c) becomes responsible for or in place of any other person described as an issuer in this section.

(2) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security a guarantor is an issuer to the extent of his guaranty whether or not his obligation is noted on the security.

(3) With respect to registration of transfer (part 4 of this article) “issuer” means a person on whose behalf transfer books are maintained.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 287, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8202 Issuer; responsibility and defenses; notice of defect or defense.

Sec. 8202. (1) Even against a purchaser for value and without notice, the terms of a security include those stated on the security and those made part of the security by reference to another instrument, indenture or document or to a constitution, statute, ordinance, rule, regulation, order or the like to the extent that the terms so referred to do not conflict with the stated terms. Such a reference does not of itself charge a purchaser for value with notice of a defect going to the validity of the security even though the security expressly states that a person accepting it admits such notice.

(2) (a) A security other than one issued by a government or governmental agency or unit even though issued with a defect going to its validity is valid in the hands of a purchaser for value and without notice of the particular defect unless the defect involves a violation of constitutional provisions in which case the security is valid in the hands of a subsequent purchaser for value and without notice of the defect.

(b) The rule of subparagraph (a) applies to an issuer which is a government or governmental agency or unit only if either there has been substantial compliance with the legal requirements governing the issue or the issuer has received a substantial consideration for the issue as a whole or for the particular security and a stated purpose of the issue is one for which the issuer has power to borrow money or issue the security.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in the case of certain unauthorized signatures on issue (section 8205), lack of genuineness of a security is a complete defense even against a purchaser for value and without notice.

(4) All other defenses of the issuer including nondelivery and conditional delivery of the security are ineffective against a purchaser for value who has taken without notice of the particular defense.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the right of a party to a "when, as and if issued" or a "when distributed" contract to cancel the contract in the event of a material change in the character of the security which is the subject of the contract or in the plan or arrangement pursuant to which such security is to be issued or distributed.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 287, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8203 Staleness as notice of defect or defense.

Sec. 8203. (1) After an act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange, a purchaser is charged with notice of any defect in its issue or defense of the issuer

(a) if the act or event is one requiring the payment of money or the delivery of securities or both on presentation or surrender of the security and such funds or securities are available on the date set for payment or exchange and he takes the security more than 1 year after that date; and

(b) if the act or event is not covered by paragraph (a) and he takes the security more than 2 years after the date set for surrender or presentation or the date on which such performance became due.

(2) A call which has been revoked is not within subsection (1).

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 288, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8204 Issuer's restriction on transfer.

Sec. 8204. Unless noted conspicuously on the security a restriction on transfer imposed by the issuer even though otherwise lawful is ineffective except against a person with actual knowledge of it.

CITED IN OTHER SECTIONS: The above section is cited in § 450.25.

440.8205 Unauthorized signatures.

Sec. 8205. An unauthorized signature placed on a security prior to or in the course of issue is ineffective except that the signature is effective in favor of a purchaser for value and without notice of the lack of authority if the signing has been done by

(a) an authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or other person entrusted by the issuer with the signing of the security or of similar securities or their immediate preparation for signing; or

(b) an employee of the issuer or of any of the foregoing entrusted with responsible handling of the security.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 288, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8206 Completion or alteration of instrument.

Sec. 8206. (1) Where a security contains the signatures necessary to its issue or transfer but is incomplete in any other respect

(a) any person may complete it by filling in the blanks as authorized; and

(b) even though the blanks are incorrectly filled in, the security as completed is enforceable by a purchaser who took it for value and without notice of such incorrectness.

(2) A complete security which has been improperly altered even though fraudulently remains enforceable but only according to its original terms.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 288, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8207 Issuer's rights with respect to registered owners.

Sec. 8207. (1) Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer of a security in registered form the issuer or indenture trustee may treat the registered owner as the person exclusively entitled to vote, to receive notifications and otherwise to exercise all the rights and powers of an owner.

(2) Nothing in this article shall be construed to affect the liability of the registered owner of a security for calls, assessments or the like.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 288, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8208 Indorsement; manner of making.

Sec. 8208. (1) A person placing his signature upon a security as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like warrants to a purchaser for value without notice of the particular defect that

- (a) the security is genuine; and
- (b) his own participation in the issue of the security is within his capacity and within the scope of the authorization received by him from the issuer; and
- (c) he has reasonable grounds to believe that the security is in the form and within the amount the issuer is authorized to issue,

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, a person by so placing his signature does not assume responsibility for the validity of the security in other respects.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 289, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 372, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

PURCHASE

440.8301 Purchaser, bona fide purchaser and limited interest purchaser; rights acquired; adverse claims.

Sec. 8301. (1) Upon delivery of a security the purchaser acquires the rights in the security which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey except that a purchaser who has himself been a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the security or who as a prior holder had notice of an adverse claim cannot improve his position by taking from a later bona fide purchaser. "Adverse claim" includes a claim that a transfer was or would be wrongful or that a particular adverse person is the owner of or has an interest in the security.

(2) A bona fide purchaser in addition to acquiring the rights of a purchaser also acquires the security free of any adverse claim.

(3) A purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 289, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8302 Bona fide purchaser; definition.

Sec. 8302. A "bona fide purchaser" is a purchaser for value in good faith and without notice of any adverse claim who takes delivery of a security in bearer form or of one in registered form issued to him or indorsed to him or in blank.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 289, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8303 Broker, definition.

Sec. 8303. "Broker" means a person engaged for all or part of his time in the business of buying and selling securities, who in the transaction concerned acts for, or buys a security from or sells a security to a customer. Nothing in this article determines the capacity in which a person acts for purposes of any other statute or rule to which such person is subject.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 289, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.8304 Notice to purchaser and broker of adverse claims.

Sec. 8304. (1) A purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer but excluding an intermediary bank) of a security is charged with notice of adverse claims if

- (a) the security whether in bearer or registered form has been indorsed "for collection" or "for surrender" or for some other purpose not involving transfer; or
- (b) the security is in bearer form and has on it an unambiguous statement that it is the property of a person other than the transferor. The mere writing of a name on a security is not such a statement.

(2) The fact that the purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer) has notice that the security is held for a third person or is registered in the name of or indorsed by a fiduciary does not create a duty of inquiry into the rightfulness of the transfer or constitute notice of adverse claims. If, however, the purchaser (excluding an intermediary bank) has knowledge that the proceeds are being used or that the transaction is for the individual benefit of the fiduciary or otherwise in breach of duty, the purchaser is charged with notice of adverse claims.

440.8305 Notice to purchaser; staleness.

Sec. 8305. An act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange does not of itself constitute any notice of adverse claims except in the case of a purchase

- (a) after 1 year from any date set for such presentment or surrender for redemption or exchange; or
- (b) after 6 months from any date set for payment of money against presentation or surrender of the security if funds are available for payment on that date.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 290, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.8306 Warranties on presentment, transfer, and delivery.

Sec. 8306. (1) A person who presents a security for registration of transfer or for payment or exchange warrants to the issuer that he is entitled to the registration, payment or exchange. But a purchaser for value without notice of adverse claims who receives a new, reissued or re-registered security on registration of transfer warrants only that he has no knowledge of any unauthorized signature (section 8311) in a necessary indorsement.

(2) A person by transferring a security to a purchaser for value warrants only that

- (a) his transfer is effective and rightful; and
- (b) the security is genuine and has not been materially altered; and
- (c) he knows no fact which might impair the validity of the security.

(3) Where a security is delivered by an intermediary known to be entrusted with delivery of the security on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against such delivery, the intermediary by such delivery warrants only his own good faith and authority even though he has purchased or made advances against the claim to be collected against the delivery.

(4) A pledgee or other holder for security who redelivers the security received, or after payment and on order of the debtor delivers that security to a third person makes only the warranties of an intermediary under subsection (3).

(5) A broker gives to his customer and to the issuer and a purchaser the warranties provided in this section and has the rights and privileges of a purchaser under this section. The warranties of and in favor of the broker acting as an agent are in addition to applicable warranties given by and in favor of his customer.

440.8307 Delivery without indorsement; effect, right to compel indorsement.

Sec. 8307. Where a security in registered form has been delivered to a purchaser without a necessary indorsement he may become a bona fide purchaser only as of the time the indorsement is supplied, but against the transferor the transfer is complete upon delivery and the purchaser has a specifically enforceable right to have any necessary indorsement supplied.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 290, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8308 Indorsement; manner of making.

Sec. 8308. (1) An indorsement of a security in registered form is made when an appropriate person signs on it or on a separate document an assignment or transfer of the security or a power to assign or transfer it or when the signature of such person is written without more upon the back of the security.

Blank or special indorsement.

(2) An indorsement may be in blank or special. An indorsement in blank includes an indorsement to bearer. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom the security is to be transferred, or who has power to transfer it. A holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement.

Appropriate person to indorse.

(3) "An appropriate person" in subsection (1) means

(a) the person specified by the security or by special indorsement to be entitled to the security; or

(b) where the person so specified is described as a fiduciary but is no longer serving in the described capacity,—either that person or his successor; or

(c) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as fiduciaries and one or more are no longer serving in the described capacity,—the remaining fiduciary or fiduciaries, whether or not a successor has been appointed or qualified; or

(d) where the person so specified is an individual and is without capacity to act by virtue of death, incompetence, infancy or otherwise,—his executor, administrator, guardian or like fiduciary; or

(e) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as tenants by the entirety or with right of survivorship and by reason of death all cannot sign,—the survivor or survivors; or

(f) a person having power to sign under applicable law or controlling instrument; or

(g) to the extent that any of the foregoing persons may act through an agent,—his authorized agent.

Indorser as guarantor.

(4) Unless otherwise agreed the indorser by his indorsement assumes no obligation that the security will be honored by the issuer.

Indorsement of part of security.

(5) An indorsement purporting to be only of part of a security representing units intended by the issuer to be separately transferable is effective to the extent of the indorsement.

Appropriate person as indorser; change of circumstances.

(6) Whether the person signing is appropriate is determined as of the date of signing and an indorsement by such a person does not become unauthorized for the purposes of this article by virtue of any subsequent change of circumstances.

Fiduciary's indorsement; compliance with agreement and applicable law.

(7) Failure of a fiduciary to comply with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer, does not render his indorsement unauthorized for the purposes of this article.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 290, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 373, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

440.8309 Indorsement ineffective to transfer without delivery.

Sec. 8309. An indorsement of a security whether special or in blank does not constitute a transfer until delivery of the security on which it appears or if the indorsement is on a separate document until delivery of both the document and the security.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 291, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8310 Indorsement of security in bearer form.

Sec. 8310. An indorsement of a security in bearer form may give notice of adverse claims (section 8304) but does not otherwise affect any right to registration the holder may possess.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 291, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8311 Unauthorized indorsement; rights and liabilities.

Sec. 8311. Unless the owner has ratified an unauthorized indorsement or is otherwise precluded from asserting its ineffectiveness

(a) he may assert its ineffectiveness against the issuer or any purchaser other than a purchaser for value and without notice of adverse claims who has in good faith received a new, reissued or re-registered security on registration of transfer; and

(b) an issuer who registers the transfer of a security upon the unauthorized indorsement is subject to liability for improper registration (section 8404).

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 291, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8312 Warranties of indorser's guarantor.

Sec. 8312. (1) Any person guaranteeing a signature of an indorser of a security warrants that at the time of signing

(a) the signature was genuine; and

(b) the signer was an appropriate person to indorse (section 8308); and

(c) the signer had legal capacity to sign.

But the guarantor does not otherwise warrant the rightfulness of the particular transfer.

(2) Any person may guarantee an indorsement of a security and by so doing warrants not only the signature (subsection 1) but also the rightfulness of the particular transfer in all respects. But no issuer may require a guarantee of indorsement as a condition to registration of transfer.

(3) The foregoing warranties are made to any person taking or dealing with the security in reliance on the guarantee and the guarantor is liable to such person for any loss resulting from breach of the warranties.

440.8313 Delivery to purchaser; purchaser's broker as holder; fungible bulk, notice of adverse claim.

Sec. 8313. (1) Delivery to a purchaser occurs when

- (a) he or a person designated by him acquires possession of a security; or
 - (b) his broker acquires possession of a security specially indorsed to or issued in the name of the purchaser; or
 - (c) his broker sends him confirmation of the purchase and also by book entry or otherwise identifies a specific security in the broker's possession as belonging to the purchaser; or
 - (d) with respect to an identified security to be delivered while still in the possession of a third person when that person acknowledges that he holds for the purchaser.
- (e) Appropriate entries on the books of a clearing corporation are made under section 8320.

(2) The purchaser is the owner of a security held for him by his broker, but is not the holder except as specified in subparagraphs (b), (c) and (e) of subsection (1) where a security is part of a fungible bulk the purchaser is the owner of a proportionate property interest in the fungible bulk.

(3) Notice of an adverse claim received by the broker or by the purchaser after the broker takes delivery as a holder for value is not effective either as to the broker or as to the purchaser. However, as between the broker and the purchaser the purchaser may demand delivery of an equivalent security as to which no notice of an adverse claim has been received.

440.8314 Delivery of security; completion.

Sec. 8314. (1) Unless otherwise agreed where a sale of a security is made on an exchange or otherwise through brokers

(a) the selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver when he places such a security in the possession of the selling broker or of a person designated by the broker or if requested causes an acknowledgment to be made to the selling broker that it is held for him; and

(b) the selling broker including a correspondent broker acting for a selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver by placing the security or a like security in the possession of the buying broker or a person designated by him or by effecting clearance of the sale in accordance with the rules of the exchange on which the transaction took place.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section and unless otherwise agreed, a transferor's duty to deliver a security under a contract of purchase is not fulfilled until he places the security in form to be negotiated by the purchaser in the possession of the purchaser or of a person designated by him or at the purchaser's request causes an acknowledgment to be made to the purchaser that it is held for him. Unless made on an exchange a sale to a broker purchasing for his own account is within this subsection and not within subsection (1).

440.8315 Wrongful transfer; action by injured party.

Sec. 8315. (1) Any person against whom the transfer of a security is wrongful for any reason, including his incapacity, may against anyone except a bona fide purchaser reclaim possession of the security or obtain possession of any new security evidencing all or part of the same rights or have damages.

(2) If the transfer is wrongful because of an unauthorized indorsement, the owner may also reclaim or obtain possession of the security or new security even from a bona fide purchaser if the ineffectiveness of the purported indorsement can be asserted against him under the provisions of this article on unauthorized indorsements (section 8311).

(3) The right to obtain or reclaim possession of a security may be specifically enforced and its transfer enjoined and the security impounded pending the litigation.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 293, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8316 Purchaser's rights as to proof of authority and requisites for transfer.

Sec. 8316. Unless otherwise agreed the transferor must on due demand supply his purchaser with any proof of his authority to transfer or with any other requisite which may be necessary to obtain registration of the transfer of the security but if the transfer is not for value a transferor need not do so unless the purchaser furnishes the necessary expenses. Failure to comply with a demand made within a reasonable time gives the purchaser the right to reject or rescind the transfer.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 293, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8317 Remedies against security.

Sec. 8317. (1) No attachment or levy upon a security or any share or other interest evidenced thereby which is outstanding shall be valid until the security is actually seized by the officer making the attachment or levy but a security which has been surrendered to the issuer may be attached or levied upon at the source.

(2) A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a security shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction or otherwise, in reaching such security or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

440.8318 Good faith delivery by agent or bailee; liability for conversion.

Sec. 8318. An agent or bailee who in good faith (including observance of reasonable commercial standards if he is in the business of buying, selling or otherwise dealing with securities) has received securities and sold, pledged or delivered them according to the instructions of his principal is not liable for conversion or for participation in breach of fiduciary duty although the principal had no right to dispose of them.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 293, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8319 Statute of frauds.

Sec. 8319. A contract for the sale of securities is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless

(a) there is some writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker sufficient to indicate that a contract has been made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price; or

(b) delivery of the security has been accepted or payment has been made but the contract is enforceable under this provision only to the extent of such delivery or payment; or

(c) within a reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the sale or purchase and sufficient against the sender under paragraph (a) has been received by the party against whom enforcement is sought and he has failed to send written objection to its contents within 10 days after its receipt; or

(d) the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract was made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 293, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8320 Transfer of securities through clearing corporation; effect.

Sec. 8320. (1) If a security

(a) is in the custody of a clearing corporation or of a custodian bank or a nominee of either subject to the instructions of the clearing corporation; and

(b) is in bearer form or indorsed in blank by an appropriate person or registered in the name of the clearing corporation or custodian bank or a nominee of either; and then, in addition to other methods, a transfer or pledge of the security or any interest therein may be effected by the making of appropriate entries on the books of the clearing corporation reducing the account of the transferor or pledgor and increasing the account of the transferee or pledgee by the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged.

(c) is shown on the account of a transferor or pledgor on the books of the clearing corporation;

(2) Under this section entries may be with respect to like securities or interests therein as a part of a fungible bulk and may refer merely to a quantity of a particular security without reference to the name of the registered owner, certificate or bond number or the like and, in appropriate cases, may be on a net basis taking into account other transfers or pledges of the same security.

(3) A transfer or pledge under this section has the effect of a delivery of a security in bearer form or duly indorsed in blank (section 8301) representing the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged. If a pledge or the creation of a security interest is intended, the making of entries has the effect of a taking of delivery by the pledgee or a secured party (sections 9304 and 9305). A transferee or pledgee under this section is a holder.

(4) A transfer or pledge under this section does not constitute a registration of transfer under part 4 of this article.

(5) That entries made on the books of the clearing corporation as provided in subsection (1) are not appropriate, does not affect the validity or effect of the entries, nor the liabilities or obligations of the clearing corporation to any person adversely affected thereby.

PART 4

REGISTRATION

440.8401 Issuer's duties and liabilities.

Sec. 8401. (1) Where a security in registered form is presented to the issuer with a request to register transfer, the issuer is under a duty to register the transfer as requested if

(a) the security is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons (section 8308); and

(b) reasonable assurance is given that those indorsements are genuine and effective (section 8402); and

(c) the issuer has no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (section 8403); and

(d) any applicable law relating to the collection of taxes has been complied with; and

(e) the transfer is in fact rightful or is to a bona fide purchaser.

(2) Where an issuer is under a duty to register a transfer of a security the issuer is also liable to the person presenting it for registration or his principal for loss resulting from any unreasonable delay in registration or from failure or refusal to register the transfer.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 294, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8402 Assurance that indorsements are genuine and effective.

Sec. 8402. (1) The issuer may require the following assurance that each necessary indorsement (section 8308) is genuine and effective

(a) in all cases, a guarantee of the signature (subsection (1) of section 8312) of the person indorsing; and

(b) where the indorsement is by an agent, appropriate assurance of authority to sign;

(c) where the indorsement is by a fiduciary, appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency;

(d) where there is more than one fiduciary, reasonable assurance that all who are required to sign have done so;

(e) where the indorsement is by a person not covered by any of the foregoing, assurance appropriate to the case corresponding as nearly as may be to the foregoing.

(2) A "guarantee of the signature" in subsection (1) means a guarantee signed by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to responsibility provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(3) "Appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency" in subsection (1) means

(a) in the case of a fiduciary appointed or qualified by a court, a certificate issued by or under the direction or supervision of that court or an officer thereof and dated within 60 days before the date of presentation for transfer; or

(b) in any other case, a copy of a document showing the appointment or a certificate issued by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible or, in the absence of such a document or certificate, other evidence reasonably deemed by the issuer to be appropriate. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to such evidence provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable. The issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any document obtained pursuant to this paragraph (b) except to the extent that the contents relate directly to the appointment or incumbency.

(4) The issuer may elect to require reasonable assurance beyond that specified in this section but if it does so and for a purpose other than that specified in subsection (3) (b) both requires and obtains a copy of a will, trust, indenture, articles of copartnership, bylaws or other controlling instrument it is charged with notice of all matters contained therein affecting the transfer.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 294, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8403 Adverse claims; issuer's duty of inquiry.

Sec. 8403. (1) An issuer to whom a security is presented for registration is under a duty to inquire into adverse claims if

(a) a written notification of an adverse claim is received at a time and in a manner which affords the issuer a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to the issuance of a new, reissued or re-registered security and the notification identifies the claimant, the registered owner and the issue of which the security is a part and provides an address for communications directed to the claimant; or

(b) the issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of section 8402.

(2) The issuer may discharge any duty of inquiry by any reasonable means, including notifying an adverse claimant by registered mail, or certified mail, if the receipt of mailing is postmarked, at the address furnished by him or if there be no such address at his residence or regular place of business that the security has been presented for registration of transfer by a named person, and that the transfer will be registered unless within 30 days from the date of mailing the notification, either

(a) an appropriate restraining order, injunction or other process issues from a court of competent jurisdiction; or

(b) an indemnity bond sufficient in the issuer's judgment to protect the issuer and any transfer agent, registrar or other agent of the issuer involved, from any loss which it or they may suffer by complying with the adverse claim is filed with the issuer.

(3) Unless an issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of section 8402 or receives notification of an adverse claim under subsection (1) of this section, where a security presented for registration is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons the issuer is under no duty to inquire into adverse claims. In particular

(a) an issuer registering a security in the name of a person who is a fiduciary or who is described as a fiduciary is not bound to inquire into the existence, extent, or correct description of the fiduciary relationship and thereafter the issuer may assume without inquiry that the newly registered owner continues to be the fiduciary until the issuer receives written notice that the fiduciary is no longer acting as such with respect to the particular security;

(b) an issuer registering transfer on an indorsement by a fiduciary is not bound to inquire whether the transfer is made in compliance with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer; and

(c) the issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any court record or file or other recorded or unrecorded document even though the document is in its possession and even though the transfer is made on the indorsement of a fiduciary to the fiduciary himself or to his nominee.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 295, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8404 Issuer's liability for registration of transfer.

Sec. 8404. (1) Except as otherwise provided in any law relating to the collection of taxes, the issuer is not liable to the owner or any other person suffering loss as a result of the registration of a transfer of a security if

(a) there were on or with the security the necessary indorsements (section 8308); and

(b) the issuer had no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (section 8403).

(2) Where an issuer has registered a transfer of a security to a person not entitled to it the issuer on demand must deliver a like security to the true owner unless

(a) the registration was pursuant to subsection (1); or

(b) the owner is precluded from asserting any claim for registering the transfer under subsection (1) of the following section; or

(c) such delivery would result in overissue, in which case the issuer's liability is governed by section 8104.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 295, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8405 Lost, destroyed, or stolen securities.

Sec. 8405. (1) Where a security has been lost, apparently destroyed or wrongfully taken and the owner fails to notify the issuer of that fact within a reasonable time after he has notice of it and the issuer registers a transfer of the security before receiving such a notification, the owner is precluded from asserting against the issuer any claim for registering the transfer under the preceding section or any claim to a new security under this section.

(2) Where the owner of a security claims that the security has been lost, destroyed or wrongfully taken, the issuer must issue a new security in place of the original security if the owner

(a) so requests before the issuer has notice that the security has been acquired by a bona fide purchaser; and

(b) files with the issuer a sufficient indemnity bond; and

(c) satisfies any other reasonable requirements imposed by the issuer.

(3) If, after the issue of the new security, a bona fide purchaser of the original security presents it for registration of transfer, the issuer must register the transfer unless registration would result in overissue, in which event the issuer's liability is governed by section 8104. In addition to any rights on the indemnity bond, the issuer may recover the new security from the person to whom it was issued or any person taking under him except a bona fide purchaser.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 296, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.8406 Authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar; duties, notice.

Sec. 8406. (1) Where a person acts as authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar, or other agent for an issuer in the registration of transfers of its securities or in the issue of new securities or in the cancellation of surrendered securities

(a) he is under a duty to the issuer to exercise good faith and due diligence in performing his functions; and

(b) he has with regard to the particular functions he performs the same obligation to the holder or owner of the security and has the same rights and privileges as the issuer has in regard to those functions.

(2) Notice to an authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar or other such agent is notice to the issuer with respect to the functions performed by the agent.

ARTICLE 9

SECURED TRANSACTIONS; SALES OF ACCOUNTS, CONTRACT RIGHTS AND CHATTEL PAPER

PART 1

SHORT TITLE, APPLICABILITY AND DEFINITIONS

440.9101 Uniform commercial code—secured transactions; short title.

Sec. 9101. This article shall be known and may be cited as "uniform commercial code—secured transactions".

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 296, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9102 Applicability of article.

Sec. 9102. (1) Except as otherwise provided in section 9103 on multiple state transactions and in section 9104 on excluded transactions, this article applies so far as concerns any personal property and fixtures within the jurisdiction of this state

(a) to any transaction (regardless of its form) which is intended to create a security interest in personal property or fixtures including goods, documents, instruments, general intangibles, chattel paper, accounts or contract rights; and also

(b) to any sale of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper.

(2) This article applies to security interests created by contract including pledge, assignment, chattel mortgage, chattel trust, trust deed, factor's lien, equipment trust, conditional sale, trust receipt, other lien or title retention contract and lease or consignment intended as security. This article does not apply to statutory liens except as provided in section 9310.

(3) The application of this article to a security interest in a secured obligation is not affected by the fact that the obligation is itself secured by a transaction or interest to which this article does not apply.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 296, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9103 Law applicable to validity, perfection and filing of security interest.

Sec. 9103. (1) If the office where the assignor of accounts or contract rights keeps his records concerning them is in this state, the validity and perfection of a security interest therein and the possibility and effect of proper filing is governed by this article; otherwise by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such office is located.

Same; location of debtor's place of business; airplanes.

(2) If the chief place of business of a debtor is in this state, this article governs the validity and perfection of a security interest and the possibility and effect of proper filing with regard to general intangibles or with regard to goods of a type which are normally used in more than one jurisdiction (such as automotive equipment, rolling stock, airplanes, road building equipment, commercial harvesting equipment, construction machinery and the like) if such goods are classified as equipment or classified as inventory by reason of their being leased by the debtor to others. Otherwise, the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such chief place of business is located shall govern. If the chief place of business is located in a jurisdiction which does not provide for perfection of the security interest by filing or recording in that jurisdiction, then the security interest may be perfected by filing in this state. For the purpose of determining the validity and perfection of a security interest in an airplane, the chief place of business of a debtor who is a foreign air carrier under the federal aviation act of 1958, as amended, is the designated office of the agent upon whom service of process may be made on behalf of the debtor.

Same; property subject to security interest brought into state.

(3) If personal property other than that governed by subsections (1) and (2) is already subject to a security interest when it is brought into this state, the validity of the security interest in this state is to be determined by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached. However, if the parties to the transaction understood at the time that the security interest attached that the property would be kept in this state and it was brought into this state within 30 days after the security interest attached for purposes other than transportation through this state, then the validity of the security interest in this state is to be determined by the law of this state. If the security interest was already perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into this state, the security interest continues perfected in this state for 4 months and also thereafter if within the 4-month period it is perfected in this state. The security interest may also be perfected in this state after the expiration of the 4-month period; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in this state. If the security interest was not perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into this state, it may be perfected in this state; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in this state.

Same; property covered by statutory certificate of title.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (3), if personal property is covered by a certificate of title issued under a statute of this state or any other jurisdiction which requires indication on a certificate of title of any security interest in the property as a condition of perfection, then the perfection is governed by the law of the jurisdiction which issued the certificate.

Same; alien assignor of accounts or contract rights within jurisdiction of this state.

(5) Notwithstanding subsection (1) and section 9302, if the office where the assignor of accounts or contract rights keeps his records concerning them is not located in a jurisdiction which is a part of the United States, its territories or possessions, and the accounts or contract rights are within the jurisdiction of this state or the transaction which creates the security interest otherwise bears an appropriate relation to this state, this article governs the validity and perfection of the security interest and the security interest may only be perfected by notification to the account debtor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 297, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 375, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

440.9104 Transactions and interests excluded from article.

Sec. 9104. This article does not apply

(a) to a security interest subject to any statute of the United States such as the Ship Mortgage Act, 1920, to the extent that such statute governs the rights of parties to and third parties affected by transactions in particular types of property; or

(b) to a landlord's lien; or

(c) to a lien given by a statute or other rule of law for services or materials except as provided in section 9310 on priority of such liens; or

(d) to a transfer of a claim for wages, salary or other compensation of an employee; or

(e) to an equipment trust covering railway rolling stock; or

(f) to a sale of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper as part of a sale of the business out of which they arose, or an assignment of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper which is for the purpose of collection only, or a transfer of a contract right to an assignee who is also to do the performance under the contract; or

(g) to a transfer of an interest or claim in or under any policy of insurance; or

(h) to a right represented by a judgment; or

(i) to any right of setoff; or

(j) except to the extent that provision is made for fixtures in section 9313, to the creation or transfer of an interest in or lien on real estate, including a lease or rents thereunder; or

(k) to a transfer in whole or in part of any of the following: any claim arising out of tort; any deposit, savings, passbook or like account maintained with a bank, savings and loan association, credit union or like organization.

Sec. 9105. (1) In this article unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Account debtor" means the person who is obligated on an account, chattel paper, contract right or general intangible;

(b) "Chattel paper" means a writing or writings which evidence both a monetary obligation and a security interest in or a lease of specific goods. When a transaction is evidenced both by such a security agreement or a lease and by an instrument or a series of instruments, the group of writings taken together constitutes chattel paper;

(c) "Collateral" means the property subject to a security interest, and includes accounts, contract rights and chattel paper which have been sold;

(d) "Debtor" means the person who owes payment or other performance of the obligation secured, whether or not he owns or has rights in the collateral, and includes the seller of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper. Where the debtor and the owner of the collateral are not the same person, the term "debtor" means the owner of the collateral in any provision of the article dealing with the collateral, the obligor in any provision dealing with the obligation, and may include both where the context so requires;

(e) "Document" means document of title as defined in the general definitions of article 1 (section 1201);

(f) "Goods" includes all things which are movable at the time the security interest attaches or which are fixtures (section 9313), but does not include money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, contract rights and other things in action. "Goods" also include the unborn young of animals and growing crops;

(g) "Instrument" means a negotiable instrument (defined in section 3104), or a security (defined in section 8102) or any other writing which evidences a right to the payment of money and is not itself a security agreement or lease and is of a type which is in ordinary course of business transferred by delivery with any necessary indorsement or assignment;

(h) "Security agreement" means an agreement which creates or provides for a security interest;

(i) "Secured party" means a lender, seller or other person in whose favor there is a security interest, including a person to whom accounts, contract rights or chattel paper have been sold. When the holders of obligations issued under an indenture of trust, equipment trust agreement or the like are represented by a trustee or other person, the representative is the secured party.

440.9108 After acquired, collateral as security for antecedent debt.

Sec. 9108. Where a secured party makes an advance, incurs an obligation, releases a perfected security interest, or otherwise gives new value which is to be secured in whole or in part by after-acquired property his security interest in the after-acquired collateral shall be deemed to be taken for new value and not as security for an antecedent debt if the debtor acquires his rights in such collateral either in the ordinary course of his business or under a contract of purchase made pursuant to the security agreement within a reasonable time after new value is given.

440.9109 Consumer goods, equipment, farm products, inventory; definitions.

Sec. 9109. Goods are

- (1) "consumer goods" if they are used or bought for use primarily for personal, family or household purposes;
- (2) "equipment" if they are used or bought for use primarily in business (including farming or a profession) or by a debtor who is a nonprofit organization or a governmental subdivision or agency or if the goods are not included in the definitions of inventory, farm products or consumer goods;
- (3) "farm products" if they are crops or livestock or supplies used or produced in farming operations or if they are products of crops or livestock in their unmanufactured states (such as ginned cotton, wool-clip, maple syrup, milk and eggs), and if they are in the possession of a debtor engaged in raising, fattening, grazing or other farming operations. If goods are farm products they are neither equipment nor inventory;
- (4) "inventory" if they are held by a person who holds them for sale or lease or to be furnished under contracts of service or if he has so furnished them, or if they are raw materials, work in process or materials used or consumed in a business. Inventory of a person is not to be classified as his equipment.

440.9110 Description of property; sufficiency.

Sec. 9110. For the purposes of this article any description of personal property or real estate is sufficient whether or not it is specific if it reasonably identifies what is described.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 300, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9112 Collateral not owned by debtor; owner's rights.

Sec. 9112. Unless otherwise agreed, when a secured party knows that collateral is owned by a person who is not the debtor, the owner of the collateral is entitled to receive from the secured party any surplus under section 9502(2) or under section 9504(1), and is not liable for the debt or for any deficiency after resale, and he has the same right as the debtor

- (a) to receive statements under section 9208;
- (b) to receive notice of and to object to a secured party's proposal to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the indebtedness under section 9505;
- (c) to redeem the collateral under section 9506;
- (d) to obtain injunctive or other relief under section 9507(1); and 440.9113 Security interests arising under article on sales.

Sec. 9113. A security interest arising solely under the article on sales (article 2) is subject to the provisions of this article except that to the extent that and so long as the debtor does not have or does not lawfully obtain possession of the goods

- (a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable; and
- (b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and
- (c) the rights of the secured party on default by the debtor are governed by the article on sales (article 2).

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 300, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

PART 2

VALIDITY OF SECURITY AGREEMENT AND RIGHTS OF PARTIES THERETO

440.9201 Validity of security agreement.

Sec. 9201. Except as otherwise provided by this act a security agreement is effective according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the collateral and against creditors. Nothing in this article validates any charge or practice illegal under any statute or regulation thereunder governing usury, small loans, retail installment sales, or the like, or extends the application of any such statute or regulation to any transaction not otherwise subject thereto.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 300, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9202 Title to collateral.

Sec. 9202. Each provision of this article with regard to rights, obligations and remedies applies whether title to collateral is in the secured party or in the debtor.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 301, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9203 Enforceability of security interest; proceeds, application of other laws.

Sec. 9203. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 4208 on the security interest of a collecting bank and section 9113 on a security interest arising under the article on sales, a security interest is not enforceable against the debtor or third parties unless

- (a) the collateral is in the possession of the secured party; or
- (b) the debtor has signed a security agreement which contains a description of the collateral and in addition, when the security interest covers crops or oil, gas or minerals to be extracted or timber to be cut, a description of the land concerned. In describing collateral, the word "proceeds" is sufficient without further description to cover proceeds of any character.

(2) A transaction, although subject to this article, is also subject to Act No. 21 of the Public Acts of 1939, as amended, being sections 493.1 to 493.26 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, Act No. 305 of the Public Acts of 1939, as amended, being sections 566.301 to 566.314 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, and Act No. 27 of the Public Acts of the Extra Session of 1950, as amended, being sections 492.101 to 492.140 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, and in the case of conflict between the provisions of this article and any such statute, the provisions of such statute control. Failure to comply with any applicable statute has only the effect which is specified therein.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 301, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9204 Attachment of security interest; after-acquired property; future advances.

Sec. 9204. (1) A security interest cannot attach until there is agreement (subsection (3) of section 1201) that it attach, and value is given, and the debtor has rights in the collateral. It attaches as soon as all of the events in the preceding sentence have taken place unless explicit agreement postpones the time of attaching.

(2) For the purposes of this section the debtor has no rights

(a) in crops until they are planted or otherwise become growing crops, in the young of livestock until they are conceived;

(b) in fish until caught, in oil, gas or minerals until they are extracted, in timber until it is cut;

(c) in a contract right until the contract has been made;

(d) in an account until it comes into existence.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (4) a security agreement may provide that collateral, whenever acquired, shall secure all obligations covered by the security agreement.

(4) No security interest attaches under an after-acquired property clause

(a) to crops which become such more than 1 year after the security agreement is executed except that a security interest in crops which is given in conjunction with a lease or a land purchase or improvement transaction evidenced by a contract, mortgage or deed of trust may if so agreed attach to crops to be grown on the land concerned during the period of such real estate transaction;

(b) to consumer goods other than accessions (section 9314) when given as additional security unless the debtor acquires rights in them within 10 days after the secured party gives value.

(5) Obligations covered by a security agreement may include future advances or other value whether or not the advances or value are given pursuant to commitment.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 301, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9205 Disposition of collateral without accounting; possession.

Sec. 9205. A security interest is not invalid or fraudulent against creditors by reason of liberty in the debtor to use, commingle or dispose of all or part of the collateral (including returned or repossessed goods) or to collect or compromise accounts, contract rights or chattel paper, or to accept the return of goods or make repossessions, or to use, commingle or dispose of proceeds, or by reason of the failure of the secured party to require the debtor to account for proceeds or replace collateral. This section does not relax the requirements of possession where perfection of a security interest depends upon possession of the collateral by the secured party or by a bailee.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 301, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9206 Agreement not to assert defenses against assignees; sales warranties where security agreement exists.

Sec. 9206. (1) Subject to any statute or decision which establishes a different rule for buyers or lessees of consumer goods, an agreement by a buyer or lessee that he will not assert against an assignee any claim or defense which he may have against the seller or lessor is enforceable by an assignee who takes his assignment for value, in good faith and without notice of a claim or defense, except as to defenses of a type which may be asserted against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument under the article on commercial paper (article 3). A buyer who as part of one transaction signs both a negotiable instrument and a security agreement makes such an agreement.

(2) When a seller retains a purchase money security interest in goods the article on sales (article 2) governs the sale and any disclaimer, limitation or modification of the seller's warranties.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 302, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 376, Act 250, Eff. Aug. 28.

440.9207 Collateral in secured party's possession; rights, duties, and liabilities.

Sec. 9207. (1) A secured party must use reasonable care in the custody and preservation of collateral in his possession. In the case of an instrument or chattel paper reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when collateral is in the secured party's possession

(a) reasonable expenses (including the cost of any insurance and payment of taxes or other charges) incurred in the custody, preservation, use or operation of the collateral are chargeable to the debtor and are secured by the collateral;

(b) the risk of accidental loss or damage is on the debtor to the extent of any deficiency in any effective insurance coverage;

(c) the secured party may hold as additional security any increase or profits (except money) received from the collateral, but money so received, unless remitted to the debtor, shall be applied in reduction of the secured obligation;

(d) the secured party must keep the collateral identifiable but fungible collateral may be commingled;

(e) the secured party may repledge the collateral upon terms which do not impair the debtor's right to redeem it.

(3) A secured party is liable for any loss caused by his failure to meet any obligation imposed by the preceding subsections but does not lose his security interest.

(4) A secured party may use or operate the collateral for the purpose of preserving the collateral or its value or pursuant to the order of a court of appropriate jurisdiction or, except in the case of consumer goods, in the manner and to the extent provided in the security agreement.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 302, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9208 Statement of account; list of collateral.

Sec. 9208. (1) A debtor may sign a statement indicating what he believes to be the aggregate amount of unpaid indebtedness as of a specified date and may send it to the secured party with a request that the statement be approved or corrected and returned to the debtor. When the security agreement or any other record kept by the secured party identifies the collateral a debtor may similarly request the secured party to approve or correct a list of the collateral.

(2) The secured party must comply with such a request within 2 weeks after receipt by sending a written correction or approval. If the secured party claims a security interest in all of a particular type of collateral owned by the debtor he may indicate that fact in his reply and need not approve or correct an itemized list of such collateral. If the secured party without reasonable excuse fails to comply he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor thereby; and if the debtor has properly included in his request a good faith statement of the obligation or a list of the collateral or both the secured party may claim a security interest only as shown in the statement against persons misled by his failure to comply. If he no longer has an interest in the obligation or collateral at the time the request is received he must disclose the name and address of any successor in interest known to him and he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor as a result of failure to disclose. A successor in interest is not subject to this section until a request is received by him.

(3) A debtor is entitled to such a statement once every 6 months without charge. The secured party may require payment of a charge not exceeding $10.00 for each additional statement furnished.

PART 3

RIGHTS OF THIRD PARTIES; PERFECTED AND UNPERFECTED SECURITY INTERESTS; RULES OF PRIORITY

440.9301 Unperfected security interest; rights of third parties; priorities; lien creditors.

Sec. 9301. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2), an unperfected security interest is subordinate to the rights of

- (a) persons entitled to priority under section 9312;
- (b) a person who becomes a lien creditor without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;
- (c) in the case of goods, instruments, documents, and chattel paper, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee in bulk or other buyer not in ordinary course of business to the extent that he gives value and receives delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;
- (d) in the case of accounts, contract rights, and general intangibles, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee to the extent that he gives value without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected.

(2) If the secured party files with respect to a purchase money security interest before or within 10 days after the collateral comes into possession of the debtor, he takes priority over the rights of a transferee in bulk or of a lien creditor which arise between the time the security interest attaches and the time of filing.

(3) A "lien creditor" means a creditor who has acquired a lien on the property involved by attachment, levy or the like and includes an assignee for benefit of creditors from the time of assignment, and a trustee in bankruptcy from the date of the filing of the petition or a receiver in equity from the time of appointment. Unless all the creditors represented had knowledge of the security interests such a representative of creditors is a lien creditor without knowledge even though he personally has knowledge of the security interest.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 303, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9302 Security interest; filing of financing statement, nonapplication of filing requirement; certain public utilities.

Sec. 9302. (1) A financing statement must be filed to perfect all security interests except the following:

- (a) a security interest in collateral in possession of the secured party under section 9305;
- (b) a security interest temporarily perfected in instruments or documents without delivery under section 9304 or in proceeds for a 10-day period under section 9306;
- (c) a purchase money security interest in farm equipment having a purchase price not in excess of $2,500.00; but filing is required for a fixture under section 9313 or for a vehicle for which a certificate of title is required to be issued under the provisions of section 222 of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, being section 257.222 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, or an accessory as defined in that act;

(d) a purchase money security interest in consumer goods; but filing is required for a fixture under section 9313 or for a vehicle for which a certificate of title is required to be issued under the provisions of section 222 of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, or an accessory as defined in that act;

(e) an assignment of accounts or contract rights which does not alone or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the outstanding accounts or contract rights of the assignor;

(f) a security interest of a collecting bank (section 4208) or arising under the article on sales (see section 9113) or covered in subsection (3) of this section.

(2) If a secured party assigns a perfected security interest, no filing under this article is required in order to continue the perfected status of the security interest against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor.

(3) The filing provisions of this article do not apply to a security interest in property subject to a statute

(a) of the United States which provides for a national registration or filing of all security interests in such property; or

(b) of this state which provides for central filing of security interests in such property, or a vehicle which is not inventory held for sale for which a certificate of title is required to be issued under the provisions of section 222 of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, being section 257.222 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, as amended.

(4) A security interest in property covered by a statute described in subsection (3) can be perfected only by registration or filing under that statute; except that in the case of a security interest in a vehicle which is not inventory held for sale as referred to in subsection (3) or an accessory as referred to therein, the filing required to perfect, such security interest is not only the filing with the secretary of state of an application for a certificate of title containing a statement with regard to such security interest as provided in section 217 of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, but in addition the filing of a financing statement with the register of deeds as provided in section 9401 (1) the effective time of the filing required for the perfection of such security interest is determined by the time of filing with the secretary of state and the register of deeds, whichever occurs later.

(5) Except as provided in this subsection, the filing provisions of this article do not apply to a security interest in property of any description or any interest therein created by a mortgage made by a corporation which is a railroad company or union depot company or by a corporation, domestic or foreign, organized or existing for the purpose of constructing, acquiring, owning or operating a railroad or union depot in this state, or any corporation engaged in transmitting, conveying, distributing or supplying steam, electricity or gas, natural or manufactured, or telephonic or telegraphic communication or crude oil or petroleum or products derived therefrom but a mortgage made by any of the corporations aforesaid shall be recorded and filed in accordance with the following requirements:

(a) the mortgage shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of each county in this state in which any real estate described in the mortgage is situated; and

(b) shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state if the mortgage includes any rolling stock, movable equipment, machinery or any other personal property or fixtures.

In lieu of recording or filing an original of any mortgage or of any supplement or amendment thereto, a copy thereof may be recorded or filed when there is annexed thereto an affidavit of the mortgagor or the mortgagees, or an agent of either, that it is a true copy. Any mortgage filed in the office of the secretary of state shall perfect a security interest in the rolling stock, movable equipment, machinery and other personal property and fixtures included therein from the date of the filing. If any mortgage, filed as provided herein, by its terms provides for a security interest in any property which may thereafter be acquired by the mortgagor, the mortgage shall perfect a security interest in the after acquired property. For each mortgage and for each supplement and amendment to a mortgage filed with the secretary of state, he shall charge and collect a fee of $1.00. The secretary of state shall then indorse on each mortgage, supplement or amendment the date and time of filing thereof in his office and shall maintain an appropriate index of the filing thereof. When any mortgage is satisfied or canceled and evidence thereof has been filed in the office of the secretary of state, he shall enter the date of satisfaction or cancellation thereof in an appropriate record in his office. The secretary of state shall furnish a certificate of filing to the person filing any mortgage, supplement or amendment thereto or evidence of satisfaction or cancellation thereof.

To the extent that any mortgage heretofore executed has been filed or recorded as provided herein, it need not be refiled or re-recorded hereunder, and nothing herein shall be deemed to impair the lien or effect of any mortgage heretofore executed which has been recorded or filed in accordance with the laws of this state applicable thereto prior to the effective date of this subsection.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 303, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964;—Am. 1964, p. 317, Act 235, Eff. Aug. 28.

440.9303 Security interest; time when perfected.

Sec. 9303. (1) A security interest is perfected when it has attached and when all of the applicable steps required for perfection have been taken. Such steps are specified in sections 9302, 9304, 9305 and 9306. If such steps are taken before the security interest attaches, it is perfected at the time when it attaches.

(2) If a security interest is originally perfected in any way permitted under this article and is subsequently perfected in some other way under this article, without an intermediate period when it was unperfected, the security interest shall be deemed to be perfected continuously for the purposes of this article.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 304, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9304 Security interest; permissive filing; possession; temporary perfection without filing.

Sec. 9304. (1) A security interest in chattel paper or negotiable documents may be perfected by filing. A security interest in instruments (other than instruments which constitute part of chattel paper) can be perfected only by the secured party's taking possession, except as provided in subsections (4) and (5).

(2) During the period that goods are in the possession of the issuer of a negotiable document therefor, a security interest in the goods is perfected by perfecting a security interest in the document, and any security interest in the goods otherwise perfected during such period is subject thereto.

(3) A security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor is perfected by issuance of a document in the name of the secured party or by the bailee's receipt of notification of the secured party's interest or by filing as to the goods.

(4) A security interest in instruments or negotiable documents is perfected without filing or the taking of possession for a period of 21 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for a new value given under a written security agreement.

(5) A security interest remains perfected for a period of 21 days without filing where a secured party having a perfected security interest in an instrument, a negotiable document or goods in possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor

(a) makes available to the debtor the goods or documents representing the goods for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or for the purpose of loading, unloading, storing, shipping, transshipping, manufacturing, processing or otherwise dealing with them in a manner preliminary to their sale or exchange; or

(b) delivers the instrument to the debtor for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or of presentation, collection, renewal or registration of transfer.

(6) After the 21-day period in subsections (4) and (5) perfection depends upon compliance with applicable provisions of this article.

440.9305 Security interest; possession of collateral.

Sec. 9305. A security interest in letters of credit and advices of credit (subsection (2)(a) of section 5116), goods, instruments, negotiable documents or chattel paper may be perfected by the secured party's taking possession of the collateral. If such collateral other than goods covered by a negotiable document is held by a bailee, the secured party is deemed to have possession from the time the bailee receives notification of the secured party's interest. A security interest is perfected by possession from the time possession is taken without relation back and continues only so long as possession is retained, unless otherwise specified in this article. The security interest may be otherwise perfected as provided in this article before or after the period of possession by the secured party.

440.9306 Proceeds; definition.

Sec. 9306. (1) "Proceeds" includes whatever is received when collateral or proceeds are sold, exchanged, collected or otherwise disposed of. The term also includes the account arising when the right to payment is earned under a contract right. Money, checks and the like are "cash proceeds". All other proceeds are "noncash proceeds".

Security interest; continuance in collateral or identifiable proceeds.

(2) Except where this article otherwise provides, a security interest continues in collateral notwithstanding sale, exchange or other disposition thereof by the debtor unless his action was authorized by the secured party in the security agreement or otherwise, and also continues in any identifiable proceeds including collections received by the debtor.

Same; temporary continuance in proceeds.

(3) The security interest in proceeds is a continuously perfected security interest if the interest in the original collateral was perfected but it ceases to be a perfected security interest and becomes unperfected 10 days after receipt of the proceeds by the debtor unless

(a) a filed financing statement covering the original collateral also covers proceeds; or

(b) the security interest in the proceeds is perfected before the expiration of the 10-day period.

Same; insolvency of debtor.

(4) In the event of insolvency proceedings instituted by or against a debtor, a secured party with a perfected security interest in proceeds has a perfected security interest

(a) in identifiable noncash proceeds;

(b) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of money which is not commingled with other money or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings;

(c) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of checks and the like which are not deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings; and

(d) In all cash and bank accounts of the debtor, if other cash proceeds have been commingled or deposited in a bank account, but the perfected security interest under this paragraph (d) is

(i) subject to any right of setoff; and

(ii) limited to an amount not greater than the amount of any cash proceeds received by the debtor within 10 days before the institution of the insolvency proceedings and commingled or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings less the amount of cash proceeds received by the debtor and paid over to the secured party during the 10-day period.

Same; sale of goods or transfer of chattel paper or accounts; priorities.

(5) If a sale of goods results in an account or chattel paper which is transferred by the seller to a secured party, and if the goods are returned to or are repossessed by the seller or the secured party, the following rules determine priorities:

(a) If the goods were collateral at the time of sale for an indebtedness of the seller which is still unpaid, the original security interest attaches again to the goods and continues as a perfected security interest if it was perfected at the time when the goods were sold. If the security interest was originally perfected by a filing which is still effective, nothing further is required to continue the perfected status; in any other case, the secured party must take possession of the returned or repossessed goods or must file.

(b) An unpaid transferee of the chattel paper has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is prior to a security interest asserted under paragraph (a) to the extent that the transferee of the chattel paper was entitled to priority under section 9308.

(c) An unpaid transferee of the account has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is subordinate to a security interest asserted under paragraph (a).

(d) A security interest of an unpaid transferee asserted under paragraph (b) or (c) must be perfected for protection against creditors of the transferor and purchasers of the returned or repossessed goods.

440.9307 Perfected security interest; buyer in ordinary course of business; farm products.

Sec. 9307. (1) A buyer in ordinary course of business (subsection (9) of section 1201) other than a person buying farm products from a person engaged in farming operations takes free of a security interest created by his seller even though the security interest is perfected and even though the buyer knows of its existence.

Consumer goods, farm equipment not over $2,500; filed financing statement.

(2) In the case of consumer goods and in the case of farm equipment having an original purchase price not in excess of $2,500.00 (other than fixtures, see section 9313), a buyer takes free of a security interest even though perfected if he buys without knowledge of the security interest, for value and for his own personal, family or household purposes or his own farming operations unless prior to the purchase the secured party has filed a financing statement covering such goods.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 306, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.9308 Perfected security; purchaser of chattel paper or nonnegotiable instrument for new value with possession; priority.

Sec. 9308. A purchaser of chattel paper or a non-negotiable instrument who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business and without knowledge that the specific paper or instrument is subject to a security interest has priority over a security interest which is perfected under section 9304 (permissive filing and temporary perfection). A purchaser of chattel paper who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business has priority over a security interest in chattel paper which is claimed merely as proceeds of inventory subject to a security interest (section 9306), even though he knows that the specific paper is subject to the security interest.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 306, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9309 Holders and purchasers; priority over earlier security interest.

Sec. 9309. Nothing in this article limits the rights of a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument (section 3302) or a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated (section 7501) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (section 8301) and such holders or purchasers take priority over an earlier security interest even though perfected. Filing under this article does not constitute notice of the security interest to such holders or purchasers.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 306, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9310 Priority of lien arising by operation of law.

Sec. 9310. When a person in the ordinary course of his business furnishes services or materials with respect to goods subject to a security interest, a lien upon goods in the possession of such person given by statute or rule of law for such materials or services takes priority over a perfected security interest unless the lien is statutory and the statute expressly provides otherwise.

The debtor's rights in collateral may be voluntarily or involuntarily transferred (by way of sale, creation of a security interest, attachment, levy, garnishment or other judicial process) notwithstanding a provision in the security agreement prohibiting any transfer or making the transfer constitute a default.

440.9312 Priorities among conflicting security interests in same collateral.

Sec. 9312. (1) The rules of priority stated in the following sections shall govern where applicable: section 4208 with respect to the security interest of collecting banks in items being collected, accompanying documents and proceeds; section 9301 on certain priorities; section 9304 on goods covered by documents; section 9306 on proceeds and repossessions; section 9307 on buyers of goods; section 9308 on possessory against non-possessory interests in chattel paper or non-negotiable instruments; section 9309 on security interests in negotiable instruments, documents or securities; section 9310 on priorities between perfected security interests and liens by operation of law; section 9313 on security interests in fixtures as against interests in real estate; section 9314 on security interests in accessions as against interest in goods; section 9315 on conflicting security interests where goods lose their identity or become part of a product; and section 9316 on contractual subordination.

(2) A perfected security interest in crops for new value given to enable the debtor to produce the crops during the production season and given not more than 3 months before the crops becoming growing crops by planting or otherwise takes priority over an earlier perfected security interest to the extent that such earlier interest secures obligations due more than 6 months before the crops become growing crops by planting or otherwise, even though the person giving new value had knowledge of the earlier security interest.

(3) A purchase money security interest in inventory collateral has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if

(a) the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral; and

(b) any secured party whose security interest is known to the holder of the purchase money security interest or who, prior to the date of the filing made by the holder of the purchase money security interest, had filed a financing statement covering the same items or type of inventory, has received notification of the purchase money security interest before the debtor receives possession of the collateral covered by the purchase money security interest; and

(c) such notification states that the person giving the notice has or expects to acquire a purchase money security interest in inventory of the debtor, describing such inventory by item or type.

(4) A purchase money security interest in collateral other than inventory has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral or within 10 days thereafter.

(5) In all cases not governed by other rules stated in this section (including cases of purchase money security interests which do not qualify for the special priorities set forth in subsections (3) and (4) of this section), priority between conflicting security interests in the same collateral shall be determined as follows:

(a) in the order of filing if both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under section 9204(1) and whether it attached before or after filing;

(b) in the order of perfection unless both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under section 9204(1) and, in the case of a filed security interest, whether it attached before or after filing; and

(c) in the order of attachment under section 9204(1) so long as neither is perfected.

(6) For the purpose of the priority rules of the immediately preceding subsection, a continuously perfected security interest shall be treated at all times as if perfected by filing if it was originally so perfected, and it shall be treated at all times as if perfected otherwise than by filing if it was originally perfected otherwise than by filing.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 307, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9313 Fixtures; priority of security interests, removal.

Sec. 9313. (1) The rules of this section do not apply to goods incorporated into a structure in the manner of lumber, bricks, tile, cement, glass, metal work and the like, and no security interest in them exists under this article unless the structure remains personal property under applicable law. The law of this state other than this act determines whether and when other goods become fixtures. This act does not prevent creation of an encumbrance upon fixtures or real estate pursuant to the law applicable to real estate.

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods before they become fixtures takes priority as to the goods over the claims of all persons who have an interest in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4).

(3) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become fixtures is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the real estate at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures.

(4) The security interests described in subsections (2) and (3) do not take priority over

(a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the real estate; or

(b) a creditor with a lien on the real estate subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or

(c) a creditor with a prior encumbrance of record on the real estate to the extent that he makes subsequent advances

if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings is obtained, or the subsequent advance under the prior encumbrance is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the real estate at a foreclosure sale other than an encumbrancer purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(5) When under subsections (2) or (3) and (4) a secured party has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the real estate, he may, on default, subject to the provisions of part 5, remove his collateral from the real estate but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in value of the real estate caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation.

440.9314 Accessions; priority of security interests, removal.

Sec. 9314. (1) A security interest in goods which attaches before they are installed in or affixed to other goods takes priority as to the goods installed or affixed (called in this section "accessions") over the claims of all persons to the whole except as stated in subsection (3) and subject to section 9315(1).

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become part of a whole is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the whole except as stated in subsection (3) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the whole at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as part of the whole.

(3) The security interests described in subsections (1) and (2) do not take priority over

(a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the whole; or

(b) a creditor with a lien on the whole subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or

(c) a creditor with a prior perfected security interest in the whole to the extent that he makes subsequent advances

if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings obtained or the subsequent advance under the prior perfected security interest is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the whole at a foreclosure sale other than the holder of a perfected security interest purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(4) When under subsections (1) or (2) and (3) a secured party has an interest in accessions which has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the whole, he may on default subject to the provisions of part 5 remove his collateral from the whole but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the whole who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury but not for any diminution in value of the whole caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 306, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.9315 Commingled or processed goods; ratio of security.

Sec. 9315. (1) If a security interest in goods was perfected and subsequently the goods or a part thereof have become part of a product or mass, the security interest continues in the product or mass if

(a) the goods are so manufactured, processed, assembled or commingled that their identity is lost in the product or mass; or

(b) a financing statement covering the original goods also covers the product into which the goods have been manufactured, processed or assembled.

In a case to which paragraph (b) applies, no separate security interest in that part of the original goods which has been manufactured, processed or assembled into the product may be claimed under section 9314.

(2) When under subsection (1) more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass, they rank equally according to the ratio that the cost of the goods to which each interest originally attached bears to the cost of the total product or mass.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 309, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.9316 Subordination of priority by agreement.

Sec. 9316. Nothing in this article prevents subordination by agreement by any person entitled to priority.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 309, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.9317 Liability of secured party for debtor's acts or omissions.

Sec. 9317. The mere existence of a security interest or authority given to the debtor to dispose of or use collateral does not impose contract or tort liability upon the secured party for the debtor's acts or omissions.

HISTORY: New 1982, p. 309, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1984.

440.9318 Assigned accounts; defenses against assignee; notice of assignment.

Sec. 9318. (1) Unless an account debtor has made an enforceable agreement not to assert defenses or claims arising out of a sale as provided in section 9206 the rights of an assignee are subject to

(a) all the terms of the contract between the account debtor and assignor and any defense or claim arising therefrom; and

(b) any other defense or claim of the account debtor against the assignor which accrues before the account debtor receives notification of the assignment.

Modification or substitution of contract.

(2) So far as the right to payment under an assigned contract right has not already become an account, and notwithstanding notification of the assignment, any modification of or substitution for the contract made in good faith and in accordance with reasonable commercial standards is effective against an assignee unless the account debtor has otherwise agreed but the assignee acquires corresponding rights under the modified or substituted contract. The assignment may provide that such modification or substitution is a breach by the assignor.

Payment; notice of assignment.

(3) The account debtor is authorized to pay the assignor until the account debtor receives notification that the account has been assigned and that payment is to be made to the assignee. A notification which does not reasonably identify the rights assigned is ineffective. If requested by the account debtor, the assignee must seasonably furnish reasonable proof that the assignment has been made and unless he does so the account debtor may pay the assignor.

Prohibition assignment of account or contract right.

(4) A term in any contract between an account debtor and an assignor which prohibits assignment of an account or contract right to which they are parties is ineffective.

PART 4

FILING

440.9401 Place of filing to perfect security interest; error; change of residence of debtor or location of collateral.

Sec. 9401. (1) The proper place to file in order to perfect a security interest is as follows:

(a) When the collateral is equipment used in farming operations, or farm products, or accounts, contract rights or general intangibles arising from or relating to the sale of farm products by a farmer, or consumer goods, then in the office of the register of deeds in the county of the debtor's residence or if the debtor is not a resident of this state then in the office of the register of deeds in the county where the goods are kept, and in addition when the collateral is crops in the office of the register of deeds in the county where the land on which the crops are growing or to be grown is located;

(b) when the collateral is goods which at the time the security interest attaches are or are to become fixtures, then in the office where a mortgage on the real estate concerned would be filed or recorded;

(c) when the collateral is a vehicle which is not inventory held for sale for which a certificate of title is required to be issued under the provisions of section 222 of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, being section 257.222 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, then in the office of the register of deeds in the county of the debtor's residence or if the debtor has no residence in this state, in the office of the register of deeds in the county where the chief place of business of the debtor is located in this state, or if the debtor has no residence or place of business in this state, in the office of the register of deeds in the county where the vehicle is kept;

(d) in all other cases, in the office of the secretary of state.

(2) A filing which is made in good faith in an improper place or not in all of the places required by this section is nevertheless effective with regard to any collateral as to which the filing complied with the requirements of this article and is also effective with regard to collateral covered by the financing statement against any person who has knowledge of the contents of such financing statement.

(3) A filing which is made in the proper place in this state continues effective even though the debtor's residence or place of business or the location of the collateral or its use, whichever controlled the original filing, is thereafter changed.

(4) If collateral is brought into this state from another jurisdiction, the rules stated in section 9103 determine whether filing is necessary in this state.

440.9402 Financing statement; formal requisites, amendments.

Sec. 9402. (1) A financing statement is sufficient if it is signed by the debtor and the secured party, gives an address of the secured party from which information concerning the security interest may be obtained, gives a mailing address of the debtor and contains a statement indicating the types, or describing the items, of collateral. A fi-financing statement may be filed before a security agreement is made or a security interest otherwise attaches. When the financing statement covers crops growing or to be grown or goods which are or are to become fixtures, the statement must also contain a description of the real estate concerned. A copy of the security agreement is sufficient as a financing statement if it contains the above information and is signed by both parties.

(2) A financing statement which otherwise complies with subsection (1) is sufficient although it is signed only by the secured party when it is filed to perfect a security interest in

(a) collateral already subject to a security interest in another jurisdiction when it is brought into this state. Such a financing statement must state that the collateral was brought into this state under such circumstances.

(b) proceeds under section 9306 if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected. Such a financing statement must describe the original collateral.

(3) A form substantially as follows is sufficient to comply with subsection (1):

 Address
 Name of secured party (or assignee)
 Address

1. This financing statement covers the following types (or items) of property:

(Describe)

2. (If collateral is crops) The above described crops are growing or are to be grown on: (Describe real estate)

3. (If collateral is goods which are or are to become fixtures) The above described goods are affixed or to be affixed to:

(Describe real estate)

4. (If proceeds or products of collateral are claimed) Proceeds—products of the collateral are also covered.

Signature of debtor (or assignor)

Signature of secured party (or assignee)

(4) The term “financing statement” as used in this article means the original financing statement and any amendments but if any amendment adds collateral, it is effective as to the added collateral only from the filing date of the amendment.

(5) A financing statement substantially complying with the requirements of this section is effective even though it contains minor errors which are not seriously misleading.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 310, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9403 Financing statement; filing, fee, duration; continuation statement; public inspection; index.

Sec. 9403. (1) Presentation for filing of a financing statement and tender of the filing fee or acceptance of the statement by the filing officer constitutes filing under this article.

(2) A filed financing statement which states a maturity date of the obligation secured of 5 years or less is effective until such maturity date and thereafter for a period of 60 days. Any other filed financing statement is effective for a period of 5 years from the date of filing. The effectiveness of a filed financing statement lapses on the expiration of such 60-day period after a stated maturity date or on the expiration of such 5-year period, unless a continuation statement is filed prior to the lapse. Upon such lapse the security interest becomes unperfected. A filed financing statement which states that the obligation secured is payable on demand is effective for 5 years from the date of filing.

(3) A continuation statement may be filed by the secured party (i) within 6 months before and 60 days after a stated maturity date of 5 years or less, and (ii) otherwise within 6 months prior to the expiration of the 5-year period specified in subsection (2). Any such continuation statement must be signed by the secured party, identify the original statement by file number and state that the original statement is still effective. Upon timely filing of the continuation statement, the effectiveness of the financing statement is continued for 5 years after the last date to which the filing was effective whereupon it lapses in the same manner as provided in subsection (2) unless another continuation statement is filed prior to such lapse. Succeeding continuation statements may be filed in the same manner to continue the effectiveness of the financing statement. Unless a statute on disposition of public records provides otherwise, the filing officer may remove a lapsed statement from the files and destroy it.

(4) A filing officer shall mark each statement with a consecutive file number and with the date and hour of filing and shall hold the statement for public inspection. In addition the filing officer shall index the statements according to the name of the debtor and shall note in the index the file number and the address of the debtor given in the statement.

(5) The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for an original or a continuation statement or any amendment of either shall be $1.00.

CITED IN OTHER SECTIONS: The above section is cited in §§ 211.674 and 211.684.

440.9404 Financing statement; termination statement, filing, fee.

Sec. 9404. (1) Whenever there is no outstanding secured obligation and no commitment to make advances, incur obligations or otherwise give value, the secured party must on written demand by the debtor send the debtor a statement that he no longer claims a security interest under the financing statement, which shall be identified by file number. A termination statement signed by a person other than the secured party of record must include or be accompanied by the assignment or a statement by the secured party of record that he has assigned the security interest to the signer of the termination statement. The uniform fee for filing and indexing such an assignment or statement thereof shall be $1.00. If the affected secured party fails to send such a termination statement within 10 days after proper demand therefor he shall be liable to the debtor for $100.00, and in addition for any loss caused to the debtor by such failure.

(2) On presentation to the filing officer of such a termination statement he must note it in the index. The filing officer shall remove from the files, mark "terminated" and send or deliver to the secured party the financing statement and any continuation statement, statement of assignment or statement of release pertaining thereto.

(3) The uniform fee for filing and indexing a termination statement including sending or delivering the financing statement shall be $1.00.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 312, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9405 Financing statement; assignment before or after filing, fee.

Sec. 9405. (1) A financing statement may disclose an assignment of a security interest in the collateral described in the statement by indication in the statement of the name and address of the assignee or by an assignment itself or a copy thereof on the face or back of the statement. Either the original secured party or the assignee may sign this statement as the secured party. On presentation to the filing officer of such a financing statement the filing officer shall mark the same as provided in section 9403(4). The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for a financing statement so indicating an assignment shall be $1.00.

(2) A secured party may assign of record all or a part of his rights under a financing statement by the filing of a separate written statement of assignment signed by the secured party of record and setting forth the name of the secured party of record and the debtor, the file number and the date of filing of the financing statement and the name and address of the assignee and containing a description of the collateral assigned. A copy of the assignment is sufficient as a separate statement if it complies with the preceding sentence. On presentation to the filing officer of such a separate statement, the filing officer shall mark such separate statement with the date and hour of the filing. He shall note the assignment on the index of the financing statement. The uniform fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data about such a separate statement of assignment shall be $1.00.

(3) After the disclosure or filing of an assignment under this section, the assignee is the secured party of record.

440.9406 Financing statement; release of collateral, filing, fee.

Sec. 9406. A secured party of record may by his signed statement release all or a part of any collateral described in a filed financing statement. The statement of release is sufficient if it contains a description of the collateral being released, the name and address of the debtor, the name and address of the secured party, and the file number of the financing statement. Upon presentation of such a statement to the filing officer he shall mark the statement with the hour and date of filing and shall note the same upon the margin of the index of the filing of the financing statement. The uniform fee for filing and noting such a statement of release shall be $1.00.

440.9407 Information from filing officer; fees.

Sec. 9407. (1) If the person filing any financing statement, termination statement, statement of assignment, or statement of release, furnishes the filing officer a copy thereof, the filing officer shall upon request note upon the copy the file number and date and hour of the filing of the original and deliver or send the copy to such person.

(2) Upon request of any person, the filing officer shall issue his certificate showing whether there is on file on the date and hour stated therein, any presently effective financing statement naming a particular debtor and any statement of assignment thereof and if there is, giving the date and hour of filing of each such statement and the names and addresses of each secured party therein. The uniform fee for such a certificate shall be $1.00 plus fifty cents for each financing statement and for each statement of assignment reported therein. Upon request the filing officer shall furnish a copy of any filed financing statement or statement of assignment for a uniform fee of fifty cents per page.

Registers of deeds need not accept at standard rates after January 1, 1964 chattel instruments or financing statements for filing unless prepared on paper 8 1/2x13 inches in size, with a 1/2 inch in length and width allowed for tolerance before such papers shall be deemed nonstandard, and of not less than 16 pound weight. Nonstandard chattel papers in size or weight may be filed by paying 50 cents extra for each paper so filed.

PART 5

DEFAULT

440.9501 Default; security agreement on both realty and personalty; secured party's rights.

Sec. 9501. (1) When a debtor is in default under a security agreement, a secured party has the rights and remedies provided in this part and except as limited by subsection (3) those provided in the security agreement. He may reduce his claim to judgment, foreclose or otherwise enforce the security interest by any available judicial procedure. If the collateral is documents the secured party may proceed either as to the documents, or as to the goods covered thereby. A secured party in possession has the rights, remedies and duties provided in section 9207. The rights and remedies referred to in this subsection are cumulative.

(2) After default, the debtor has the rights and remedies provided in this part, those provided in the security agreement and those provided in section 9207.

(3) To the extent that they give rights to the debtor and impose duties on the secured party, the rules stated in the subsections referred to below may not be waived or varied except as provided with respect to compulsory disposition of collateral (subsection (1) of section 9505) and with respect to redemption of collateral (section 9506) but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which the fulfillment of these rights and duties is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable:

(a) subsection (2) of section 9502 and subsection (2) of section 9504 insofar as they require accounting for surplus proceeds of collateral;

(b) subsection (3) of section 9504 and subsection (1) of section 9505 which deal with disposition of collateral;

(c) subsection (2) of section 9505 which deals with acceptance of collateral as discharge of obligation;

(d) section 9506 which deals with redemption of collateral; and

(e) subsection (1) of section 9507 which deals with the secured party's liability for failure to comply with this part.

(4) If the security agreement covers both real and personal property, the secured party may proceed under this part as to the personal property or he may proceed as to both the real and the personal property in accordance with his rights and remedies in respect of the real property in which case the provisions of this part do not apply.

(5) When a secured party has reduced his claim to judgment the lien of any levy which may be made upon his collateral by virtue of any execution based upon the judgment shall relate back to the date of the perfection of the security interest in such collateral. A judicial sale, pursuant to such execution, is a foreclosure of the security interest by judicial procedure within the meaning of this section, and the secured party may purchase at the sale and thereafter hold the collateral free of any other requirements of this article.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 313, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9502 Secured party; collection rights; surplus, deficiency.

Sec. 9502. (1) When so agreed and in any event on default the secured party is entitled to notify an account debtor or the obligor on an instrument to make payment to him whether or not the assignor was theretofore making collections on the collateral, and also to take control of any proceeds to which he is entitled under section 9306.

(2) A secured party who by agreement is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor and who undertakes to collect from the account debtors or obligors must proceed in a commercially reasonable manner and may deduct his reasonable expenses of realization from the collections. If the security agreement secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But, if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 314, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9503 Secured party; right to possession of collateral after default.

Sec. 9503. Unless otherwise agreed a secured party has on default the right to take possession of the collateral. In taking possession a secured party may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace or may proceed by action. If the security agreement so provides the secured party may require the debtor to assemble the collateral and make it available to the secured party at a place to be designated by the secured party which is reasonably convenient to both parties. Without removal a secured party may render equipment unusable, and may dispose of collateral on the debtor's premises under section 9504.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 314, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9504 Secured party; permissive disposition of collateral; sales law applicable, disposition of proceeds.

Sec. 9504. (1) A secured party after default may sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any or all of the collateral in its then condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing. Any sale of goods is subject to the article on sales (article 2). The proceeds of disposition shall be applied in the order following to

(a) the reasonable expenses of retaking, holding, preparing for sale, selling and the like and, to the extent provided for in the agreement and not prohibited by law, the reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party;

(b) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by the security interest under which the disposition is made;

(c) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by any subordinate security interest in the collateral if written notification of demand therefor is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the secured party, the holder of a subordinate security interest must seasonably furnish reasonable proof of his interest, and unless he does so, the secured party need not comply with his demand.

Security interest securing indebtedness; surplus, deficiency.

(2) If the security interest secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and, unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides.

Disposition of collateral at public or private proceedings.

(3) Disposition of the collateral may be by public or private proceedings and may be made by way of one or more contracts. Sale or other disposition may be as a unit or in parcels and at any time and place and on any terms but every aspect of the disposition including the method, manner, time, place and terms must be commercially reasonable. Unless collateral is perishable or threatens to decline speedily in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market, reasonable notification of the time and place of any public sale or reasonable notification of the time after which any private sale or other intended disposition is to be made shall be sent by the secured party to the debtor, and except in the case of consumer goods to any other person who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in this state or who is known by the secured party to have a security interest in the collateral. The secured party may buy at any public sale and if the collateral is of a type customarily sold in a recognized market or is of a type which is the subject of widely distributed standard price quotations he may buy at private sale.

Rights acquired by purchaser.

(4) When collateral is disposed of by a secured party after default, the disposition transfers to a purchaser for value all of the debtor's rights therein, discharges the security interest under which it is made and any security interest or lien subordinate thereto. The purchaser takes free of all such rights and interests even though the secured party fails to comply with the requirements of this part or of any judicial proceedings

(a) in the case of a public sale, if the purchaser has no knowledge of any defects in the sale and if he does not buy in collusion with the secured party, other bidders or the person conducting the sale; or

(b) in any other case, if the purchaser acts in good faith.

Transfer of collateral to guarantor, indorser, or repurchaser.

(5) A person who is liable to a secured party under a guaranty, indorsement, repurchase agreement or the like and who receives a transfer of collateral from the secured party or is subrogated to his rights has thereafter the rights and duties of the secured party. Such a transfer of collateral is not a sale or disposition of the collateral under this article.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 314, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

CITED IN OTHER SECTIONS: The above section is cited in § 487.501.

440.9505 Secured party; mandatory disposition of collateral.

Sec. 9505. (1) If the debtor has paid 60% of the cash price in the case of a purchase money security interest in consumer goods or 60% of the loan in the case of another security interest in consumer goods, and has not signed after default a statement renouncing or modifying his rights under this part a secured party who has taken possession of collateral must dispose of it under section 9504, and if he fails to do so within 90 days after he takes possession the debtor at his option may recover in conversion or under section 9507(1) on secured party's liability.

Retention of collateral in satisfaction of debtor's obligation.

(2) In any other case involving consumer goods or any other collateral a secured party in possession may, after default, propose to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation. Written notice of such proposal shall be sent to the debtor and except in the case of consumer goods to any other secured party who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in this state or is known by the secured party in possession to have a security interest in it. If the debtor or other person entitled to receive notification objects in writing within 30 days from the receipt of the notification or if any other secured party objects in writing within 30 days after the secured party obtains possession the secured party must dispose of the collateral under section 9504. In the absence of such written objection the secured party may retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debtor's obligation.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 315, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9506 Redemption of collateral.

Sec. 9506. At any time before the secured party has disposed of collateral or entered into a contract for its disposition under section 9504 or before the obligation has been discharged under section 9505(2) the debtor or any other secured party may unless otherwise agreed in writing after default redeem the collateral by tendering fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral as well as the expenses reasonably incurred by the secured party in retaking, holding and preparing the collateral for disposition, in arranging for the sale, and to the extent provided in the agreement and not prohibited by law, his reasonable attorney's fees and legal expenses.

HISTORY: New 1962, p. 316, Act 174, Eff. Jan. 1, 1964.

440.9507 Disposition of collateral; secured party's noncompliance; remedies.

Sec. 9507. (1) If it is established that the secured party is not proceeding in accordance with the provisions of this part disposition may be ordered or restrained on appropriate terms and conditions. If the disposition has occurred the debtor or any person entitled to notification or whose security interest has been made known to the secured party prior to the disposition has a right to recover from the secured party any loss caused by a failure to comply with the provisions of this part. If the collateral is consumer goods, the debtor has a right to recover in any event an amount not less than the credit service charge plus 10% of the principal amount of the debt or the time price differential plus 10% of the cash price.

Same; commercially reasonable manner.

(2) The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the secured party is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the secured party either sells the collateral in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with reasonable commercial practices among dealers in the type of property sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. The principles stated in the 2 preceding sentences with respect to sales also apply as may be appropriate to other types of disposition. A disposition which has been approved in any judicial proceeding or by any bona fide creditors' committee or representative of creditors shall conclusively be deemed to be commercially reasonable, but this sentence does not indicate that any such approval must be obtained in any case nor does it indicate that any disposition not so approved is not commercially reasonable.

Act 121, 1970, p. 376; Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

AN ACT to provide for the creation and negation of express warranties in the sales of works of fine art.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

442.321 Art sales warranties; definitions.

Sec. 1. As used in this act:

(a) "Art merchant" means a person who deals in works of fine art or by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to works of fine art or to whom such knowledge or skill may be attributed by his employment of an agent or broker or other intermediary who by his occupation holds himself out as having such knowledge or skill. It includes an auctioneer who sells works of fine art at public auction as well as the auctioneer's consignor or principal.

(b) "Author" or "authorship" refers to the creator of a work of fine art or to the period, culture, source or origin with which the creation of the work is identified in the description of the work.

(c) "Counterfeit" means a work of fine art made or altered, with intent to deceive, in a manner that it appears to have an authorship which it does not in fact possess. It includes any work of fine art made, altered or copied in a manner that it appears to have an authorship which it does not in fact possess even though the work may not have been made with intent to deceive.

(d) "Fine art" means a painting, sculpture, drawing or work of graphic art.

(e) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association or other group however organized.

(f) "Written instrument" means a written or printed agreement, bill of sale, or any other written or printed note or memorandum of the sale or exchange of a work of fine art by an art merchant and includes a written or printed catalog or other prospectus of a forthcoming sale as well as any written or printed corrections or amendments thereof.

HISTORY: New 1970, p. 376, Act 121, Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

442.322 Warranties by art merchant; written statement; terminology.

Sec. 2. Any provision in any other law to the contrary notwithstanding:

(a) When an art merchant, in selling or exchanging a work of fine art, furnishes to a buyer of such work who is not an art merchant, a written instrument which, in describing the work, identifies it with any author or authorship, the description shall be presumed to be part of the basis of the bargain and shall create an express warranty of the authenticity of the authorship as of the date of the sale or exchange. The warranty shall not be negated or limited because the art merchant in the written instrument did not use formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" or because he did not have a specific intention or authorization to make a warranty or because any statement relevant to authorship is, or purports to be, or is capable of being merely the art merchant's opinion.

(b) In construing the degree of authenticity of authorship warranted, due regard shall be given to the terminology used in describing the authorship and the meaning accorded to such terminology by the customs and usage of the trade at the time and in the locality where the sale or exchange took place. A written instrument delivered pursuant to a sale which took place in this state which, in describing the work, states, for example:

(i) That the work is by a named author or has a named authorship, without any other limiting words, means, unequivocally, that the work is by the named author or has the named authorship.

(ii) That the work is attributed to a named author means a work of the period of the author, attributed to him, but not with certainty by him.

(iii) That the work is of the school of a named author means a work of the period of the author, by a pupil or close follower of the author but not by the author.

HISTORY: New 1970, p. 376, Act 121, Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

442.323 Language; construction.

Sec. 3. Words relevant to the creation of an express warranty of authenticity of authorship of a work of fine art and words tending to negate or limit warranty shall be construed where reasonable as consistent with each other; but subject to the provisions of section 2202 of Act No. 174 of the Public Acts of 1962, being section 440.2202 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, on parol or extrinsic evidence, negation or limitation is inoperative to the extent that the construction is unreasonable. Subject to the limitations hereinafter set forth, the construction shall be deemed unreasonable in any of the following cases:

(a) The language tending to negate or limit the warranty is not conspicuous, written and contained in a provision, separate and apart from any language relevant to the creation of the warranty, in words which would clearly and specifically apprise the buyer that the seller assumes no risk, liability or responsibility for the authenticity of the authorship of a work of fine art. Words of general disclaimer like "all warranties, express or implied, are excluded" are not sufficient to negate or limit an express warranty of authenticity of the authorship of a work of fine art, created under section 2 or otherwise.

(b) The work of fine art is proved to be a counterfeit, and this was not clearly indicated in the description of the work.

(c) The work of fine art is unqualifiedly stated to be the work of a named author or authorship and it is proved that, as of the date of sale or exchange, the statement was false, mistaken or erroneous.

HISTORY: New 1970, p. 377, Act 121, Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

442.324 Rights and liabilities; additional; merchant's liability.

Sec. 4. (1) The rights and liabilities created by this act shall be construed to be in addition to and not in substitution, exclusion or displacement of other rights and liabilities provided by law, including the law of principal and agent, except where the construction would, as a matter of law, be unreasonable.

(2) An art merchant who, as buyer, is excluded from obtaining the benefits of an express warranty under this act shall not be deprived of the benefits of any other provision of law.

(3) An art merchant whose warranty of authenticity of authorship was made in good faith shall not be liable for damages beyond the return of the purchase price which he received.

HISTORY: New 1970, p. 377, Act 121, Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

442.325 Effective date.

Sec. 5. This act shall take effect on January 1, 1971.

HISTORY: New 1970, p. 377, Act 121, Imd. Eff. Jan. 1, 1971.

Act 271, 1941, p. 474; Eff. Jan. 10, 1942.

AN ACT to define certain unlawful trade practices connected with the sale or other transfer; or with the purchase for another of goods, wares or merchandise; to provide certain penalties for the commission of such unlawful trade practices; and to provide for enjoining the commission of such trade practices and permitting the rescission of certain contracts. Am. 1956, p. 461, Act 214, Eff. Aug. 11;—Am. 1962, p. 104, Act 115, Eff. Mar. 28, 1963.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

445.101 Unlawful trade practices; suppression.

Sec. 1. The legislature of the state of Michigan hereby finds: improper and misleading uses of the words “wholesale,” “employee” and similar terms or phrases in connection with certain sales; and likewise improper and misleading uses of the words “manufacturer,” “broker,” “wholesaler,” and similar terms or phrases denoting that the seller of a product is something other than a retailer thereof; and likewise the other practices hereinafter prohibited, are harmful to the welfare of the people of this state in the following ways, among others: consumers are misled into believing they are buying goods at a substantial discount from regular retail prices, when in fact they are not; trade is diverted from established retail outlets offering various customer services (such as free deliveries, exchange privileges, and credit facilities) to establishments not offering equal services but selling at substantially the same price, to the detriment of the consumer, who is deprived of the benefit of such services without receiving compensating advantages; purchases by business concerns, at discounts from current retail market prices, of goods, wares, and merchandise purchased not for business use but for the personal use of individuals, divert trade unfairly from established retail outlets, resulting in a loss of sales tax revenues and in a trend to higher retail prices. The legislature, acting in the exercise of the police power of the state, declares that the public policy of the state requires, and that the general welfare of the people of the state will be benefited by, the suppression of the trade practices hereinafter defined.

Act 180, 1941, p. 273; Eff. Jan. 10, 1942.

AN ACT to require the bonding of persons, firms and corporations engaged in the business of soliciting accounts for collection or in the collection of accounts; to provide a penalty for the violation of this act, and to repeal Act No. 210 of the Public Acts of 1925, being sections 9728 to 9731, inclusive, of the Compiled Laws of 1929.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

445.201 Collection agencies; surety bond, approval; county bond; conveyance of real estate, personal surety's justification; notice, intent to sell.

Sec. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of soliciting accounts for collection or in the collection of accounts for others, to engage in such business without first giving a bond to the people of the state of Michigan, executed by 2 or more persons as sureties, or by a surety company duly authorized to do business in this state, in the sum of $5,000.00 conditioned upon the faithful accounting of all moneys collected upon accounts entrusted to such person, firm or corporation for collection. Said bond shall be approved by the prosecuting attorney or a circuit judge and filed in the office of the county clerk in the county where such person, firm or corporation maintains an established location for both the soliciting of accounts for collection as well as the collection of accounts for others: Provided, however, That any person, firm or corporation maintaining such business at one or more locations within this state shall provide one such bond in the amount of $5,000.00 for each county wherein an established location is maintained for both the soliciting of accounts for collection as well as the collection of accounts for others: Provided further, That if such person, firm or corporation does not maintain an established location for both the soliciting of accounts for collection as well as the collection of accounts for others within this state, one such bond in the amount of $5,000.00 shall be given to the people of the state of Michigan for each county within this state where such person, firm or corporation engages in the collection of accounts for others, or solicits accounts for collection by agents and representatives, each of such bonds to be approved by the prosecuting attorney or a circuit judge of said county and filed with the county clerk in the county in which such person, firm or corporation engages in or intends to engage in such business. The sureties on such bond, if other than a surety company, shall justify their pecuniary responsibility in unencumbered real estate subject to execution under the laws of the state in double the amount of such bond, such real estate to be fully and accurately described in an affidavit and a notice of the pledging of such property as surety shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the county in which said real estate is located. Before any sale of such real estate, or any part thereof, or the placing of any encumbrance thereon, 15 days' written notice of intention to sell or encumber the same shall be served upon the prosecuting attorney of said county, and in all cases upon the principal upon such bond. Within said 15 days the prosecuting attorney shall make an investigation to determine whether or not the remaining real estate, unencumbered and subject to execution, held by such surety or sureties has a value in double the amount of the penalty of such bond, and within said period the prosecuting attorney shall notify the principal as to whether or not said bond remains qualified or insufficient. If insufficient, the principal shall have 15 days after such notice within which to file a good and sufficient bond in compliance with the provisions of this act. For all defalcations existing up to the date of such 15-day written notice of intentions to sell or encumber, the lien heretofore created by the aforementioned recording with the register of deeds shall remain in full force and effect for 13 months from the date of such notice. It shall thereafter be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to engage in the business of soliciting accounts for collection or in the collection of accounts for others until a good and sufficient bond shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of this act.

This remedy shall not be considered as exclusive but in addition to all other remedies provided by law in such cases.

Any person, firm or corporation engaged in such business shall, within 45 days after payment made to them on accounts, furnish to the person, firm or corporation for whom the accounts are being collected, a true statement showing date received by them, from whom collected, and amount collected, and accompany same with remittance to cover, less collection charges: Provided, however, There is not an amount due said collector from the creditor, properly billed in said statement, and the amount due is more than $2.00. Delivery of copy to buyer; effect of nondelivery; third party reliance on buyer's acknowledgment.

(b) The retail seller shall deliver to the retail buyer, or mail to him at his address shown on the retail installment contract, a copy of the contract as accepted by the seller. Any reliance by a holder other than the seller upon written acknowledgment by the buyer of delivery of a copy of the contract shall be based upon a statement in a size equal to at least 10-point bold type and, if contained in the contract, shall appear directly above the buyer's signature or the signature of the authorized representative of the buyer and shall require a separate signature of the buyer or the authorized representative of the buyer.

- (9) Except as otherwise provided in the next 2 sentences, the maximum number of installment payments required and the amount of each installment and the due date of each payment necessary to pay the time balance set forth in item (8). If installment payments other than the final payment are stated as a series of equal schedule amounts and if the amount of the final installment payment does not substantially exceed the scheduled amount of each preceding installment payment, the maximum number of payments and the amount and due date of each payment need not be separately stated and the amount of the scheduled final installment payment may be stated as the remaining unpaid balance. The due date of the first installment payment may be fixed by a day or date or may be fixed by reference to the date of the contract or to the time of delivery or installation.

445.854 Retail installment contracts; single document not required; sales slip, account book, other written statements.

Sec. 4. A retail installment contract need not be contained in a single document. If the contract is contained in more than 1 document, 1 such document may be an original document signed by the retail buyer, stated to be applicable to purchases of goods or services to be made by the retail buyer from time to time. In such case, the document, together with the sales slip, account book or other written statement relating to each purchase, shall set forth all of the information required by this subsection and shall constitute the retail installment contract for each purchase. On each succeeding purchase pursuant to such original document, the sales slip, account book or other written statement at the option of the seller may constitute the memorandum required by section 11. No seller shall induce a buyer to become obligated at substantially the same time under more than 1 retail installment contract for the purpose of obtaining a higher time price differential than would apply to 1 contract.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 275, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.855 Retail installment contracts; sales; mail, telephone; provisions applicable; exceptions.

Sec. 5. (a) Retail installment contracts negotiated and entered into by mail or telephone without personal solicitations by salesmen or other representatives of the seller and based upon a catalog of the seller, or other printed solicitation which clearly sets forth the cash sale prices and other terms of sales to be made through such medium may be made as provided in this section. The provisions of this act with respect to retail installment contracts shall be applicable to such sales, except that:

(1) The designation and notice provisions of subsection (a) of section 3 shall not be applicable to such contract; and

(2) The retail installment contract, when completed by the buyer, need not contain the items required by subsection (d) of section 3.

(b) When the contract is received from the retail buyer, the seller shall prepare a written memorandum containing all of the information required by subsection (d) of section 3 to be included in a retail installment contract. In lieu of delivering a copy of the contract to the retail buyer as provided in subsection (b) of section 3, the seller shall deliver to the buyer a copy of such memorandum prior to the due date of the first installment payable under the contract.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 275, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.856 Retail installment contracts; blank space; filling.

Sec. 6. A retail installment contract shall not be signed by any party thereto when it contains blank spaces of items which are essential provisions of the transaction, but if delivery of the goods is not made at the time of the execution of the contract, the identifying numbers or marks of the goods or similar information and the due date of the first installment may be inserted by the seller in the seller's counterpart of the contract after it has been signed by the buyer. The buyer's acknowledgment, conforming to the requirement of subsection (b) of section 3, of delivery of a copy of the contract shall be presumptive proof, or, in the case of a holder of the contract without knowledge to the contrary when he purchases it, conclusive proof of such delivery and of compliance with this subsection and any other requirement relating to completion of the contract prior to execution thereof by the buyer, in any action or proceeding.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 275, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.857 Retail installment contracts; time price differential; schedule, minimum; payments, treated as interest.

Sec. 7. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, a retail installment contract may provide for, and the seller or holder may then charge, collect and receive a time price differential which shall not exceed an amount determined in accord with the following schedule:

(1) On so much of the principal balance as does not exceed $500.00, at the rate of $12.00 per $100.00 per year;

(2) On so much of the principal balance as exceeds $500.00, at the rate of $10.00 per $100.00 per year.

(b) The time price differential under this section shall be computed on the principal balance of each transaction, as determined under section 3 on contracts payable in successive monthly payments substantially equal in amount from the date of the contract to the maturity of the final payment, notwithstanding that the total time balance thereof is required to be paid in 1 or more deferred payments. When a retail installment contract provides for payment other than in substantially equal, successive monthly payments, the time price differential shall not exceed the amount which will provide the same return as is permitted on substantially equal, successive monthly payment contracts, having due regard for the schedule of payments. The time price differential may be computed on the basis of a full month for any fractional portion of a month in excess of 10 days.

(c) A minimum time price differential of not more than $10.00 may be charged, received and collected on each such contract, whether or not the contract is prepaid.

(d) In any retail installment contract for the purchase of goods or services in which there is a separately stated time price differential, a portion of the payments made during the taxable year under the contract shall be treated as interest. The portion of any such payments to be treated as interest shall be equal to 6% of the average unpaid balance under the contract during the taxable year. For purposes of this computation, the average unpaid balance under the contract is the sum of the unpaid balance outstanding on the first day of each month beginning during the taxable year, divided by 12.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 275, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.858 Unpaid time balances; prepayment; refund credit.

Sec. 8. Notwithstanding the provisions of any retail installment contract to the contrary, any buyer may prepay in full the unpaid time balance thereof at any time before its final due date and, if he does so, shall receive a refund credit thereon for such prepayment. The amount of such refund credit shall represent at least as great a proportion of the original time price differential after first deducting therefrom an acquisition cost of not more than $10.00 as:

(a) The sum of the monthly balances under the schedule of payments in the contract beginning as of the date after such prepayment which is the next succeeding monthly anniversary date of the due date of the first installment under the contract, or, if the prepayment is prior to the due date of the first installment under the contract, then as of the date after such prepayment which is the next succeeding monthly anniversary date of the date of the contract, bears to;

(b) The sum of all the monthly balances under the schedule of installment payments in the contract. Where the amount of refund credit is less than $1.00, no refund credit need be made.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 276, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.859 Retail installment contracts; charges, delinquency, collection.

Sec. 9. The holder of any retail installment contract, if it so provides, may collect a delinquency and collection charge on each installment in default for a period of more than 10 days in the amount not to exceed 5% of each installment or $5.00, whichever is less, or in lieu thereof, interest after maturity of each installment not to exceed the highest lawful contract rate.

445.860 Retail installment contracts; statement of dates, payments and unpaid balances; receipt.

Sec. 10. Upon written request of the buyer, the holder of a retail installment contract shall give or forward to the buyer a written statement of the dates and amounts of payments and the total amount unpaid under the contract. A buyer shall be given a written receipt for any payment when made in cash. The statement or receipt shall be given the buyer once without charge; if any additional statement is requested by the buyer, it shall be supplied by the holder at a charge not in excess of $1.00 for each additional statement or receipt so supplied.

HISTORY: New 1966, p. 276, Act 224, Eff. Mar. 10, 1967.

445.861 Retail installment transactions; subsequent purchases; previous contracts, inclusion and consolidation.

Sec. 11. (a) If, in a retail installment transaction, a retail buyer makes any subsequent purchases of goods or services from a retail seller from whom he has previously purchased goods or services under 1 or more retail installment contracts, and the amounts under such previous contracts have not been fully paid, at the seller's option, the subsequent purchases may be included in and consolidated with 1 or more of the previous contracts. Each subsequent purchase shall be a separate retail installment contract under this act, notwithstanding that the same may be included in and consolidated with 1 or more previous contracts. All the provisions of this act with respect to retail installment contracts shall be applicable to subsequent purchases except as hereinafter stated in this section.

Consolidated contracts; written memorandum for subsequent purchase, sufficiency; contents.

(b) In the event of consolidation, in lieu of the buyer's executing a retail installment contract respecting each subsequent purchase, as provided in this act, it shall be sufficient if the seller prepares a written memorandum of each subsequent purchase, in which case the provisions of section 3 shall not be applicable. Unless previously furnished in writing to the buyer by the seller, by sales slip, memorandum or otherwise, such memorandum shall contain with respect to each subsequent purchase items (1) to (8) of subsection (d) of section 3 and, in addition, the outstanding balance of the previous contract or contracts, the consolidated time balance, and the revised installments applicable to the consolidated time balance, if any. The seller shall deliver to the buyer a copy of the memorandum prior to the due date of the first installment of the consolidated contract.

Secured transactions; allocation of payments; exceptions.

(c) When subsequent purchases are made, if the seller has retained title or taken a lien or other security interest in any of the goods purchased under any 1 of the contracts included in the consolidation, the entire amount of all payments made prior to such subsequent purchases shall be deemed to have been applied to the unpaid time balances of the previous purchases; and each payment after the subsequent purchase made on the consolidated contract shall be deemed to have been allocated to all of the various purchases in the same ratio as the original cash sale prices of the various purchases bear to the total of all. Where the amount of each installment payment is increased in connection with subsequent purchases, at the seller's option, the subsequent payments may be deemed to be allocated as follows: an amount equal to the original periodic payment to the previous purchase, the balance to the subsequent purchase. However, the amount of any down payment on the subsequent purchase shall be allocated in its entirety to the subsequent purchase. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to cases where such previous and subsequent purchases involve equipment, parts or other goods attached or affixed to goods previously purchased and not fully paid, or to services in connection therewith rendered by the seller at the buyer's request.

Agreements to extend due date or defer installments; charge; insurance premiums; confirmation by holder.

(d) (1) The holder of a retail installment contract, upon agreement in writing with the buyer, may extend the scheduled due date or defer the scheduled payment of all or of any part of any installment or installments payable thereunder. The holder may charge and collect at the time of the extension or deferral for the payment of an extension or deferral by the buyer a fee and collect and receive the same, but such charge may not exceed an amount equal to 1 ¼% per month on the amount of the installment or installments, or part thereof, extended or deferred for the period of extension or deferral. Such period shall not exceed the period from the date when such extended or deferred installment, or part thereof, would have been payable in the absence of such extension or deferral, to the date when such installment or installments, or part thereof, are made payable under the agreement of extension or deferment; except that a minimum charge of $1.00 for the period of extension or deferral may be made in any case where the extension or deferral charge, when computed at such rate, amounts to less than $1.00. The agreement may also provide for payment by the buyer of the additional cost to the holder of the contract of premiums for continuing in force, until the end of such period of extension or deferral, any insurance coverages provided for in the contract. The extension or deferral must be confirmed in writing by the holder.

Refinancing unpaid balances; new schedule; refinance charges; contents.

(2) The holder of a retail installment contract, upon agreement in writing with the buyer, may refinance the payment of the unpaid time balance of the contract by providing for a new schedule of installment payments. The holder may charge and contract for the payment of a refinance charge by the buyer and collect and receive the same, but such refinance charge shall be based upon the amount refinanced, plus any additional cost of insurance and of official fees incident to such refinancing, after the deduction of a refund of credit in an amount equal to that to which the buyer would have been entitled under section 8, if he had prepaid in full his obligations under the contract or contracts, computed without allowance for any minimum earned finance charge. Such refinance charge shall not exceed the rate of finance charge provided under section 7. The refinancing agreement shall set forth the amount of the unpaid time balance to be refinanced, the amount of any refund credit, the amount to be refinanced after the deduction of the refund credit, any additional premiums paid for insurance and of official fees to the buyer, the amount of the finance charge under the refinancing agreement, the new unpaid time balance and the new schedule of installment payments.

445.862 Retail charge agreements; copies, form, acknowledgment of delivery, notice to buyer; monthly statements, contents.

Sec. 12. (a) Each retail charge agreement shall be in writing and signed by the buyer or the authorized representative of the buyer. A copy of any such agreement executed on or after the effective date of this act shall be delivered or mailed to the buyer prior to the date on which the first payment is due thereunder. Any acknowledgment by the buyer of delivery of a copy of the agreement contained in the body thereof shall be in a size equal to at least 10-point bold type and shall appear directly above the buyer's signature or the signature of the authorized representative of the buyer. No agreement executed on or after the effective date of this act shall be signed by the buyer when it contains blank spaces of items which are essential provisions of the transaction to be filled in after it has been signed. The buyer's acknowledgment, conforming to the requirements of this section, of delivery of a copy of an agreement, shall be presumptive proof, in any action or proceeding, of such delivery and that the agreement, when signed, did not contain any blank spaces as herein provided. All retail charge agreements executed on or after the effective date of this act shall state the maximum amount and rate of the time price differential to be charged and paid pursuant thereto. (2) If any part of the finance charge is computed on an installment as provided in subsection (3) of section 301, the amount of the refund credit applicable to that part of the finance charge shall represent at least as great a proportion of that part of the finance charge as the number of months to elapse after the month in which prepayment is made to the due date of that installment bears to the number of months from the date the finance charge accrues to the due date of that installment.

The holder of a home improvement installment contract, upon agreement in writing with the buyer, may extend the scheduled due date or defer the scheduled payment of all or of any part of any installment or installments payable thereunder. The holder may charge and contract for the payment of an extension or deferral charge by the buyer and collect and receive the same, but such charge may not exceed an amount equal to 1% per month simple interest on the amount of the installment or installments, or part thereof, extended or deferred for the period of extension or deferral. Such period shall not exceed the period from the date when such extended or de-

The holder may charge and contract for the payment of a refinanced charge by the buyer and collect and receive the same, but such refinance charge shall be based upon the amount refinanced, plus any additional cost of insurance and of official fees incident to such refinancing, after the deduction of a refund credit in an amount equal to that to which the buyer would have been entitled under section 303 if he had prepaid in full his obligations under the contract or contracts, computed without allowance for any minimum earned finance charge. Such refinance charge shall not exceed the rate of finance charge provided under section 301. The agreement for refinancing may also provide for the payment by the buyer of the additional cost to the holder of the contract of premiums for continuing in force, until the maturity of the contract as refinanced, any insurance coverages provided therein. The refinancing agreement shall set forth the amount of the unpaid time balance to be refinanced, the amount of any refund credit, the amount to be refinanced after the deduction of the refund credit, any additional premiums paid for insurance and of official fees to the buyer, the amount of the finance charge under the refinancing agreement, the new unpaid time balance and the new schedule of installment payments. A refinancing agreement between a financing agency and a buyer may consolidate the new unpaid time balances of 2 or more home improvement installment contracts by providing for a new schedule of consolidated installment payments, and may provide for the acceleration of the consolidated time balance upon a failure of the buyer to pay in full any consolidated installment payment. A contractor may not consolidate 2 or more home improvement installment contracts except to the extent provided in sections 306, 307 and 308.

At any meeting of the shareholders of any corporation called for the purpose of removing any director, such director may, by a vote of a majority of all the shares of stock outstanding and entitled to vote, or by a vote of a majority in number of all the members of such corporation in the case of a corporation without capital stock, be removed from office for cause and another be elected in the place of the person: Provided, That the shareholders shall have the right to vote cumulatively on such removal and no director shall be removed against whose removal sufficient votes shall be recorded to have elected a director on the election of a full board or a division thereof, if the board should be classified: And, provided further, That any cumulative shares so voted against the removal of any director shall not be voted against the removal of any other director during the term of which the board or a division thereof, as the case may be, shall have been elected: And, provided further, That no more than 1 meeting of shareholders shall be held and vote recorded for the removal of any individual director during the term for which he is elected if such term shall be for 2 years or less: And, provided further, That the number of directors of any corporation shall not be reduced in case the votes of a sufficient number of shares are recorded against such proposed reduction, which, if cumulatively voted, would elect 1 or more directors, where the same number of shares if voted cumulatively would not be sufficient to elect the same number of directors of the board so reduced.

Directors, number, qualifications, classification, term of office, election, meeting, powers and duties, vacancies, quorum, executive committee.

4. The number, qualifications, classification, terms of office, manner of election, time and place of meeting, and the powers and duties of the directors may, subject to the provisions of this act, be prescribed by the articles or bylaws: Provided, however, That directors shall be elected annually unless a term of more than 1 year shall be so prescribed, in which event at least 1/3, as near as may be, of the members of the board shall be elected each year. (c) A majority of the board of directors shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the acts of a majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the acts of the board of directors: Provided, That if the directors shall severally and/or collectively consent in writing to any action to be taken by the corporation such action shall be as valid corporate action as though it had been authorized at a meeting of the directors: And provided further, That the articles or bylaws may provide that if the number of directors shall consist of more than 7 members, less than a majority but in no event less than 1/3 of the members may constitute a quorum: And provided further, That a majority of those directors present at a legally called meeting may adjourn the meeting to another date whether or not a quorum is present;

(d) The board of directors may, by resolution passed by a majority of the whole board, designate 2 or more of their number to constitute an executive and/or any other committee, who, to the extent provided in said resolution, shall have and exercise the authority of the board of directors in the management of the business of the corporation between the meetings of the board.

5. No contract of any corporation made with any director of such corporation or with a partnership or other group or association of which any such director shall be a member or with any other corporation of which such director may be a member or director and no contract between corporations having common directors shall be invalid because of such respective facts alone. When the validity of any such contract is questioned, the burden of proving the fairness to the contracting parties of any such contract shall be upon such director, partnership, other group or association, or corporation who shall be asserting the validity of such contract.

450.19 Capital stock; consideration for shares without par value, issuance.

Sec. 19. Consideration for shares without par value. Shares without par value may be issued or subscriptions therefor taken by corporations formed or existing under this act from time to time for such consideration as may be fixed from time to time by the board of directors, unless in the articles the power to fix such consideration shall have been reserved to the shareholders, in which event such power shall be exercised by the shareholders by consent in writing (a) without a meeting, or (b) by a vote at a meeting, in each case by the holders of record of 2/3 of the total number of shares of each class of stock then outstanding and entitled to vote in respect thereto. Any and all shares without par value so issued, for which the consideration so fixed has been paid or delivered in good faith, shall be deemed full-paid stock and shall not be liable to any further call or assessments thereon, and the holders of such shares shall not be liable for any further payments in respect of such shares under the provisions of this act. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent a corporation from paying or allowing a reasonable underwriting discount or sales commission in compensation of services performed in sale of its securities.

HISTORY: Am. 1943, p. 217, Act 160, Imd. Eff. April 17;—CL 1948, 450.19. This section as originally enacted superseded part of Sec. 10 of Ch. II of Pt. II of Act 84 of 1921, Am. 1927, p. 809, Act 335, Eff. Sept. 5, being CL 1929, 10010.

450.20 Capital and surplus.

Sec. 20. Capital and surplus. Any corporation formed or existing under this act may by resolution of its board of directors determine that only a part of the consideration which shall be received by the corporation for any of the shares of its capital stock which it shall issue from time to time shall be capital: Provided, That in case any of the shares issued shall be shares having a par value, the amount of the part of such consideration so determined to be capital shall be in excess of the aggregate par value of the shares issued for such consideration having a par value, unless all the shares issued shall be shares having a par value, in which case the amount of the part of such consideration so determined to be capital need be only equal to the aggregate par value of such shares: And provided further, That the amount of the consideration received for any shares without par value which shall be determined to be capital shall be at least equal to 50 per cent of the consideration received for such shares. In each such case the board of directors shall specify in dollars the part of such consideration which shall be capital. If the board of directors shall not have determined (a) before or at the time of issue of any shares of the capital stock of the corporation issued for cash, or (b) within 60 days after the issue of any shares of the capital stock of the corporation issued for property other than cash what part of the consideration for such shares shall be capital, the capital of the corporation in respect of such shares shall be an amount equal to the aggregate par value of such shares having a par value, plus the amount of the consideration for such shares without par value. The capital of such corporation may be increased from time to time by resolution of the board of directors directing that a portion of the net worth of the corporation in excess of the amount so determined to be capital be transferred to capital. The capital of such corporation represented by shares without par value, may be decreased from time to time by resolution of the board of directors and such board of directors may (1) credit its surplus with the amount of capital represented by such decrease, to the extent that the capital represented by its shares after such decrease shall not be impaired, and/or (2) charge off to such extent any losses which it may have had from operations, revaluations of its properties or otherwise: Provided, That if such capital be decreased so that the amount attributable to shares without par value shall not be at least equal to 50 per cent of the consideration received for such shares, before such decrease shall become effective the corporation shall by its treasurer or assistant treasurer notify by mail each of its known unsecured creditors at his last known address of the action taken, and its next annual report to the state, and its next annual report to its shareholders shall contain a clear statement of the action taken and the percentage of the consideration received by the corporation for its shares without par value represented by the capital as decreased. The affidavit of the officer of the corporation preparing and mailing such notice that such notice has been mailed to such known unsecured creditors shall be conclusive evidence of giving notice as provided in this section. The excess, if any, at any given time, of the total net assets of the corporation over the amount so determined to be capital shall be surplus. A corporation shall at all times keep its books in such manner as to indicate clearly the division of the surplus accounts between surplus arising from earnings and surplus arising from other sources and it shall likewise indicate clearly such items in its annual reports to the state and its annual reports to its shareholders. Nothing in this act contained shall prevent a corporation from declaring a stock dividend from surplus created as in this section provided.

HISTORY: Am. 1935, p. 314, Act 194, Imd. Eff. June 6;—CL 1948, 450.20. This section as originally enacted superseded and merged part of Sec. 5-a of Ch. II of Pt. II of Act 84 of 1921, Add. 1929, p. 658, Act 267, Eff. Aug. 28, being CL 1929, 10005; and Sec. 10 of Ch. II of Pt. II of Act 84 of 1921, Am. 1927, p. 809, Act 335, Eff. Sept. 5, being CL 1929, 10010.

Sec. 21. Obligation of shareholders to pay for shares. Shares of capital stock shall be issued only for money, or for other property, real or personal, tangible or intangible, actually conveyed or transferred to the corporation for its use and lawful purposes or in its possession as surplus or for labor or services actually rendered to the corporation.

Every person who subscribes for par value shares or to whom such shares are issued, except as a share dividend, shall be obligated to pay the corporation therefor, in money or other property or labor or services, not less than the par value thereof. Every person who shall subscribe for shares without par value or to whom such shares are issued except as a share dividend shall be obligated to pay the corporation therefor, in money or such other property or labor or services, such amount of consideration for each share as may have been determined as in this act provided.

Where shares are issued for which promissory notes, drafts or obligations of the purchaser may be given, certificates therefor shall not be delivered until such promissory notes, drafts or obligations are fully paid; no shares shall be issued for future services.

Where shares are issued for any consideration other than cash, the judgment of the board of directors as to the value thereof shall be conclusive unless it shall be shown that the directors acted in bad faith or failed to exercise reasonable care in determining such value.

HISTORY: CL 1948, 450.21. This section supersedes with additions and merges part of Sec. 2 of Ch. II of Pt. II of Act 84 of 1921, being CL 1929, 10001; and Sec. 9 of Ch. II of Pt. 450.22 Capital stock dividends; source; earned surplus of dissolved corporation.

Sec. 22. The directors of every corporation formed or existing under this act, subject to any restrictions contained in its articles, shall have power to declare and pay dividends upon the shares of its capital stock from earned surplus except as hereinafter provided. In determining earned surplus, appreciation of value of the assets of the corporation shall not be included until realized: Provided, That appreciation of value shall not be construed to include any increases which result from readjustment of previous reductions of value to correctly reflect the accounts of the corporation at the time of such determination of earned surplus: And provided further, That nothing in this section contained shall prevent any earned surplus which a corporation may have at the date of its dissolution from being carried into the earned surplus account of a corporation formed or existing under this act which owned all the issued and outstanding stock of the dissolved corporation at the date of its dissolution: In determining what is earned surplus the judgment of the board of directors shall be conclusive unless it shall be shown that the directors acted in bad faith or were grossly negligent.

Nothing in this section contained shall prevent a corporation from declaring and paying dividends upon its preferred stock from any surplus: Provided, That if such dividend shall be declared and paid from any surplus other than earned surplus, the shareholders receiving the same shall be advised of that fact at the time of payment to them and the next annual statement of accounts to be given to the shareholders shall indicate the surplus from which such dividend was paid.

Nothing in this act contained shall prevent a corporation, whose business consists substantially of the exploitation of wasting assets, from paying dividends without making deduction for the depletion of such assets resulting from lapse of time or from the consumption or sale of such assets incidental to their exploitation.

No stock dividend from shares without par value shall be declared unless there shall be transferred to capital at least the equivalent in value per share of such dividend as equals the average original consideration per share of the shares without par value outstanding at the time of such declaration which is carried as capital.

Nothing contained in this act shall prevent a corporation, whose capital is not impaired, from declaring stock dividends from appreciation of the value of the assets of such corporation.

Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the directors of any corporation, or the shareholders thereof if the articles shall so provide, from setting apart out of any of the funds of the corporation available for dividends a reserve or reserves for any proper purpose or from abolishing any such reserve in the manner in which it was created.

(a) No such distribution shall be made at a time when the corporation is insolvent or when such distribution would render the corporation insolvent.

(b) No such distribution shall be made unless the articles of incorporation so provide or such distribution is authorized by the affirmative vote of the holders of at least 2/3 of the outstanding shares of each class whether or not entitled to vote thereon by the provisions of the articles of incorporation of the corporation.

(c) No such distribution shall be made to the holders of any class of shares unless all cumulative dividends accrued on all preferred or special classes of shares entitled to preferential dividends shall have been fully paid.

(d) No such distribution shall be made to the holders of any class of shares which would reduce the remaining net assets of the corporation below the aggregate preferential amount payable in event of voluntary liquidation to the holders of shares having preferential rights to the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation.

(e) Each such distribution, when made, shall be identified as a distribution in partial liquidation and the amount per share disclosed to the shareholders receiving the same concurrently with the distribution thereof.

(f) No such partial liquidation shall be made from capital, until a certificate of such proposed action signed for the corporation by its president or a vice-president, with its corporate seal affixed thereto and attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary, and acknowledged by the officer signing the same shall be filed as provided in section 5.

Each such certificate representing shares issued by a corporation which is authorized to issue shares of more than 1 class shall set forth on the face or back thereof, or shall state that the corporation will furnish to any shareholder, upon request and without charge, a full statement of the designations and the powers, preferences and rights, and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions of the shares of each class authorized to be issued, and if the corporation is authorized to issue any preferred or special class in series, the variations in the relative rights and preferences between the shares of each such series so far as the same have been fixed and determined, and the authority of the board of directors to fix and determine the relative rights and preferences of subsequent series. The capital stock of such corporation shall be paid in such amounts and at such times as the directors may require. The directors may, from time to time, call upon each holder of stock not fully paid up for the payment of such sum of money, not exceeding in the aggregate the balance remaining unpaid on such stock, and such sum so called shall be paid to the corporation at such times and by such installments or calls as the directors shall direct, said directors having caused to be given at least 20 days notice of the time and place of such payments by written notice mailed at least 20 days before the time of such payment to each shareholder at his last known postoffice address, and, if the directors so determine, by publication in a newspaper published and circulating in the county in this state where such corporation has its registered office.

Notice of the time and place of such sale and of the sum due on each share shall be given by advertisement once a week for the 3 successive weeks next preceding the date fixed for the sale, in a newspaper published and circulating in the county in this state where such corporation has its registered office, and such notice shall be mailed by the corporation to such delinquent shareholder at his last known postoffice address, at least 20 days before the date fixed for such sale. If no bidder can be had to pay the amount due on the stock or if the amount is not collected by an action at law, brought within the county where such corporation has its registered office, the said stock shall be forfeited to the corporation and the amount previously paid in by such delinquent shareholder on the stock shall be forfeited to the corporation. Anyone, who shall purchase such stock from any such delinquent shareholder at any time after the corporation shall have published the first notice of sale as in this section provided, shall have only the rights against the corporation of such delinquent shareholder.

450.31 Shareholders; pre-emptive right.

Sec. 31. The articles of any corporation formed or existing under this act may provide that the shareholders shall have no pre-emptive right to subscribe for any additional shares of capital stock or other obligations convertible into shares to be issued by the corporation or may provide any restrictions or limitations on such rights as may be desired.

Unless otherwise provided in the articles, a shareholder of a corporation shall have no pre-emptive right to subscribe for shares:

- (a) which are to be allotted for consideration other than cash or as a share dividend; or
- (b) which are to be allotted to satisfy conversion rights; or
- (c) which have once been allotted and are thereafter held by the corporation as treasury shares; or
- (d) which have been released from pre-emptive right by the vote or written consent of the holders of 2/3 of the shares of each class entitled to such right.

Shares which have been offered to shareholders having a pre-emptive right to them at a price or upon terms duly fixed, and which have not been subscribed for by them within the time duly fixed by the board of directors, may be thereafter offered for subscription to any other person or persons at a price and upon terms not less favorable to the corporation than those at which they were offered to such shareholders, subject to the provisions of sections 18 and 19 of this act.

In all elections for directors of any corporation organized under any general law of this state, other than municipal, insurance, banking corporations, nonprofit corporations, cooperative corporations, industrial banking corporations, trust companies, building and loan associations, cooperative savings associations and summer resort associations, every stockholder entitled to vote shall have the right to vote in person or by proxy the number of shares of stock owned by him for as many persons as there may be directors to be elected, or to cumulate said shares and give 1 candidate as many votes as will equal the number of directors multiplied by the number of shares of his stock, or to distribute them on the same principle among as many candidates as he shall think fit. The entire number of directors to be elected shall be balloted for at one and the same time and not separately.

The board of directors shall have power to close the stock transfer books of the corporation for a period not exceeding 60 days preceding the original date fixed for any meeting of shareholders or the date for payment of any dividend or the date for the allotment of rights or the date when any change or conversion or exchange of capital stock shall go into effect. In lieu of closing the stock transfer books as aforesaid, the bylaws may fix or authorize the board of directors to fix in advance a date, not exceeding 60 days preceding the original date fixed for any meeting of shareholders, or the date for the payment of any dividend, or the date for the allotment of rights or the date when any change or conversion or exchange of capital stock shall go into effect, as a record date for the determination of the shareholders entitled to notice of, and to vote at, any such meeting, or entitled to receive payment of any such dividend, or to any such allotment of rights, or to exercise the rights in respect of any such change, conversion or exchange of capital stock. In such case only such shareholders as shall be shareholders of record on the date so fixed shall be entitled to such notice of, and to vote at, such meeting, or to receive payment of such dividend, or to receive such allotment of rights, or to exercise such rights notwithstanding any transfer of any stock on the books of the corporation or otherwise after any such record date fixed as aforesaid. 450.34 Election of directors; voting trust, filing.

Sec. 34. Voting trusts. One or more shareholders may by agreement in writing deposit shares of the capital stock of any corporation, with or transfer shares of capital stock to any person or persons, or corporation or corporations, domestic or foreign, authorized to act as trustee or trustees, for the purpose of vesting in such person, persons, corporation or corporations the right to vote thereon, or for such other lawful purposes as may be agreed for any period of time determined by such agreement, not exceeding 10 years, upon terms and conditions stated in such agreement, pursuant to which such person, persons or corporations shall act. After filing an unexecuted copy of such agreement in the registered office of the corporation in this state, which copy shall be open to the inspection of any shareholder of the corporation or any depositor under said agreement daily during business hours, the certificates for shares so transferred shall be surrendered and cancelled, and new certificates therefor shall be issued to such transferee or transferees, who may be designated voting trustees, and in the entry of such transferee or transferees as owners of such shares in the proper books of the issuing corporation that fact shall be noted, and thereupon said transferee or transferees may vote upon the shares so transferred during the period in such agreement specified and thereafter until those entitled to receive certificates of stock under such agreement shall have received the same. Shares standing in the name of such voting trustees, may be voted either in person or by proxy. In any case where 2 or more persons are designated as voting trustees and the right and method of voting any shares standing in their names at any meeting of the corporation are not fixed by the agreement appointing said trustees, the right to vote said shares and the manner of voting the same at any such meeting shall be determined by a majority of said trustees, or if they be equally divided as to the right and manner of voting the same in any particular case, the vote of said shares in such case shall be divided equally among said trustees.

Sec. 43. Any corporation formed or existing under this act, at a meeting of the shareholders duly called and held may amend its articles to increase or to decrease its authorized capital stock and otherwise to amend its articles without limitation so long as the articles as amended would have been authorized by this act as original articles, by the vote of the holders of the majority of its shares entitled to vote. A nonprofit corporation formed or existing pursuant to this act and organized upon a nonstock basis, at a meeting of the members duly called and held, may amend its articles without limitation as long as the articles as amended would have been authorized by this act as original articles, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the members entitled to vote thereon, or by the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present at such meeting if due notice of the time, place and object of such meeting shall be given by mail, at last known address, to each member entitled to vote at least 20 days prior to the date of such meeting. 450.44 Rights of shareholders not assenting to corporate action; payment for shares, procedure; appraisers.

Sec. 44. Rights of shareholders not assenting to certain corporate action. 1. If a corporation has authorized the sale, lease or exchange of all or substantially all of its assets a shareholder who was a shareholder at the time such action was authorized and who voted against such action may, within 20 days after the date upon which such action was authorized but not thereafter, object thereto in writing and demand from the corporation the payment of the fair cash value of his shares as of the day preceding the day such action was authorized by the shareholders, excluding from such fair cash value any appreciation or depreciation in consequence of the action authorized, and surrender at such time to the corporation the certificate or certificates for his shares as to which he is demanding payment. If any such person is a holder of more than 1 class of shares he shall be entitled to relief only in respect of the class of shares affected by such change. If, within 30 days after receipt of such a demand by a shareholder, the corporation and the shareholder cannot agree upon the fair cash value of the shares as of the day preceding the day such corporate action was authorized, such value shall be ascertained by 3 disinterested persons, who shall be appointed by any circuit judge of the county where the corporation has its registered office upon petition and order to show cause either by such shareholder or by the corporation. Once such appraisers have been so appointed all demands for such payment, which have not been determined by agreement, shall be determined by such appraisers. The appraisers shall promptly submit their determination to the circuit court for the county where the corporation shall have its registered office for confirmation and upon the entry of an order confirming said report their determination shall be final and conclusive and from such order there shall be no appeal. If such fair cash value shall be determined by agreement, such agreed fair cash value shall be final and conclusive. If the award or the agreed fair cash value, as the case may be, is not paid by the corporation within 60 days after the entry of such order or after such agreement, such fair cash value may be collected as other debts are by law collectible. Upon payment by the corporation of such awarded or agreed fair cash value, such shareholder shall forthwith transfer and assign the shares at, and in accordance with, the request of the corporation.

2. A shareholder shall be entitled to payment for his shares under the provisions of this section only in the event that the value of the corporate assets which would remain after such payment would exceed 110 per cent. of the aggregate amount of its debts and liabilities exclusive of outstanding capital stock, and if such excess shall be at least equal to the awarded and/or agreed fair cash value of the shares of shareholders demanding payment. Objection by any such shareholder to any action of the corporation provided in this section and his rights thereafter under this section shall be his exclusive remedy.

3. The right of any dissenting shareholder to be paid the fair cash value of his shares shall cease if and when the corporation shall, within 6 months after such demand for payment, abandon such action or the shareholders shall revoke such action taken, entitling such dissenting shareholder to payment as in this act provided: Provided, That if any such shareholder shall have been paid fair cash value for his shares, he shall not be required to refund any such payment to the corporation because of such abandonment or revocation.

4. No demand for payment of such fair cash value may be withdrawn by the shareholder making the same unless a majority of the board of directors of the corporation shall consent thereto.

5. Any shareholder who so demands payment for his shares shall not be entitled to vote such shares or to receive any dividends or distributions thereon, or to exercise any rights respecting such shares, unless and until such action entitling such shareholder to payment shall be abandoned or a majority of the board of directors of the corporation shall consent to the withdrawal of such demand. If such action shall be abandoned or such consent to withdrawal shall be given, such dissenting shareholder shall be entitled to any rights which he would otherwise have had during the time when his demand for payment was in effect if he had not demanded payment for his shares.

sworn to by the president or a vice-president or by the treasurer or an assistant treasurer embracing a particular account of its operations and properties in reasonable detail, which shall have been prepared within the preceding 4 months, and to have the same ready and on file at the registered office of the corporation within 20 days after the presentation of such request and such statement shall at all times during business hours be open to the inspection of any such shareholder or shareholders and each such shareholder shall be entitled to a copy of the same: Provided, That no corporation shall be required to furnish more than 1 such statement in any 1 year. If the officers, directors or agents of any such corporation shall fail to furnish such statement as and within the time in this section provided, the corporation shall pay to this state 10 dollars a day for every day of delay in so doing, said penalty to be collected in an action to be brought by the attorney general of this state.

The directors of every corporation in this state shall at least once in each year cause a true statement of the operations and properties of such corporation for the preceding fiscal year to be made and to be communicated or distributed to each shareholder thereof within 4 months after the end of the preceding fiscal year.

Sec. 52. (1) Any 2 or more corporations unless otherwise provided in the act under which a particular corporation is or shall have been formed, or any 1 or more corporations unless otherwise provided in the act under which a particular corporation is or shall have been formed, and any 1 or more foreign corporations may consolidate or merge into a single corporation which may be any 1 of the constituent corporations or a new corporation to be formed by means of such consolidation or merger as shall be specified in the agreement hereinafter required. The directors, or a majority of them, of such corporations of this state as desire to consolidate or merge may enter into an agreement signed by them and under the corporate seals of the respective corporations, prescribing the terms and conditions of consolidation or merger, the mode of carrying the same into effect, and stating such other facts required or permitted by the provisions of this act to be set out in articles, as can be stated in the case of a new corporation formed by means of such consolidation or merger, or stating any amendments to the articles of the consolidated or merged corporation to be effected by such consolidation or merger, stated in such altered form as the circumstances of the case require.

Agreement, contents.

(2) The agreement shall also set forth:

(a) The manner of converting the shares of each of the constituent corporations into shares or other securities of the corporation surviving or resulting from the merger or consolidation.

(b) If any shares of any of the constituent corporations are not to be converted solely into shares or other securities of the surviving or resulting corporation, the amount of cash or securities of any other corporation which the holders of such shares are to receive in exchange for such shares or upon their conversion and the surrender of the certificates evidencing such shares, which cash or securities of any other corporation may be in addition to or in lieu of the shares or other securities of the surviving or resulting corporation.

Agreement, adoption.

(3) The agreement shall be submitted to the shareholders of each constituent corporation of this state at a meeting thereof, called separately for the purpose of taking the same into consideration. Due notice of the time, place and object of such meeting shall be given by publication at least once a week for 3 successive weeks next preceding the date of such meeting in a newspaper published in the county wherein each such corporation has its registered office, and a copy of such notice shall be mailed to the last known post office address of each shareholder of each such corporation, at least 20 days prior to the date of such meeting. If all the shareholders of any such constituent corporation execute a written waiver of notice of such meeting, then no notice by publication or otherwise shall be required of such corporation. At such meeting the agreement shall be considered and a vote by ballot, in person or by proxy, taken for the adoption or rejection of the same, each share entitling the holder thereof to 1 vote; and if the votes of shareholders of each such corporation representing 2/3 of the total number of shares of each class of its outstanding capital stock shall be for the adoption of the agreement, then that fact shall be certified on the agreement by the president or a vice-president and the secretary or an assistant secretary of each such corporation under the corporate seals thereof and acknowledged by them, before any officer authorized by the laws of this state to take acknowledgments of deeds, to be the respective act, deed and agreement of each of said corporations.

shall be effective on the date of filing with the administrator, or such subsequent date not later than 31 days after the date of filing as may be fixed in the agreement.

450.54 Corporations consolidated or merged; payment for shares of dissenting shareholders, procedure.

Sec. 54. 1. Any shareholder in any corporation of this state consolidating or merging as aforesaid, who was such shareholder at the time such consolidation or merger was authorized by the shareholders of such corporation and who voted against such consolidation or merger, may within 20 days after such consolidation or merger was so authorized object thereto in writing and demand from either the constituent corporation of which he was a shareholder or the resulting corporation payment of the fair cash value of his shares in the constituent corporation as of the day preceding the day such consolidation or merger was authorized by the shareholders of such constituent corporation, excluding from such fair cash value any appreciation or depreciation in consequence of the action authorized, and surrender at such time to the constituent corporation or the resulting corporation the certificate or certificates for his shares as to which he is demanding payment. If the effective date of such consolidation or merger shall occur within such 20 days, the constituent corporation shall remain a body corporate for the purpose only of receiving such demand. A demand served on the constituent corporation after the effective date shall be deemed to constitute a demand on the resulting corporation. If within 30 days after receipt by said constituent corporation or resulting corporation of such written demand said corporation and such shareholder cannot agree upon such fair cash value of the shares, such shareholder or said corporation may secure an appraisal of such shareholder's shares in the same manner and with the same effect as is provided in paragraph 1 of section 44. If such fair cash value shall be determined by agreement, such agreed fair cash value shall be final and conclusive. If such awarded or such agreed fair cash value of such shares is not paid by said corporation within 60 days after the entry of such order or after such agreement, such fair cash value may be collected as other debts are by law collectible. If the effective date of such consolidation or merger shall occur before the expiration of such 30-day or 60-day periods, the resulting corporation shall be substituted for the constituent corporation which may have received the demand or may have proceeded to any stage in compliance with such fair cash value payment provisions. Upon payment by said corporation of such awarded or agreed fair cash value, such shareholder shall forthwith transfer and assign such shares at, and in accordance with, the request of said corporation. Objection by any such shareholder to any action of the constituent corporation, of which he is a shareholder, or of the resulting corporation provided in this section and his rights thereafter under this section shall be his exclusive remedy.

Cessation of right to cash value by dissenting shareholder.

2. The right of any dissenting shareholder to be paid the fair cash value of his shares shall cease if and when the constituent corporation, of which he is a shareholder, within 6 months after such demand for payment, shall abandon such action or the shareholders of such corporation shall revoke such action taken, entitling such dissenting shareholder to payment as in this act provided.

Withdrawal of demand by dissenting shareholder, consent.

3. No demand for payment of such fair cash value may be withdrawn by the shareholder making the same unless a majority of the board of directors of the constituent corporation shall consent thereto. If the consolidation or merger has become effective, no such demand may be withdrawn by the shareholder making the same unless a majority of the board of directors of the resulting corporation shall consent.

Dissenting shareholder's right to vote.

4. Any shareholder who so demands payment for his shares may not vote such shares or receive any dividends or distributions thereon, or exercise any rights respecting such shares, nor any similar rights against the constituent corporation or resulting corporation, unless and until such action entitling such shareholder to payment shall be abandoned, or a majority of the board of directors of the constituent corporation or resulting corporation shall consent to the withdrawal of such demand. If such action shall be abandoned or such consent to withdrawal shall be given, such dissenting shareholder shall be entitled to any rights which he would otherwise have had during the time when his demand for payment was in effect if he had not demanded payment for his shares, except the right to vote at meetings of shareholders.

Earnings so reserved shall be allocated on the books of the corporation or a means provided for such allocation to the stockholders and/or members or other persons entitled to such earnings, before general distribution of earnings shall have been authorized and made. benefit from the principal or income thereof, excepting in the way of just compensation for their labor and skill in executing such trust or by way of reimbursement for necessary and actual expenses incurred in the management of such property or in the performance of their duties as such trustees, or except upon authority expressed in the original deed or instrument of trust. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as preventing or prohibiting any trustees appointed or provided for under the terms of any deed, will or other written instrument to have the title or management of any property, whether real or personal, for the benefit of the donor or grantor therein or the heirs, dependents or other beneficiaries of such donor or grantor, and not for charitable, religious, educational or benevolent purposes, from incorporating under this act for the purpose of executing such trust, if such incorporation be permitted, directed or contemplated in such instrument, and the business of such corporation, when organized, is one which a corporation might otherwise carry on under this act: Provided, That declarations of trust shall not be sufficient in themselves to authorize the trustees named therein to assume corporate powers, but all such trustees referred to in this act shall be incorporated only in the manner prescribed in and by complying with the provisions of this act. Trustee corporations shall be governed by the provisions of this act relating to corporations generally except as specifically otherwise provided.

The term "trust instrument" or "instrument of trust" as used in this act shall be construed to mean and refer to any lawful deed of gift, grant, agreement, or any last will and testament by which the donor, grantor, or testator shall give, grant, devise, or bequeath any property, real, personal or mixed, in trust for general or specific uses; and any and all conditions, terms or directions contained therein, and any act, declaration or instructions of a legal nature made by any corporation or body directing or authorizing trustees thereunder to take, receive, hold, manage or dispose of any of the property of such corporation for general or specific purposes for the benefit of such persons or objects as may be therein designated. 450.304c Franchise fees; computation.

The fees hereby levied and imposed on regulated investment companies shall be in lieu of all other state and local taxes except taxes imposed upon real and tangible personal property, sales, use and similar excise taxes.

Sec. 5. In the case of computing the annual franchise fee prescribed by section 4, both as to domestic and foreign corporations, such computations shall be made by the Michigan corporation and securities commission, working in conjunction with the state department of revenue, upon the entire paid-up capital and surplus of any corporation which is not taxable in another state. A corporation is taxable in another state if in that state he is subject to a franchise tax measured by net income, a franchise tax for the privilege of doing business, or a corporate stock tax.

With respect to any other corporation, except corporations engaged in the transportation of oil or gas by pipeline, which are separately treated in this section and except those separately treated in sections 5a, 5b, 5c and 5d, paid-up capital and surplus shall be apportioned to this state by multiplying the paid-up capital and surplus by a fraction, the numerator of which is the property factor plus the payroll factor plus the sales factor, and the denominator of which is 3.

Property factor.

(1) The property factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the average value of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property owned or rented and used in this state during the tax period and the denominator of which is the average value of all the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property owned or rented and used during the tax period.

(a) Property owned by the taxpayer is valued at its original cost. Property rented by the taxpayer is valued at 8 times the net annual rental rate. Net annual rental rate is the annual rental rate paid by the taxpayer less any annual rental rate received by the taxpayer from subrentals.

(b) The average value of property shall be determined by averaging the values at the beginning and ending of the tax period but the department may require the averaging of monthly values during the tax period if reasonably required to reflect properly the average value of the taxpayer's property.

Payroll factor.

(2) The payroll factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the total amount paid in this state during the tax period by the taxpayer for compensation, and the denominator of which is the total compensation paid everywhere during the tax period.

(a) Compensation is paid in this state if:

(1) The individual's service is performed entirely within the state; or

(2) The individual's service is performed both within and without the state, but the service performed without the state is incidental to the individual's service within the state; or

(3) Some of the service is performed in the state and (1) the base of operations or, if there is no base of operations, the place from which the service is directed or controlled is in the state, or (2) the base of operations or the place from which the service is directed or controlled is not in any state in which some part of the service is performed, but the individual's residence is in this state.

(b) The term "compensation" shall mean wages, salaries, commissions and any other form of remuneration paid to employees for personal services.

Sales factor.

(3) The sales factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer in this state during the tax period, and the denominator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer everywhere during the tax period.

(a) Sales of tangible personal property are in this state if:

(1) The property is delivered or shipped to a purchaser, other than the United States government, within this state regardless of the f.o.b. point or other conditions of the sale; or

(2) The property is shipped from an office, store, warehouse, factory, or other place of storage in this state and (1) the purchaser is the United States government or (2) the taxpayer is not taxable in the state of the purchaser.

Oil and gas pipeline company.

(4) For the purpose of determining the annual franchise fee, the tax payable by an oil or gas pipeline company shall be measured as follows:

(a) In the case of an oil pipeline company, by that portion of its paid-up capital and surplus that the barrel-miles transported by it in Michigan bears to the barrel-miles transported by it everywhere. "Barrel-mile" means the transportation of the equivalent of a barrel of oil a distance of 1 mile for a consideration.

(b) In the case of a gas pipeline company, by that portion of its paid-up capital and surplus that the thousand cubic feet-miles transported by it in Michigan bears to the thousand cubic feet-miles transported by it everywhere. "Thousand cubic feet-mile" means the transportation of 1,000 cubic feet of gas, measured at 60 degrees Fahrenheit and a pressure of 30 inches of mercury, a distance of 1 mile for a consideration.

Alternative method.

(5) If the allocation and apportionment provisions of this act do not fairly represent the extent of the taxpayer's business activity in this state, the taxpayer may petition for or the department may require, in respect to all or any part of the taxpayer's business activity, if reasonable:

- (a) Separate accounting;
- (b) The exclusion of any 1 or more of the factors;
- (c) The inclusion of 1 or more additional factors which will fairly represent the taxpayer's business activity in this state; or
- (d) The employment of any other method to effectuate an equitable allocation and apportionment of the taxpayer's income.

An alternative method will be effective only with prior approval of the commission.

450.305a Franchise fees; aircraft carriers, determination.

Sec. 5a. In the case of any corporation engaged in business as a carrier by aircraft, the portion of such corporation's paid-up capital and surplus, to be used as the measure of the annual franchise fee, shall be the average of the following 2 percentages:

- (a) The revenue tons handled by such air carrier at airports within this state during the period covered by the annual report divided by the total revenue tons handled by such carrier at all airports on its entire system during the same period;
- (b) The air carrier's originating revenue within this state for the period covered by the annual report divided by the total originating revenue of such carrier from its entire system for the same period.

HISTORY: Add. 1952, p. 243, Act 183, Imd. Eff. Apr. 29.

450.305b Franchise fees; railroads, determination.

Sec. 5b. For the purpose of determining the annual franchise fee, the tax payable by a railroad company shall be measured by that portion of its paid-up capital and surplus determined by the average of its passenger-mile and ton-mile fractions, separately computed and individually weighted by the ratio of gross receipts from passenger transportation to total gross receipts from all transportation, and by the ratio of gross receipts from freight transportation to total gross receipts from all transportation, respectively: Provided, That in computing the tax of a non-operating railroad there shall be excluded that portion of its paid-up capital and surplus as the ratio of the value of its property released to an operating railroad bears to the total value of its assets.

450.305c Franchise fees; motor carriers, determination.

Sec. 5c. (1) In the case of motor carriers of property, and carriers by water, the annual franchise fee shall be measured by that portion of the corporation's paid-up capital and surplus as the sum of the tonnage of revenue passengers and revenue cargo first received or finally discharged by the carrier within this state is to the total of such tonnage so received and so discharged by such carrier within and without this state.

(2) In the case of motor carriers of passengers the annual franchise fee shall be measured by that portion of the corporation's paid-up capital and surplus as the sum of its bus-miles operated within the state of Michigan bears to the sum of its bus-miles operated in all states.

HISTORY: Add. 1952, p. 244, Act 183, Imd. Eff. Apr. 29.

450.305d Corporation deemed engaged in financial business; fees, measurement.

Any corporation at least 90 per cent of whose assets consist of intangible personal property or at least 90 per cent of whose gross income consists of interest and dividends, gross profits from trading in intangible personal property, or commissions or other compensation for financial services, shall be deemed for the purposes of this act to be engaged in financial business. The annual franchise fee of any such corporation shall be measured by that portion of its paid-up capital and surplus as its gross business in this state is to its gross business everywhere during the period covered by its report determined as the sum of:

(1) Fees, commissions or other compensation for financial services rendered within this state;

(2) Gross profits from trading in stocks, bonds or other securities managed within this state;

(3) Interest and dividends received within this state;

(4) Interest charged to customers, at places of business maintained within this state, for carrying debit balances of margin accounts, without deduction of any costs incurred in carrying such accounts; and

(5) Any other gross income resulting from the operation of financial business within this state; divided by the aggregate amount of such items of the taxpayer everywhere.

HISTORY: Add. 1952, p. 244, Act 183, Imd. Eff. Apr. 29.

450.305e Adjustments; publication of rulings.

Sec. 5e. If it shall appear on the application of the taxpayer or otherwise that an allocation factor determined pursuant to this act does not properly reflect the activity, business, receipts and capital of a taxpayer reasonably attributable to the state, the commission shall adjust it by:

(1) Excluding 1 or more of the factors or any component thereof;

(2) Including 1 or more other factors, such as expenses, purchases, contract values (minus subcontract values);

(3) Excluding proportionately 1 or more asset items in computing entire paid-up capital and surplus; or

(4) Applying any other similar method calculated to effect a fair and proper allocation according to the receipts, activity, business and capital reasonably attributable to this state.

If the corporation shall have remitted an amount in excess of its fee as properly computed pursuant to said sections 5, 5a, 5b, 5c and 5d any such excess shall be refunded, or, at the option of the corporation, shall be credited to the account of the corporation for application to any franchise fee liability such corporation may incur thereafter. A broker's license granted to any firm, partnership association, copartnership or corporation shall not be transferable. Act 210, 1933, p. 330; Imd. Eff. Jul. 3.

AN ACT to provide for the acquisition, management and disposition, by the trustee or trustees as a trust under the jurisdiction of equity, of property mortgaged to such trustee or trustees to secure bonds or other obligations, where such acquisition is requested or assented to by the holders of a majority in amount of such bonds or obligations and no bid for the mortgaged property at public sale under decree of foreclosure was or is made or appears to be obtainable for a sum representing the fair and reasonable value of the interest in said property of all holders of such bonds or obligations; to provide for the concurrence or non-concurrence of such holders in said request and for the method, time and manner of payment to non-concurring holders of their pro rata share of the amount so bid by said trustee or trustees.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

Sec. 1. As used in this act:

The term "trust mortgage" means any trust mortgage, trust indenture or deed of trust given to secure bonds or other obligations issued and authenticated as therein set forth.

The term "trustee" means the trustee or trustees of any such "trust mortgage."

The term "bonds" means bonds or other obligations outstanding and secured by any such "trust mortgage."

The term "request" as used in sections 2 and 3 of this act means the written request filed by the trustee or holders of bonds for authorization of the trustee to bid for and acquire the mortgaged property as provided in section 2 of this act.

The term "non-concurring holder or holders" means such holder or holders as shall have filed written refusal to concur in said "request."

HISTORY: CL 1948, 451.401.

451.402 Trust mortgage foreclosure; insufficient bid; request for trustee to bid, procedure.

Sec. 2. Upon filing in any circuit court in chancery a report of the proceedings had in relation to the sale under a decree of said court for the foreclosure of any trust mortgage given to a trustee to secure bonds issued and authenticated as therein set forth, if it shall appear from said report that no bid was made for the mortgaged property or if a bid therefor was made and it shall, in the manner hereinafter set forth, be made to appear to the court that the sum so bid does not represent the then fair and reasonable value of the interest of the holders of such bonds secured thereby, and, in either event, that no bid for a sum representing such fair and reasonable value of said interest appears to be obtainable, the court may authorize the trustee to bid for and acquire said mortgaged property as hereinafter set forth. Such authorization to bid for and acquire such property shall be made only upon written request therefor to said court by said trustee, or the holders of not less than a majority of the amount of such bonds then secured by said trust mortgage. The request by such holders may be executed by said holders in person, or by agent or attorney. Upon the filing of such request the court shall make an order requiring all interested persons to appear at a time to be designated in said order and show cause, if any, why the court should not authorize the trustee to bid for and acquire the mortgaged property as above provided. The trustee shall cause said order to be published in some newspaper designated by the court and printed in the county where such foreclosure proceedings are pending, and/or in such other newspaper as the court may direct, once in each week for 15 successive weeks prior to the return day of said order to show cause and shall mail or cause to be mailed a copy thereof to the mortgagor, to all other parties in said foreclosure proceedings and to each holder of said bonds secured by said mortgage insofar as the names of such holders are known to the trustee, at least 12 weeks prior to the date specified in said order, such notice to be mailed in each instance to the last known postoffice address. Proof of such publication and of such mailing shall be filed in said proceedings on or before the return day of said order, and proof of mailing shall be sufficient if made by affidavit of the trustee, or by an agent, employee or representative of the trustee having knowledge of the facts, merely averring [averring] that a copy of said order was so mailed. Neither the validity nor the regularity of proceedings under this act shall be affected by the fact that any mortgagor, party, holder of said bonds or interested person may not have had actual notice of said order to show cause or by the fact that a copy of said order may not have been mailed to, or, for any other reason, may not have been received by such mortgagor, party, holder of said bonds or interested person. Any interested party shall have a right to be heard and may offer testimony upon the hearing on said order to show cause. On or before the return day of said order to show cause any holder of bonds secured by said trust mortgage may file in writing a refusal to concur in such request. An order authorizing but not requiring the trustee to bid for and acquire the mortgaged property for such sum as shall, in the judgment of the court, represent the fair and reasonable value of the interests therein of the holders of the bonds may be entered if, upon said hearing, the court shall find either that no bid was made for the property offered for sale under said decree or that the sums so bid therefor did not represent the fair and reasonable value of the interests of such holders in said property and that no bid for a sum representing such fair and reasonable value of such interest appears to be obtainable: Provided, however, That no such order shall be entered where the request has been made by the trustee unless the holders of not less than a majority of the amount of such bonds then outstanding shall, prior to the entry of said order, have joined in said request, by a writing filed in said proceedings executed by said holders in person or by agent or attorney. The trustee may make such bid in open court or may file said bid in writing in said proceedings within 30 days after the entry of said order. Such bid for and acquisition of said property by said trustee shall be for and on behalf of all holders of bonds secured by said trust mortgage who shall not, in the manner herein set forth, have filed in said proceedings their written refusal to concur in the request whereon said order to show cause was entered, according to respective pro rata interests, and every holder of said bonds shall be conclusively presumed to have assented to such acquisition of said property and to the use of such bonds of such holders therefor unless such holder shall have filed such refusal to concur. Any such acquisition by the trustee shall be subject to all rights of redemption of the mortgagor and other parties. The subsequent transfer of any bond in respect of which any request, assent or action under any provision of this act shall have been made, presumed or taken shall not affect such request, assent or action. To the extent of the net amount which would have been distributable on the bonds secured by said trust mortgage if such bid were fully paid in cash, the bid shall be satisfied by a pro rata credit deemed to have been made on each such bond. The court shall make provision in said order for payment to non-concurring holders of their pro rata share of the net amount to which each of said holders shall be entitled by reason of said bid and acquisition.

451.403 Trust mortgage foreclosure; payment to non-concurring holders.

Sec. 3. The court may in its discretion provide in said order that such payment to non-concurring holders may be made in installments, or otherwise deferred for a period of time if the amount so deferred shall not exceed 25 per cent of the net amount of the bid: Provided, however, That the full pro rata to be paid said non-concurring holders hereunder shall, in any event, be made within 18 months from the entry of said order. The sum so deferred shall bear interest at the rate borne by said bonds. No personal obligation for such deferred payment shall be imposed upon the trustee but such deferred payment shall be secured upon the right, title and interest acquired by the trustee as a result of such acquisition and shall be enforced as herein provided. If payment to said non-concurring holders shall not be made as provided in said order, the court may, upon application of any non-concurring holder to whom such payment shall not have been made, order the trustee to sell the property so purchased by the trustee, or such part thereof as may be necessary, either at public or private sale after notice thereof shall have been given to all interested parties in such manner as the court shall direct, and out of the proceeds of said sale pay the sums due said non-concurring holders, the balance, if any, to belong to the beneficiaries of the trust hereafter provided for and to be held and dealt with by the trustee as the court shall direct.

451.404 Trust mortgage foreclosure; trustee, maintenance and operation of property; sale, accounting.

Sec. 4. Any property acquired by the trustee as aforesaid shall be managed and administered by the trustee under and in accordance with the rules and principles of law and equity pertaining to express trusts generally subject to the jurisdiction of said court to be exercised in said cause by proceedings subsequent to the decree therein. The trustee shall be allowed all proper expenses and disbursements and reasonable compensation to be approved by the court. The trustee shall have power and authority to repair, maintain, protect, preserve and operate or lease the property until such time as a sale or other disposal thereof shall be approved or directed. The trustee may borrow money for any of said purposes, to discharge prior liens, taxes, assessments or other incumbrances against said property or for any other purpose of the trust and may secure such money so borrowed by mortgage of said property or by pledge of the income thereof. Any such mortgage or pledge shall be superior to and binding on the interests of the beneficiaries of said trust. It shall be the duty of the trustee to negotiate and effect a sale or other disposal of the property and make distribution of the proceeds of such sale or disposal to the beneficiaries of the trust at the earliest time at which the same can be done without sacrifice of the fair and reasonable value of such property. Any sale, unless for cash, shall be upon such terms as the court may approve after notice shall have been given to all beneficiaries of the trust in such manner as the court shall direct. No operating contract which is for more than 2 years or borrowing of money, mortgage, sale or other disposal shall be made except by and with the approval and authorization of the court upon notice in such manner as the court shall direct to the beneficiaries of said trust. The court may provide such other terms and conditions of the trust and powers, duties and authority of the trustee, not inconsistent with the foregoing, as to the court shall be deemed to be to the interests of the beneficiaries of the trust as a whole. Upon the complete consummation of a sale or other disposition of all of the trust property the trustee shall render in writing a full and complete report and account of the administration of said trust and of the distribution of the assets, income and proceeds thereof upon which a hearing shall be had after such notice to the beneficiaries of the trust as the court shall direct. If any such trust shall continue for more than 1 year an account and report of the administration of such trust shall be rendered at such times as may be required by the court but at least annually and when any such report shall have been made the final account and report aforesaid shall be required to cover only from the date of the then last account and report.

451.405 Construction and application of act; severing clause.

This act shall be applicable to and in all foreclosure proceedings of the nature aforesaid pending at the time of the coming into effect hereof in which the sale shall not then have been confirmed as well as to and in all such proceedings begun after the coming into effect hereof. If any provision hereof shall be found invalid or unenforceable the remaining provisions hereof shall not be affected thereby.

AN ACT to enact the uniform securities act relating to the issuance, offer, sale or purchase of securities; to prohibit fraudulent practices in relation thereto; to require the registration of broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers, and securities; to make uniform the law with reference thereto; and to repeal certain acts and parts of acts.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

PART I

FRAUDULENT AND OTHER PROHIBITED PRACTICES

451.501 Uniform securities act; fraudulent and other practices prohibited.

Sec. 101. It is unlawful for any person, in connection with the offer, sale or purchase of any security, directly or indirectly:

- (1) To employ any device, scheme or artifice to defraud.
- (2) To make any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading.
- (3) To engage in any act, practice or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon any person.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 415, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

CITED IN OTHER SECTIONS: Sections 451.501 to 451.818 are cited in §§ 16.335 and 450.228.

451.502 Investment adviser; unlawful acts.

Sec. 102. (a) It is unlawful for any person who receives any consideration from another person primarily for advising the other person as to the value of securities or their purchase or sale, whether through the issuance of analyses or reports or otherwise:

- (1) To employ any device, scheme or artifice to defraud the other person.
- (2) To engage in any act, practice or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon the other person.

Same; contracts, contents, compensation, assignment.

(b) It is unlawful for any investment adviser to enter into, extend or renew any investment advisory contract unless it provides in writing:

(1) That the investment adviser shall not be compensated on the basis of a share of capital gains upon or capital appreciation of the funds or any portion of the funds of the client;

(2) That no assignment of the contract may be made by the investment adviser without the consent of the other party to the contract; and

(3) That the investment adviser, if a partnership, shall notify the other party to the contract of any change in the membership of the partnership within a reasonable time after the change.

Clause (1) does not prohibit an investment advisory contract which provides for compensation based upon the total value of a fund averaged over a definite period, or as of definite dates or taken as of a definite date. "Assignment", as used in clause (2), includes any direct or indirect transfer or hypothecation of an investment advisory contract by the assignor or of a controlling block of the assignor's outstanding voting securities by a security holder of the assignor; but, if the investment adviser is a partnership, no assignment of an investment advisory contract is considered to result from the death or withdrawal of a minority of the members of the investment adviser having only a minority interest in the business of the investment adviser, or from the admission to the investment adviser of 1 or more members who, after admission, will be only a minority of the members and will have only a minority interest in the business.

Same; custody of securities or funds.

(c) It is unlawful for any investment adviser to take or have custody of any securities or funds of any client if:

(1) The administrator by rule prohibits custody; or

(2) In the absence of rule, the investment adviser fails to notify the administrator that he has or may have custody.

PART II

451.601 Broker-dealers, agents and investment advisers; registration requirement.

Sec. 201. (a) It is unlawful for any person to transact business in this state as a broker-dealer or agent unless he is registered under this act.

Agent's registration, effectiveness, notice to administrator.

(b) It is unlawful for any broker-dealer or issuer to employ an agent unless the agent is registered. The registration of an agent is not effective during any period when he is not associated with a particular broker-dealer registered under this act or a particular issuer. When an agent begins or terminates a connection with a broker-dealer or issuer, or begins or terminates those activities which make him an agent, the agent as well as the broker-dealer or issuer shall promptly notify the administrator in writing on a form prescribed by it.

Investment adviser; registration; exemption, filing.

(c) It is unlawful for any person to transact business in this state as an investment adviser unless:

(1) He is so registered under this act;

(2) He is registered as a broker-dealer without the imposition of a condition under section 204 (b) (5);

(3) His only clients in this state are investment companies as defined in the investment company act of 1940 or insurance companies, banks or trust companies; or

(4) He is an investment adviser who is fully registered with the securities and exchange commission pursuant to the investment advisers act of 1940 and who at no time takes or has custody of any securities or funds of any client, provided that such federally registered investment adviser files with the administrator annually an exemption statement limited to identifying data consisting of name, address and evidence of currently effective full registration as an investment adviser under the investment advisers act of 1940.

Expiration of registration; renewal; reduction of terms or fees.

(d) Every initial registration under this act shall be for a period of 1 year or less from its effective date as specified by the administrator, and the administrator by rule or order may reduce the registration filing fees for periods of less than 1 year. Renewal registrations shall be for 1 year. If the administrator determines to stagger registration throughout the year, by rule or order it may reduce initially the term of registration and the fees for this purpose.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 416, Act 285, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965;—Am. 1965, p. 606, Act 322, Imd. Eff. Jul. 22.

451.602 Registration; applications, contents, effectiveness.

Sec. 202. (a) A broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser may obtain an initial or renewal registration by filing with the administrator an application together with a consent to service of process pursuant to section 414 (g). The application shall contain whatever information the administrator by rule requires concerning such matters as:

- (1) The applicant's form and place of organization;
- (2) The applicant's proposed method of doing business;
- (3) The qualifications and business history of the applicant; in the case of a broker-dealer or investment adviser, the qualifications and business history of any partner, officer or director, any person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, or any person directly or indirectly controlling the broker-dealer or investment adviser; and, in the case of an investment adviser, the qualifications and business history of any employee;
- (4) Any injunction or administrative order or conviction of a misdemeanor or of a felony; and
- (5) The applicant's financial condition and history.

The administrator may by rule or order require an applicant for initial registration to publish an announcement of the application in 1 or more specified newspapers published in this state. If no denial order is in effect and no proceeding is pending under section 204, registration becomes effective at noon of the thirtieth day after an application is filed. The administrator may by rule or order specify an earlier effective date, and it may by order defer the effective date until noon of the thirtieth day after the filing of any amendment.

Filing fees; additional office; successor, administrator.

(b) Every applicant for initial or renewal registration shall pay a filing fee of $100.00 in the case of a broker-dealer, $10.00 in the case of an agent, and $25.00 in the case of an investment adviser. A broker-dealer maintaining more than 1 office for the purpose of conducting his business within this state shall pay an additional filing fee of $50.00 for each additional office. Every applicant filing an application for registration of a successor pursuant to section 202 (c) shall pay a filing fee of $25.00 for the unexpired portion of the year. The administrator, in connection with any examination pursuant to section 204 (b) (6), may require by rule the payment of a reasonable fee sufficient to defray the expense of preparing, administering, scoring and disseminating information concerning the examination. It may either collect this fee for, or direct that it be paid in whole or in part to, any agency cooperating in giving this examination.

Successor, application for registration.

(c) A registered broker-dealer or investment adviser may file an application for registration of a successor, whether or not the successor is then in existence, for the unexpired portion of the year. The administrator may grant or deny the application.

Minimum capital and capital-debt ratio.

(d) The administrator may by rule require a minimum capital for registered broker-dealers and investment advisers and prescribe a ratio between net capital and aggregate indebtedness.

Surety bonds or deposit; limitation of actions.

(e) The administrator may by rule require registered broker-dealers, agents and investment advisers to post surety bonds in amounts up to $100,000.00, and may determine their conditions. Any appropriate deposit of cash or securities shall be accepted in lieu of any bond so required. No bond may be required of any registrant whose net capital, which may be defined by rule, exceeds $100,000.00. Every bond shall provide for suit thereon by any person who has a cause of action under section 410 and, if the administrator by rule or order requires, by any person who has a cause of action not arising under this act. Every bond shall provide that no suit may be maintained to enforce any liability on the bond unless brought within 2 years after the sale or other act upon which it is based.

451.603 Accounts and records.

Sec. 203. (a) Every registered broker-dealer and investment adviser shall make and keep such accounts, correspondence, memoranda, papers, books and other records as the administrator by rule prescribes. All records so required shall be preserved for 3 years unless the administrator by rule prescribes otherwise for particular types of records.

Financial reports.

(b) Every registered broker-dealer and investment adviser shall file such financial reports as the administrator by rule prescribes.

Filed document, correction.

(c) If the information contained in any document filed with the administrator is or becomes inaccurate or incomplete in any material respect, the registrant shall promptly file a correcting amendment unless notification of the correction has been given under section 201 (b).

Examination of records, reciprocity with other administrators.

(d) All the records referred to in subsection (a) are subject at any time or from time to time to such reasonable periodic, special or other examinations by representatives of the administrator, within or without this state, as the administrator deems necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors. For the purpose of avoiding unnecessary duplication of examinations, the administrator, insofar as it deems it practicable in administering this subsection, may cooperate with the securities administrators of other states, the securities and exchange commission, and any national securities exchange or national securities association registered under the securities exchange act of 1934.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 417, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.604 Registration; denial, suspension or revocation, grounds.

Sec. 204. (a) The administrator may by order deny, suspend or revoke any registration if it finds:

(1) That the order is in the public interest, and

(2) That the applicant or registrant or, in the case of a broker-dealer or investment adviser, any partner, officer or director, any person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, or any person directly or indirectly controlling the broker-dealer or investment adviser:

(A) Has filed an application for registration which as of its effective date, or as of any date after filing in the case of an order denying effectiveness, was incomplete in any material respect or contained any statement which was, in light of the circumstances under which it was made, false or misleading with respect to any material fact;

(B) Has violated or failed to comply with any provision of this act or a predecessor act or any rule or order under this act or a predecessor act;

(C) Has been convicted of any misdemeanor involving moral turpitude or any felony;

(D) Is permanently or temporarily enjoined by any court of competent jurisdiction from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice involving any aspect of the securities business;

(E) Is the subject of an order of the administrator denying, suspending or revoking registration as a broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser;

(F) Is the subject of an order entered by the securities administrator of any other state or by the securities and exchange commission denying or revoking registration as a broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser, or the substantial equivalent of those terms as defined in this act, or is the subject of an order of the securities and exchange commission suspending or expelling him from a national securities exchange or national securities association registered under the securities exchange act of 1934, or is the subject of a United States post office fraud order;

(G) Has engaged in dishonest or unethical business practices;

(H) Is insolvent, either in the sense that his liabilities exceed his assets or in the sense that he cannot meet his obligations as they mature; but the administrator may not enter an order against a broker-dealer or investment adviser under this clause without a finding of insolvency as to the broker-dealer or investment adviser; or

(I) Is not qualified on the basis of such factors as training, experience and knowledge of the securities business, except as otherwise provided in subsection (b).

The administrator may by order deny, suspend or revoke any registration if it finds

(1) that the order is in the public interest and (2) that the applicant or registrant:

(J) Has failed reasonably to supervise his agents if he is a broker-dealer or his employees if he is an investment adviser; or

(K) Has failed to pay the proper filing fee; but the administrator may enter only a denial order under this clause, and it shall vacate any such order when the deficiency has been corrected.

Qualifications, governing rules; examination of applicants.

(b) The following provisions govern the application of section 204 (a) (2) (I):

(1) The administrator may not enter an order against a broker-dealer on the basis of the lack of qualification of any person other than (A) the broker-dealer himself if he is an individual or (B) an agent of the broker-dealer.

(2) The administrator may not enter an order against an investment adviser on the basis of the lack of qualification of any person other than (A) the investment adviser himself if he is an individual or (B) any other person who represents the investment adviser in doing any of the acts which make him an investment adviser.

(3) The administrator may not enter an order solely on the basis of lack of experience if the applicant or registrant is qualified by training or knowledge or both.

(4) The administrator shall consider that an agent who will work under the supervision of a registered broker-dealer need not have the same qualifications as a broker-dealer.

(5) The administrator shall consider that an investment adviser is not necessarily qualified solely on the basis of experience as a broker-dealer or agent. When it finds that an applicant for initial or renewal registration as a broker-dealer is not qualified as an investment adviser, it may by order condition the applicant's registration as a broker-dealer upon his not transacting business in this state as an investment adviser.

(6) The administrator may by rule provide for an examination, which may be written or oral or both, to be taken by any class of or all applicants, as well as persons who represent or will represent an investment adviser in doing any of the acts which make him an investment adviser.

Summary postponement or suspension of registration, hearing, notice.

(c) The administrator may by order summarily postpone or suspend registration pending final determination of any proceeding under this section. Upon the entry of the order, the administrator shall promptly notify the applicant or registrant, as well as the employer or prospective employer if the applicant or registrant is an agent, that it has been entered and of the reasons therefor and that within 15 days after the receipt of a written request the matter will be set down for hearing. If no hearing is requested and none is ordered by the administrator, the order will remain in effect until it is modified or vacated by the administrator. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing, may modify or vacate the order or extend it until final determination.

Cancellation of registration or application, grounds.

(d) If the administrator finds that any registrant or applicant for registration is no longer in existence or has ceased to do business as a broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser, or is subject to an adjudication of mental incompetence or to the control of a committee, conservator or guardian, or cannot be located after reasonable search, the administrator may by order cancel the registration or application.

Withdrawal of registration, effectiveness.

(e) Withdrawal from registration as a broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser becomes effective 30 days after receipt of an application to withdraw or within such shorter period of time as the administrator may determine, unless a revocation or suspension proceeding is pending when the application is filed or a proceeding to revoke or suspend or to impose conditions upon the withdrawal is instituted within 30 days after the application is filed. If a proceeding is pending or instituted, withdrawal becomes effective at such time and upon such conditions as the administrator by order determines. If no proceeding is pending or instituted and withdrawal automatically becomes effective, the administrator may nevertheless institute a revocation or suspension proceeding under section 204 (a) (2) (B) within 1 year after withdrawal became effective and enter a revocation or suspension order as of the last date on which registration was effective.

Entry of orders; notice, hearing, written findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(f) No order may be entered under any part of this section except the first sentence of subsection (c) without:

(1) Appropriate prior notice to the applicant or registrant, as well as to the employer or prospective employer if the applicant or registrant is an agent;

(2) Opportunity for hearing; and

(3) Written findings of fact and conclusions of law.

451.702 Securities; registration by notification.

Sec. 302. (a) The following securities may be registered by notification, whether or not they are also eligible for registration by coordination under section 303:

(1) Any security whose issuer and any predecessors have been in continuous operation for at least 5 years if (A) there has been no default during the current fiscal year or within the 3 preceding fiscal years in the payment of principal, interest or dividends on any security of the issuer, or any predecessor, with a fixed maturity or a fixed interest or dividend provision, and (B) the issuer and any predecessors during the past 3 fiscal years have had average net earnings, determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting practices, (i) which are applicable to all securities without a fixed maturity or a fixed interest or dividend provision outstanding at the date the registration statement is filed and equal at least 5% of the amount of such outstanding securities, as measured by the maximum offering price or the market price on a day, selected by the registrant, within 30 days before the date of filing the registration statement, whichever is higher, or book value on a day, selected by the registrant, within 90 days of the date of filing the registration statement to the extent that there is neither a readily determinable market price nor a cash offering price, or (ii) which, if the issuer and any predecessors have not had any security of the type specified in clause (i) outstanding for 3 full fiscal years, equal at least 5% of the amount, as measured in clause (i), of all securities which will be outstanding if all the securities being offered or proposed to be offered, whether or not they are proposed to be registered or offered in this state, are issued.

(2) Any security, other than a certificate of interest or participation in an oil, gas or mining title or lease or in payments out of production under such a title or lease, registered for nonissuer distribution if (A) any security of the same class has ever been registered under this act or a predecessor act, or (B) the security being registered was originally issued pursuant to an exemption under this act or a predecessor act.

Registration statement; accompanying documents; consent to service of process.

(b) A registration statement under this section shall contain the following information and be accompanied by the following documents in addition to the information specified in section 305 (c) and the consent to service of process required by section 414 (g):

(3) With respect to any person on whose behalf any part of the offering is to be made in a nonissuer distribution: his name and address; the amount of securities of the issuer held by him as of the date of the filing of the registration statement; and a statement of his reasons for making the offering;

- (4) A description of the security being registered;
- (5) The information and documents specified in clauses (8), (10), (11) and (12) of section 304 (b); and
- (6) In the case of any registration under section 302 (a) (2) which does not also satisfy the conditions of section 302 (a) (1), a balance sheet of the issuer as of a date within 4 months prior to the filing of the registration statement, and a summary of earnings for each of the 2 fiscal years preceding the date of the balance sheet and for any period between the close of the last fiscal year and the date of the balance sheet, or for the period of the issuer's and any predecessors' existence if less than 2 years.

Same; automatic effectiveness.

(c) If no stop order is in effect and no proceeding is pending under section 306, a registration statement under this section automatically becomes effective at 3 p.m., eastern standard time, on the twentieth full day after the filing of the registration statement or the last amendment, or at such earlier time as the administrator determines.

Same; copy to offeree.

(d) The administrator may by rule or order require as a condition of registration under this section that a copy of the registration statement filed under subsection (b) be given or sent to each person to whom an offer is made before or concurrently with such offer.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 420, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.703 Securities; registration by coordination.

Sec. 303. (a) Any security for which a registration statement has been filed under the securities act of 1933 in connection with the same offering may be registered by coordination.

Registration statement; accompanying documents; consent to service of process.

(b) A registration statement under this section shall contain the following information and be accompanied by the following documents in addition to the information specified in section 305 (c) and the consent to service of process required by section 414 (g):

- (1) Three copies of the latest form of prospectus filed under the securities act of 1933;
- (2) If the administrator by rule or otherwise requires, a copy of the articles of incorporation and bylaws, or their substantial equivalents, currently in effect, a copy of any agreements with or among underwriters, a copy of any indenture or other instrument governing the issuance of the security to be registered, and a specimen or copy of the security;
- (3) If the administrator requests, any other information, or copies of any other documents, filed under the securities act of 1933; and
- (4) An undertaking to forward all future amendments to the federal prospectus, other than an amendment which merely delays the effective date of the registration statement, promptly, and in any event not later than the first business day after the day they are forwarded to or filed with the securities and exchange commission, whichever first occurs.

Same; automatic effectiveness, conditions.

(c) A registration statement under this section automatically becomes effective at the moment the federal registration statement becomes effective if all the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) No stop order is in effect and no proceeding is pending under section 306.

(2) The registration statement has been on file with the administrator for at least 10 days.

(3) A statement of the maximum and minimum proposed offering prices and the maximum underwriting discounts and commissions has been on file for 2 full business days or such shorter period as the administrator permits by rule or otherwise and the offering is made within those limitations.

Federal registration statement, notice of effectiveness; stop order; waiver of conditions.

The registrant shall promptly notify the administrator by telephone or telegram of the date and time when the federal registration statement became effective and the content of the price amendment, if any, and shall promptly file a post-effective amendment containing the information and documents in the price amendment. "Price amendment" means the final federal amendment which includes a statement of the offering price, underwriting and selling discounts or commissions, amount of proceeds, conversion rates, call prices, and other matters dependent upon the offering price. Upon failure to receive the required notification and post-effective amendment with respect to the price amendment, the administrator may enter a stop order, without notice or hearing, retroactively denying effectiveness to the registration statement or suspending its effectiveness until compliance with this subsection, if it promptly notifies the registrant by telephone or telegram, and promptly confirms by letter or telegram when it notifies by telephone, of the issuance of the order. If the registrant proves compliance with the requirements of this subsection as to notice and post-effective amendment, the stop order is void as of the time of its entry. The administrator may by rule or otherwise waive either or both of the conditions specified in clauses (2) and (3). If the federal registration statement becomes effective before all the conditions in this subsection are satisfied and they are not waived, the registration statement automatically becomes effective as soon as all the conditions are satisfied. If the registrant advises the administrator of the date when the federal registration statement is expected to become effective, the administrator shall promptly advise the registrant by telephone or telegram, at the registrant's expense, whether all the conditions are satisfied and whether it then contemplates the institution of a proceeding under section 306; but this advice by the administrator does not preclude the institution of such a proceeding at any time.

451.704 Securities; registration by qualification.

(b) A registration statement under this section shall contain the following information and be accompanied by the following documents in addition to the information specified in section 305 (c) and the consent to service of process required by section 414 (g):

If no hearing is requested and none is ordered by the administrator, the order will remain in effect until it is modified or vacated by the administrator. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing to each person specified in subsection (c), may modify or vacate the order or extend it until final determination.

(16) The distribution by a co-operative corporation of its securities to its patrons as patronage refunds or returns distributed on a patronage basis.

(17) Any nonissuer transaction effected by or through a broker-dealer in a security of the same class that has been previously registered for general public sale under this act or to a predecessor act. This exemption shall not be available to any seller who offers for sale in this state or elsewhere 5% or more of that class of securities during any period of 12 consecutive months. This limitation shall not apply to any broker-dealer trading in the securities in the ordinary course of business and who does not at any time during the period of 12 consecutive months own directly or beneficially 5% or more of that class of securities. The administrator, if it finds such action in the public interest, by order, may withdraw or condition this exemption as to any security.

(18) The sale of securities issued by a professional service corporation formed under Act No. 192 of the Public Acts of 1962, as amended, being sections 450.221 to 450.235 of the Compiled Laws of 1948.

Denial or revocation of exemption; procedure.

(c) The administrator may by order deny or revoke any exemption specified in clause (8) or (10) of subsection (a) or in subsection (b) with respect to a specific security or transaction. No such order may be entered without appropriate prior notice to all interested parties, opportunity for hearing, and written findings of fact and conclusions of law, except that the administrator may by order summarily deny or revoke any of the specified exemptions pending final determination of any proceeding under this subsection. Upon the entry of a summary order, the administrator shall promptly notify all interested parties that it has been entered and of the reasons therefor and that within 15 days of the receipt of a written request the matter will be set down for hearing. If no hearing is requested and none is ordered by the administrator, the order will remain in effect until it is modified or vacated by the administrator. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing to all interested persons, may modify or vacate the order or extend it until final determination. No order under this subsection may operate retroactively. No person may be considered to have violated section 301 or 403 by reason of any offer or sale effected after the entry of an order under this subsection if he sustains the burden of proof that he did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the order.

Exemption or exception; burden of proof.

(d) In any proceeding under this act, the burden of proving an exemption or an exception from a definition is upon the person claiming it.

451.803 Nonexempt securities and transactions; prospectus, circular or form letter; filing, approval.

Sec. 403. The administrator may by rule or order require the filing and approval prior to use of any prospectus, pamphlet, circular, form letter, advertisement or other sales literature or advertising communication addressed or intended for distribution to prospective investors, including clients or prospective clients of an investment adviser, unless the security or transaction is exempted by section 402.

451.804 False or misleading statements unlawful.

Sec. 404. It is unlawful for any person to make or cause to be made, in any document filed with the administrator or in any proceeding under this act, any statement which is, at the time and in the light of the circumstances under which it is made, false or misleading in any material respect.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 432, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.805 Application for registration; statement, filing, effect; unlawful representations.

Sec. 405. (a) Neither (1) the fact that an application for registration under sections 201 to 204 or a registration statement under sections 301 to 306 has been filed nor (2) the fact that a person or security is effectively registered constitutes a finding by the administrator that any document filed under this act is true, complete and not misleading. Neither any such fact nor the fact that an exemption or exception is available for a security or a transaction means that the administrator has passed in any way upon the merits or qualifications of, or recommended or given approval to, any person, security or transaction.

(b) It is unlawful to make, or cause to be made, to any prospective purchaser, customer or client any representation inconsistent with subsection (a).

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 432, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

(b) It is unlawful for the administrator or any of its officers or employees to use for personal benefit any information which is filed with or obtained by the administrator and which is not made public. No provision of this act authorizes the administrator or any of its officers or employees to disclose any such information except among themselves or when necessary or appropriate in a proceeding or investigation under this act. No provision of this act either creates or derogates from any privilege which exists at common law or otherwise when documentary or other evidence is sought under a subpoena directed to the administrator or any of its officers or employees.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 433, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.807 Administration of act; investigation of violations; statements, publications.

Sec. 407. (a) The administrator in its discretion:

(1) May make such public or private investigations within or outside of this state as it deems necessary to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of this act or any rule or order hereunder, or to aid in the enforcement of this act or in the prescribing of rules and forms hereunder.

(2) May require or permit any person to file a statement in writing, under oath or otherwise as the administrator determines, as to all the facts and circumstances concerning the matter to be investigated.

(3) May publish information concerning any violation of this act or any rule or order hereunder.

(b) For the purpose of any investigation or proceeding under this act, the administrator, or any officer designated by it, may administer oaths and affirmations, subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance, take evidence and require the production of any books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, agreements or other documents or records which the administrator deems relevant or material to the inquiry.

Contumacy, refusal to obey a subpoena, contempt.

(c) In case of contumacy by, or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to, any person, the circuit court for the county of Ingham, upon application by the administrator, may issue to the person an order requiring him to appear before the administrator, or the officer designated by it, there to produce documentary evidence if so ordered or to give evidence touching the matter under investigation or in question. Failure to obey the order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt of court.

Privilege against self-incrimination, denial, immunity.

(d) No person is excused from attending and testifying or from producing any document or record before the administrator, or in obedience to the subpoena of the administrator, or any officer designated by it, or in any proceeding instituted by the administrator, on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no individual may be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he is compelled, after claiming his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that the individual testifying is not exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury or contempt committed in testifying.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 433, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.808 Violation of act; cease and desist order; injunction; restraining order; mandamus; receiver or conservator, appointment.

Sec. 408. Whenever it appears to the administrator that any person has engaged or is about to engage in any act or practice constituting a violation of any provision of this act or any rule or order hereunder, it may in its discretion issue a cease and desist order or bring an action in the circuit court for the county of Ingham to enjoin the acts or practices and to enforce compliance with this act or any rule or order hereunder. Upon a proper showing a permanent or temporary injunction, restraining order, or writ of mandamus shall be granted and a receiver or conservator may be appointed for the defendant or the defendant's assets. (b) The administrator may refer such evidence as is available concerning violations of this act or of any rule or order hereunder to the attorney general or the proper prosecuting attorney, who may, with or without such a reference, institute the appropriate criminal proceedings under this act.

(c) Nothing in this act limits the power of the state to punish any person for any conduct which constitutes a crime by statute or at common law.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 434, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.810 Offer or sale in violation of act; civil liability to buyer; damages, interest.

Sec. 410. (a) Any person who:

(1) Offers or sells a security in violation of section 201 (a), 301 or 405 (b), or of any rule or order under section 403 which requires the affirmative approval of sales literature before it is used, or of any condition imposed under section 304 (d), 305 (f) or 305 (g), or

(2) Offers or sells a security by means of any untrue statement of a material fact or any omission to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading, the buyer not knowing of the untruth or omission, and who does not sustain the burden of proof that he did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the untruth or omission.

Is liable to the person buying the security from him, who may sue either at law or in equity to recover the consideration paid for the security, together with interest at 6% per year from the date of payment, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, less the amount of any income received on the security, upon the tender of the security, or for damages if he no longer owns the security. Damages are the amount that would be recoverable upon a tender less the value of the security when the buyer disposed of it and interest at 6% per year from the date of disposition.

Joint and several liability of participants in sale; burden of proof of nonseller; contribution.

(b) Every person who directly or indirectly controls a seller liable under subsection (a), every partner, officer or director of such a seller, every person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, every employee of such a seller who materially aids in the sale, and every broker-dealer or agent who materially aids in the sale are also liable jointly and severally with and to the same extent as the seller, unless the nonseller who is so liable sustains the burden of proof that he did not know, and in exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist. There is contribution as in cases of contract among the several persons so liable.

Tender, time of making.

(c) Any tender specified in this section may be made at any time before entry of judgment.

Survival of actions.

(d) Every cause of action under this statute survives the death of any person who might have been a plaintiff or defendant.

Limitation of actions.

(e) No person may sue under this section more than 2 years after the contract of sale. No person may sue under this section (1) if the buyer received a written offer, before suit and at a time when he owned the security, to refund the consideration paid together with interest at 6% per year from the date of payment, less the amount of any income received on the security, and he failed to accept the offer within 30 days of its receipt, or (2) if the buyer received such an offer before suit and at a time when he did not own the security, unless he rejected the offer in writing within 30 days of its receipt.

Unenforceability of illegal contract.

(f) No person who has made or engaged in the performance of any contract in violation of any provision of this act or any rule or order hereunder, or who has acquired any purported right under any such contract with knowledge of the facts by reason of which its making or performance was in violation, may base any suit on the contract.

Waiver of compliance void.

(g) Any condition, stipulation or provision binding any person acquiring any security to waive compliance with any provision of this act or any rule or order hereunder is void.

Additional rights; cause of action created.

(h) The rights and remedies provided by this act are in addition to any other rights or remedies that may exist at law or in equity, but this act does not create any cause of action not specified in this section or section 202 (e).

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 434, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.811 Administrator's orders; judicial review; findings of fact conclusive; additional evidence.

Sec. 411. (a) Any person aggrieved by a final order of the administrator may obtain a review of the order in the circuit court for the county of Ingham by filing in court, within 60 days after the entry of the order, a written petition praying that the order be modified or set aside in whole or in part. A copy of the petition shall be forthwith served upon the administrator, and thereupon the administrator shall certify and file in court a copy of the filing and evidence upon which the order was entered. When these have been filed, the court has exclusive jurisdiction to affirm, modify, enforce or set aside the order, in whole or in part. The findings of the administrator as to the facts, if supported by competent, material and substantial evidence, are conclusive. If either party applies to the court for leave to adduce additional material evidence, and shows to the satisfaction of the court that there were reasonable grounds for failure to adduce the evidence in the hearing before the administrator, the court may order the additional evidence to be taken before the administrator and to be adduced upon the hearing in such manner and upon such conditions as the court considers proper. The administrator may modify its findings and order by reason of the additional evidence and shall file in court the additional evidence together with any modified or new findings or order.

Stay of administrator's orders.

(b) The commencement of proceedings under subsection (a) does not, unless specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the administrator's order.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 435, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.812 Administrator's rules, forms and orders; making, amendment, rescission; classification of securities, persons, matters.

Sec. 412. (a) The administrator may from time to time make, amend and rescind such rules, forms and orders as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, including rules and forms governing registration statements, applications and reports, and defining any terms, whether or not used in this act, insofar as the definitions are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act. For the purpose of rules and forms, the administrator may classify securities, persons and matters within its jurisdiction, and prescribe different requirements for different classes.

Public interest, protection of investors; cooperation with other securities administrators and securities and exchange commission.

(b) No rule, form or order may be made, amended or rescinded unless the administrator finds that the action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors and consistent with the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of this act. In prescribing rules and forms the administrator may cooperate with the securities administrators of the other states and the securities and exchange commission with a view to effectuating the policy of this statute to achieve maximum uniformity in the form and content of registration statements, applications and reports wherever practicable.

Financial statements, consolidated statements, certified public accountants; accounting practices.

(c) The administrator may by rule or order prescribe (1) the form and content of financial statements required under this act, (2) the circumstances under which consolidated financial statements shall be filed, and (3) whether any required financial statements shall be certified by independent or certified public accountants. All financial statements shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting practices.

Rules and forms, publication.

(d) All rules and forms of the administrator shall be published.

Action or omission in good faith in conformity with rule, form, order, subsequent amendment, rescission, or determination of invalidity.

(e) No provision of this act imposing any liability applies to any act done or omitted in good faith in conformity with any rule, form or order of the administrator, notwithstanding that the rule, form or order may later be amended or rescinded or be determined by judicial or other authority to be invalid for any reason.

Hearing, public, discretion of administrator.

(f) Every hearing in an administrative proceeding shall be public unless the administrator in its discretion grants a request joined in by all the respondents that the hearing be conducted privately.

Register of applications for registration, registration statements, and denial, suspension, or revocation orders; public inspection.

(b) The administrator shall keep a register of all applications for registration and registration statements which are or have ever been effective under this act and all denial, suspension or revocation orders which have been entered under this act. The register shall be open for public inspection.

Same; availability to public, administrator's rules.

(c) The information contained in or filed with any registration statement, application or report may be made available to the public under such rules as the administrator prescribes.

Certified copies of register entries or documents, use as evidence.

(d) Upon request and at such reasonable charges as it prescribes, the administrator shall furnish to any person photostatic or other copies, certified under its seal of office if requested, of any entry in the register or any document which is a matter of public record. In any proceeding or prosecution under this act, any copy so certified is prima facie evidence of the contents of the entry or document certified.

Interpretative opinions.

(e) The administrator in its discretion may honor requests from interested persons for interpretative opinions.

HISTORY: New 1964, p. 436, Act 265, Eff. Jan. 1, 1965.

451.814 Sale or offer to sell in state; sections applicable.

Sec. 414. (a) Sections 101, 201 (a), 301, 405 and 410 apply to persons who sell or offer to sell when (1) an offer to sell is made in this state, or (2) an offer to buy is made and accepted in this state.

Purchase or offer to buy made in this state; offer to sell made and accepted in this state; law applicable.

(b) Sections 101, 201 (a) and 405 apply to persons who buy or offer to buy when (1) an offer to buy is made in this state, or (2) an offer to sell is made and accepted in this state.

Offer to sell or to buy; when deemed made in this state.

(c) For the purpose of this section, an offer to sell or to buy is made in this state, whether or not either party is then present in this state, when the offer (1) originates from this state or (2) is directed by the offeror to this state and received at the place to which it is directed, or at any post office in this state in the case of a mailed offer.

Offer to buy or to sell; when deemed accepted in this state.

(d) For the purpose of this section, an offer to buy or to sell is accepted in this state when acceptance (1) is communicated to the offeror in this state and (2) has not previously been communicated to the offeror, orally or in writing, outside this state; and acceptance is communicated to the offeror in this state, whether or not either party is then present in this state, when the offeree directs it to the offeror in this state reasonably believing the offeror to be in this state and it is received at the place to which it is directed, or at any post office in this state in the case of a mailed acceptance.

Offer to sell or to buy; when deemed not made in this state.

(e) An offer to sell or to buy is not made in this state when (1) the publisher circulates or there is circulated on his behalf in this state any bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular and paid circulation which is not published in this state, or which is published in this state but has had more than 2/3 of its circulation outside this state during the past 12 months, or (2) a radio or television program originating outside this state is received in this state.

Investment advisers; when prohibited conduct deemed done in this state.

(f) Sections 102 and 201 (c), as well as section 405 so far as investment advisers are concerned, apply when any act instrumental in effecting prohibited conduct is done in this state, whether or not either party is then present in this state.

Irrevocable consent to service of process; effectiveness of service.

(g) Every applicant for registration under this act and every issuer which proposes to offer a security in this state through any person acting on an agency basis in the common-law sense shall file with the administrator, in such form as it by rule prescribes, an irrevocable consent appointing the administrator or its successor in office to be his attorney to receive service of any lawful process in any noncriminal suit, action or proceeding against him or his successor executor or administrator which arises under this act or any rule or order hereunder after the consent has been filed, with the same force and validity as if served personally on the person filing the consent. A person who has filed such a consent in connection with a previous registration need not file another. Service may be made by leaving a copy of the process in the office of the administrator, but it is not effective unless (1) the plaintiff, who may be the administrator in a suit, action or proceeding instituted by it, forthwith sends notice of the service and a copy of the process by registered mail to the defendant or respondent at his last address on file with the administrator, and (2) the plaintiff's affidavit of compliance with this subsection is filed in the case on or before the return day of the process, if any, or within such further time as the court allows.

Prohibited or actionable conduct; substituted service of process, effectiveness of service.

(h) When any person, including any nonresident of this state, engages in conduct prohibited or made actionable by this act or any rule or order hereunder, and he has not filed a consent to service of process under subsection (g) and personal jurisdiction over him cannot otherwise be obtained in this state, that conduct shall be considered equivalent to his appointment of the administrator or its successor in office to be his attorney to receive service of any lawful process in any noncriminal suit, action or proceeding against him or his successor executor or administrator which grows out of that conduct and which is brought under this act or any rule or order hereunder, with the same force and validity as if served on him personally. Service may be made by leaving a copy of the process in the office of the administrator, and it is not effective unless (1) the plaintiff, who may be the administrator in a suit, action or proceeding instituted by it, forthwith sends notice of the service and a copy of the process by registered mail to the defendant or respondent at his last known address or takes other steps which are reasonably calculated to give actual notice, and (2) the plaintiff's affidavit of compliance with this subsection is filed in the case on or before the return day of the process, if any, or within such further time as the court allows.

Continuance to afford opportunity to defend.

(i) When process is served under this section, the court, or the administrator in a proceeding before it, shall order such continuance as may be necessary to afford the defendant or respondent reasonable opportunity to defend.

455.20 Stockholders; map or plat of land; record; use as evidence; street, public places.

Sec. 20. If the by-laws of any such corporation shall provide that the stockholders shall be entitled to select a lot on the lands of said corporation for the purpose of building thereon, it shall be the duty of the directors to cause the lands of said company to be surveyed and platted by a civil engineer, surveyor or other competent person, and to cause a true map or plat thereof to be made. Such map or plat shall in every case be made on a scale not less than 200 feet to an inch, on sheets of good muslin backed paper 18 inches by 24 inches in size. There shall be written upon the paper on which said map or plat shall be made, a full and detailed description of the land embraced in said map or plat, showing the township and range in which such land is situated, and the sections and parts of sections platted and containing the name of the corporation which is the proprietor thereof, and of the engineer, surveyor or person making said map or plat with the date on which the same is made. The same shall be signed by such corporation by its president and secretary, and the engineer, surveyor or person making the same, and shall be witnessed and acknowledged by such proprietor in the same manner as deeds conveying lands are required to be witnessed and acknowledged. The sections and parts of sections platted shall also be designated by the lines drawn upon such map or plat with appropriate letters and figures, and in case of a subdivision of lots or blocks of a previous survey, the outlines of the original or previous lots or blocks so subdivided shall be designated by lines drawn upon such map or plat and shall be marked with appropriate letters and figures. There shall also be on such map or plat, a plain designation of the cardinal points and a correct scale.

The map or plat shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the land platted is situated. For the purpose of such recording, the said proprietor shall cause to be made by a civil engineer, surveyor or other competent person on the same scale and on paper of the same size and quality as that on which the original map or plat is drawn, an exact duplicate of said map or plat with the detailed description, signatures, witnesses and acknowledgment as above specified. When such map or plat shall conform or shall be made to conform in all respects to requirements of this act, the register and said engineer, surveyor or person who made the same shall each carefully compare said copy with said original map or plat, and if correct, or when made correct, it shall be certified by the said register and said engineer, surveyor or person who made the same, who shall certify that they have carefully compared the same with said map or plat and that it is an exact copy thereof and the whole of such original map or plat. The said register shall then securely fasten the said copy in the book provided by the laws of this state for the recording of town plats, and such copy so fastened in said book, shall be held and taken to be a record of the said map or plat with a like effect as if the said map or plat had been actually transcribed by said register in a book in his office, but in no case shall any such map or plat be recorded until it shall be made to conform to all the requirements of this act. The register shall certify on such map or plat when it was recorded as aforesaid with reference to the book or page where recorded, and shall note in such record, the time when made, and keep an index thereof the same as required by the laws of this state relating to township plats. The original map or plat with a certificate of record endorsed thereon, the record thereof made as aforesaid, or a properly certified transcript of such record shall be received in all courts of this state as prima facie evidence of the making and recording of such map or plat in conformity with the provisions of this act. For all service by this act required to be performed by a register of deeds in respect to any such map or plat brought into his office for record, said register shall be entitled to receive the sum of 2 dollars which shall be paid by the proprietor of the ground platted: Provided, That the making and recording of said plat in the manner aforesaid shall not operate or be construed to dedicate or surrender to the public in any manner whatsoever or any part or portion of the lands so platted: And provided further, That all streets, avenues, alleys, parks or public places laid out and designated on such plat, shall be and remain at all times for the common use, benefit and advantage of all of the stockholders of such company, and shall not be changed, vacated or altered except on a vote of 4/5 of the shares of stock of said corporation at a meeting duly called for that purpose.

AN ACT to provide for the extension in perpetuity or for a term of years, of the term of existence of corporations or associations, organized under Act No. 87 of acts of the legislature of the state of Michigan of 1855, approved February twelfth, 1855, entitled "An act relating to burying grounds," or under said act as amended, the corporate term of existence of which has heretofore expired, or may hereafter expire by limitation, and to fix the duties and liabilities of such renewed corporations or associations, and to repeal Act No. 154 of the Public Acts of 1893, being sections 11158 and 11159 of the Compiled Laws of 1915.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

456.51 Extension of corporate life; reorganization or incorporation; articles or certified copy as evidence; powers and duties of corporation.

Sec. 1. It shall be lawful for any corporation or association organized under Act No. 87 of the legislature of the state of Michigan, entitled "An act relating to burying grounds," approved February twelfth, 1855, or under said act as amended, whose corporate term of existence has expired, or may hereafter expire by limitation, at a special meeting of the trustees de jure or de facto of said corporation or association, called for that purpose, to direct by resolution the continuance of its corporate existence in perpetuity or for such further term as they may determine, which resolution or direction shall express the date of the commencement and the termination of said extended term, if said extension be for a term of years. Such special meeting may be called by the president or clerk of the corporation or association, whose term of existence has not expired, or by either of the persons acting as president or clerk of the corporation or association, whose term of corporate existence has expired by limitation, and notice of such meeting shall be given to all the de jure or de facto trustees of said corporation or association at least 10 days prior to the date of such meeting by delivering to each of said trustees, personally, a written or printed notice of such meeting, or by leaving such notice at the residence of such trustee. The trustees de jure or de facto of any corporation or association, the same being either a de jure or a de facto corporation, organized under Act No. 87 of the legislature of the state of Michigan, approved February twelfth, 1855, or under said act as amended, and which corporation or association has heretofore acquired and held and still holds, or which may hereafter acquire and hold land conveyed or leased to it in its corporate name, may at such special meeting determine by resolution to reorganize such corporation, or association and thereby such reorganization shall take, assume and keep the name of such corporation or association as the same has before been known, and such reorganization of such corporation or association so directed and made shall be and remain a corporation with all powers, duties and obligations of a corporation or association newly made or incorporated under said act and its amendments. Upon the adoption of such resolution, which said resolution shall have the concurrence of 2/3 of such trustees in cases where the term of existence of such corporation shall not have expired, and of 4/5 of such trustees in case the term of existence thereof shall have expired, it shall be the duty of the de jure or de facto president and clerk of such corporation or association, together with a sufficient number of the other trustees to constitute the number of trustees above required for the adoption of such resolution, to make, sign and acknowledge duplicate articles of reorganization or incorporation, in which shall be set forth the name, the object and the number and names of the trustees of the new organization, and which shall be the same as in the corporation or association to be reorganized and which shall set forth further that the purpose is to hold, keep and retain the corporate name and continue the corporate existence of the corporation in perpetuity or for a specified term when its pending term shall have expired, or in case the term of existence of such corporation or association has already expired, that the purpose is to organize anew and to take up, renew and continue the corporate existence of such corporation or association in perpetuity, or for a specified term to commence from the time of such expiration. One of such articles of reorganization shall be filed and recorded in a book kept for that purpose in the office of the county clerk of the county where such corporation or association is located, and the other to be kept by said corporation or association. Either of said duplicate articles of reorganization or a certified copy of the record of the same shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited and of the validity and existence of the said corporation or association. The corporation or association so made, reorganized or renewed shall be a corporation to all intents and purposes, having all the powers, and being subject to all the restrictions of corporations originally organized under the said act or under said act as amended, and the same shall succeed to, own and hold all the property or rights of action held, owned and had by the corporation or association which is reorganized, prior to its renewal or reorganization, and shall be liable for all its debts, liabilities, and obligations as fully and completely as if it had not been reorganized and its corporate existence had been beyond any question, both de jure and de facto: Provided, however, That no greater or additional rights, powers or privileges shall be conferred by the continuance or reorganization of any corporation or association hereunder in perpetuity than would be conferred upon such corporation or association continued or reorganized for a term of years, it being the legislative intent in permitting organizations hereunder in perpetuity to relieve such corporations or associations from the necessity of continuing or reorganizing after a limited term of years but not to confer any other or additional vested right. The officers and trustees of the corporation or association renewed or reorganized shall hold and continue in their offices until their successors shall be duly elected or appointed and qualified.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

Such special meeting may be called by the president, vice-president, treasurer or secretary of the corporation or association whose term of existence is about to expire, or by either of the persons acting as president, vice-president, treasurer, or secretary of the corporation or association whose term of corporate existence has expired by limitation, and notice of such meeting shall be given to all the directors of said corporation or association at least 10 days prior to the date of such meeting, by delivering to each of said directors, then living, personally, a written or printed notice of such meeting, or by leaving such notice at the residence of such director, or in lieu of such personal service, by publishing notice of such meeting once in each week for 3 weeks in succession, in a newspaper printed, published and circulating in the county in which said corporation or association cares for and maintains a cemetery. The board of directors of any corporation or association, the same being either a de jure or a de facto corporation, organized under said act as amended, and which corporation or association has heretofore acquired and held and still holds land conveyed or leased to it in its corporate name, may at such special meeting determine by resolution to reorganize such corporation or association and thereby such reorganization shall take, assume and keep the name of such corporation or association as the same has before been known, and such reorganization of such corporation or association so made and directed, shall be and remain a corporation with all the powers, duties and obligations of a corporation or association newly made or organized under said act and its amendments. Upon the adoption of such resolution, which said resolution shall have the concurrence of a majority of such directors in cases where the term of existence of such corporation shall not have expired, and the concurrence of a majority of the directors present at such meeting and not less than 3 in number in case the term of the existence thereof shall have expired, it shall be the duty of the officers of such corporation or association present at such meeting, together with a sufficient number of other directors to constitute the above required number, to make, sign and acknowledge duplicate articles of association or incorporation, in which shall be set forth the amount of land owned by such corporation or association whose term of existence is about to expire or has expired by limitation, and the county or town in which it is situated, the amount of capital theretofore subscribed for and the number of shares into which the same is divided, the name of the new organization, which shall be the same as that of the corporation or association to be replaced or succeeded, the number of persons who shall constitute the board of directors thereafter, being not less than 5 nor more than 13, the names of those who shall constitute the first board of directors, and the name of the first treasurer, the names of those owning shares in such former corporation or association by subscription, assignment or otherwise, and the number of shares owned by each, as far as shown by the books of the old corporation or association. Said articles shall further set forth that the corporation is to hold, keep and retain the corporate name and continue the corporate existence of the corporation whose term is about to expire, or in case the term of existence of such corporation or association has already expired, that the purpose is to organize anew, and to take up, renew and continue the corporate existence of such corporation or association for a term not exceeding 30 years from the date of such expiration. One of such articles of reorganization shall be filed and recorded in a book kept for that purpose in the office of the county clerk of the county where such corporation or association is located, and the other to be kept by such corporation or association. Either of said duplicate articles of reorganization, or a certified copy of the record of the same shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited, and of the validity and existence of the said corporation or association. The corporation or association so made, reorganized or renewed, shall be a corporation to all intents and purposes, having all the powers, and being subject to all the restrictions of the corporation originally organized under said act, or under said act as amended, and the same shall succeed to, own and hold all the property or rights of action held, owned and had by the corporation or association which it succeeds prior to its renewal or reorganization, and shall be liable for all its debts, liabilities and obligations as fully and completely as if its former corporate term had not expired, and its corporate existence had been beyond any question, both de jure and de facto.
